CABINET FEARS OPEN RUPTURE WITH JAPAN

Following Lengthy Session to Discuss Ambassador's Demand, Member Tells the Associated Press That the Situation Is Grave and Must Be Handled Delicately.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Today's Cabinet meeting lasted two and one-half hours, and was attended by all the members except Secretary Shaw and Postmaster-General Cortelyou. Among the important matters discused was the situation growing out of the anti-American sentiment in Japan and the exclusion of Japanese children from the public schools of San Francisco.

It was stated by a member of the Cabinet after the meeting that the general opinion of the members was that the Japanese situation is exceedingly grave, and will require the most delicate treatment to avoid an open rupture.

Japan's attitude was pretty plainly stated to Secretary Root yesterday by Ambasador Aoki, who, on behalf of the Mikado's Government, formally demanded that all Japanese in California be given their full rights under the treaty of 1894. This would mean the reinstatement of the Japanese children excluded from the schools of San Francisco.

Ambassador Ooki went over the situation exhaustively with Secretary Root. He pointed out that the feeling in Japan was very high, and that the action of the San Francisco authorities, while local in its application, was of really national importance, inasmuch as it was interpreted in Japan as an indication of the sentiment of the American people toward the Japanese subjects in the United States.

While he regretted that there had been, perhaps, a misunderstanding on the part of the Japanese people, the Ambassador admitted that personally he considered the action of the San Francisco authorities as a "great indignity," and one that was bitterly resented by every Japanese.

As a matter of fact, Japan considers the San Francisco incident in the light of an actual violation of the treaty of 1894. This lends a seriousness to the situation which the Cabinet members thoroughly appreciate. While neither the Cabinet nor the State Department can be expected to admit that there has been any violation of the treaty terms, it is known that they consider Japan's protest well founded.

At the same time, Secretary Root has intimated to Ambassador Aoki that this country expects Japan to apprehend and punish those of her people who have been engaged in the poaching of seals in Alaskan waters, and who have not been caught by the United States authorities. Japan has made no protest, it is said officially, against the killing of the Japanese recently caught in the act of poaching, and who resisted arrest. Secretary Hanihara of the Japanese Embassy, who went from this city to investigate the matter, and who has recently returned, has made a verbal report to Ambassador Aoki, but not a formal report, it is said.

As the Ambassador has made no formal protest to the State Department against the killing of the poachers, it is taken for granted that the erbal report was against the Japanese. It is expected that the State Department will also ask for a cash indemnity for the seals killed by the poachers.

CLOUDS, NORTH WINDS, COOLER

Weather Will Become More Wintry Saturday.

SHALL WE FIGHT THE JAPS?
STRAW

The weather is not going to be quite so fine Saturday. Clouds will obscure the bright sun at times and the temperature will fall some.

The official forecast for Friday: "Partly cloudy tonight and Saturday; cooler Saturday; southwest winds, shifting to northwesterly."

The temperature has been decidedly higher in the Mississippi Valley, in Colorado, Idaho and along the North Pacific.

Showers have fallen in Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana, due to a storm center near Duluth. Rain has fallen on the North Pacific. Fair weather prevails in other parts of the country.

BELIEVES POLE IS FOUND.

Mrs. Peary Thinks Husband Has Succeeded at Last.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 26.—Mrs. Robert E. Peary, wife of Commander Robert E. Peary, arrived in Portland from her summer home on Eagle Island, Casco Bay. She seemed inspired with an implicit confidence with the ultimate success of her husband in discovering the North Pole. To a Post-Dispatch correspondent she said:

"I am sure as I am that I am alive this moment, that my husband will reach the pole. I do not expect to hear from him before November, however. I see but one thing that may prevent him from returning alive, and that is disease amongst his dogs. If he should lose them he would have no means of transportation."

"PRODIGIES ARE IDIOTS."

Iowa Professor Not Believed by Mothers He Addressed.

DES MOINES, Io., Oct. 26.—"Infant prodigies are idiots," declared Prof. F. Ely of the chair of nervous disease at Drake University before the Iowa Mothers' Congress. A chorus of "oh's" and "ah's" from the lips of half a hundred doting mothers whose children they believed were prodigies and who did not believe a word the doctor said, greeted the remarks.

"It is better to be the sluggish, plodding man with the hoe than the long-haired, sensuous man with the bow," continued the doctor. "Music and art are fine things when diluted with a little football and a little wholesome reading and sleep, but the man whose faculties are developed in one direction only, cannot fail to be unstable and a crank."

BANDIT FIRES ON CITIZENS AS BANK IS ROBBED

ODIN, Ill., Oct. 26.—While one of their men stood guard in front of the building, firing at every person who approached, four or five unmasked robbers blew the safe in the Bank of Odin, between 2 and 2:30 a. m. today, obtained several thousand dollars and then escaped to the north.

Sheriff James Smith of Salem and Marshal William Murray of Odin are leading a posse of 15 or 20 citizens with bloodhounds, which left at daylight in search of the bandits.

The first attempt of the robbers to blow the safe was unsuccessful and the explosions brought Edward A. Parks, night operator for the Bell Telephone Co., to the scene. He ran from the telephone building, which is only two blocks from the bank, but was halted by the guard, who fired at him. Parks emptied his revolver at the lookout and then ran back to the telephone office.

Arnold Jacobs, night operator for the B. & O. Railroad, was aroused by the explosion and left his tower, which is also two blocks from the bank. He told Robert Lockhart, night station agent for the B. & O. Railroad, and the two started out with weapons. On the platform of the station they were halted by the robbers' guard, who immediately opened fire.

Jacobs and Lockhart fired, but were warned by the guard to retreat or they would be killed. Jacobs went to the tower to get more shells for his shotgun, but when he started out of the tower again the guard fired and he was compelled to seek protection.

Jacobs fired his shotgun from the tower window to awaken the citizens and Marshal Murray soon appeared. The guard fired at Murray and the bullet went through a building, shattering a mirror in a saloon.

A. Parks, a jeweler, who lives two doors from the bank, left his home, but was stopped by the shots of the robbers' lookout. J. F. Sugg, a merchant, aroused President W. H. Farthing of the bank, but they, too, were made to retreat.

Second Charge Wrecks Safe.

While the guard was firing at the citizens, the men in the bank had prepared the second charge and the explosion this time wrecked the safe and shook adjoining buildings. The bandits obtained their booty, and, joined by the lookout, escaped from the rear door.

Citizens made a hasty examination of the bank, but the officials of the institution refused to say how much money had been taken. It is said, however, the total loss will be about $6000.

Shelbyville was immediately wired for bloodhounds, and Sheriff Smith of Salem, the county seat of Marion County, was told of the robbery. The Sheriff and the dogs arrived here at daylight and the posse was soon organized. There are heavy woods to the north and the searchers are expected to encounter much trouble, even if they overtake the bandits.

Odin has 1400 inhabitants and is 65 miles from St. Louis on the B. & O. Railroad. The Bank of Odin is the only one here and has liabilities of $150,000.

CAN'T MARRY DIVORCEES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—At the meeting last night of the Union American Methodist Episcopal conference which is in session here, the Committee on Divorce brought in a report forbidding any pastor in the connection marrying divorced persons. The resolution was passed unanimously by the general conference.

The measure provides that any pastor in the connection who is accused of marrying divorced persons will be tried according to the discipline of the church and if found guilty will be expelled from the organization.

PROSECUTOR SAYS RENAULT SHIELDS SLAYER

HE EXAMINES A NUMBER

FARMERS ARE AROUSED

By a Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.

WATERLOO, Ill., Oct. 26.—State's Attorney Roy E. Gauen said to a Post-Dispatch correspondent this afternoon that he was confident Renault persons were trying to shield the slayer or slayers of Anton Merlenbach, the farmer who died at his home southwest of Renault last Friday night, three days after being struck by a stone.

Mr. Gauen's declaration was made immediately on his return to Waterloo from Renault, where he spent a greater part of Thursday night examining a number of persons in an effort to learn who killed Merlenbach. Mr. Gauen had the witnesses sworn before a justice of the peace and put them through rigid questioning.

Sheriff Ruch accompanied the Prosecutor to Renault, and both will return there Monday. Then, the State's Attorney said, there probably will be several arrests. Mr. Gauen went to Renault yesterday from Springfield, where he has been undergoing treatment for his eyes, and, after a hurried investigation, gave it as his opinion that two men probably had followed Merlenbach a week ago Tuesday night and thrown the stone which caused his death.

Cchultz Carried a Rope.

John Bostwick, a member of the Town Board of Renault, and several others who were with Merlenbach in the saloon of Theodore Burkhardt on the night of the fatal attack, testified before the State's Attorney that they had warned Merlenbach that the whitecaps would get him. Merlenbach, they testified, said he didn't care.

Schultz Carried a Rope.

John Schultz, who denied at the Coroner's inquest that he knew anything of the attack, testified that he knocked on the window of the saloon while Merlenbach was there last Tuesday night, and later entered the saloon with his coat turned wrong side out and a handkerchief over his face. He had a rope, too, he said, but he denied to the State's Attorney that he touched Merlenbach. He said he left the saloon about 9:15 and was in bed a few minutes afterward. Other witnesses testified that Schultz was in Burkhardt's saloon as late as 10 o'clock.

Fred Hendricks testified at the inquest that he was with Merlenbach shortly before his death, and that Merlenbach had told him that John Schultz was one of the men who attacked him.

Mrs. Theodore Burkhurdt, wife of the saloon keeper, was the only woman examined by Mr. Gauen. She was a reluctant witness at first, but finally turned to her husband with the exclamation, "Well, Theodore, I guess I had better tell the story."

"Yes, tell the story," said the husband.

Mrs. Burkhurdt then testified that she and her husband live over the saloon and that on the night of the attack she heard unusual noises in and around the saloon. When she went to the porch she saw several groups of young men near the saloon. Her husband soon came out, smoking a cigar, and when she asked him to come in he said, "The boys are going to have some fun and I want to see it." She then went in the house, she said.

"Wanted to See Fun."

Theodore Burkhardt testified that when he was ready to close his saloon Henry Burkhardt and Silas Winn came in and asked for a drink immediately, giving as their reason that they wanted to see the "boys fun." He waited on them and they departed.

Henry Burkhardt testified that he startde toward th Deschner corner, where Merlenbach was attacked, after leaving the saloon with Winn. The latter was behind. As he neared the corner, Burkhardt said, he heard rocks whizzing by and ducked his head. Finally he heard a rock strike either Merlenbach or his wagon, which was going faster each minute. As the rock struck, Merlenbach exclaimed, "I'll get you fellows."

Burkhardt stopped then, he said, and with Winn went to the house of John Burkhardt, in front of which Merlenbach was calling for help. Afterward Merlenbach was taken by Winn and Burkhardt to the office of Dr. S. F. Dougless.

William Tessman said he was in the saloon when Merlenbach was there, but knew nothing of the attack. He said, however, that Merlenbach cintinually appeared to him in dreams that night.

Though the authorities seem to think there is no band of whitecaps, many farmers are aroused over the attack on Merlenbach, and, in the language of one of them, "the county is stirred up and will take action." A farmer came to Renault yesterday and told a crowd at Theodore Burkhardt's saloon that as the news of Merlenbach's death had reached the farmers they had begun to believe that there were whitecaps in the county and were determined to exterminate them.

Coroner A. G. Wilhelmj of Maeystown told the correspondent that, in his belief, there were no whitecaps in Monroe County. He said crowds had long been accustomed to "tease" every intoxicated man who came to Renault. This teasing sometimes was violent, he admitted, but he said it was all done in a joking manner.

C. S. Deschner, in front of whose home Merlenbach was attacked, said this crowd of "teasers" had formerly been referred to jocularly as Whitecaps. He told of the ducking in the millpond sometime ago of a shoemaker named Brandt.

Mrs. Deschner said she left her home about 9 o'clock on the night of the attack for the store a block away and met Merlenbach, who was walking toward his wagon. She said he called to someone in a manner to indicate he was being followed.

The Town Board of Renault met last night and denounced the killing of Merlenbach. A reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of the slayer or slayers was offered by the village trustees. The total reward now is $300, Gov. Deneen having offered the customary $200.

R. R. OFFICIAL ALSO MANAGER OF ELEVATOR

Commerce Commission Learns That St. Paul's Vice-President Has Two Jobs.

HE HELPED FIX RATES

LITTLE ONES NOT TOLD

But Witness Thought They Obtained the Information From the Newspapers.

DES MOINES, Io., Oct. 26.—J. T. Hiland, third vice-president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, spent the entire forenoon on the witness stand today before Commissioners Lane and Clark of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The questions that were put to him and his responses were mostly as to the relations of the Milwaukee to the Simonds-Shields Grain Co. of Kansas City.

The testimony brought out the fact that Shields is employed as superintendent or manager of the elevator at Kansas City at a salary of $3000 a year, and that as agent of the company he is taken into consultation in matters of rates.

Mr. Hiland sought to show that Mr. Shields was not favored above other shippers, but admitted that it was the policy of the road to consult and notify by wire large shippers of all raw material of changes in rates, though he thought the smaller shippers got the information about as promptly through the newspapers.

Mr. Hiland testified that the change from leasing the Kansas City elevator to the Simonds-Shields Grain Co. When they allowed the company 1¼ cents a hundred for handling grain to employing Shields as manager was made at the instigation of the law department of the road, which thought they would be more nearly conforming to the law, and that now the Simonds-Shields company ships from 75 to 90 per cent of all the grain going through the elevator.

Mr. Hiland was asked to explain the withdrawal of the export rate on corn a year ago, and the withdrawal of the special rate on wheat, in August, and in the responses it was brought out each time that Shields knew of the changes.

POLITICIAN CANNOT VOTE.

Former State Senator Has Trouble Over Naturalization.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 26.—Former State Senator Wm. Flinn, once a prominent figure in State politics, has lost his right to vote at the November election, according to a decision of the Pittsburg Board of Registration Commissioners filed this morning. Senator Flinn was born in England and when he registered under the personal registration act he did not present his father's naturalization papers as required by law.

His influence in the politics and finance of the city persuaded the district board to allow him to register, but the commissioners ordered his name stricken off. Senator Flinn will appeal to the courts for redress.

James Scott, father-in-law of Frederick Cole Fairbanks, son of the Vice-President, whose name was also stricken off the lists, will join in the Flinn appeal.

GOVERNMENT MEAT MARKET.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 26.—The Meat Trust having raised prices to a figure almost prohibitive for the poor, the Governor of the Federal district will open stalls in the markets where wholesome meat will be sold at the usual figure or lower, if necessary, to conquer the trust.

The Government has employed expert cattle buyers and butchers and will go into the business on a large scale.

MR AND MRS JULIUS HIENIS.

STAR BOARDER SAT AT HEAD OF TABLE; HUSBAND AT FOOT

Man Sued for Divorce Counters With Suit for Alleged Alienation of Affection—Says Wife Told Him to Get a Trunk, Move Away and Marry Somebody Else.

FRED J. VOEPEL was a "friend of the family" for five years and star boarder for one year in the household of Julius Hienis and wife, at 4828A Easton avenue, according to Hienis. Voepel's alleged attentions to Mrs. Hienis resulted in her suit for divorce and her husband's suit for $5000 damages against Voepel, on the ground of alleged alienation of affections.

Hienis, in the suit, filed Thursday, alleges that Voepel influenced Mrs. Hienis against her husband, diverted her affection and counseled her to leave Hienis and to apply for divorce.

Hienis said Friday to a Post-Dispatch reporter: "My wife left me Aug. 27 and went to live with her parents at 2510 North Tenth street.

Voepel Carved the Roast.

"Voepel even sat at the head of the table, where I rightfully belonged. During the year he lived here he cut the meat at the table, and I took what he gave me. It seemed as though he, and not I, was boss of the house.

"Just before my wife went away she said, 'Julius, if you saw a rich, pretty girl and you had a chance to marry her, what would you do? Wouldn't you marry her?' 'No, that's not my principle,' I told her.

"She said, 'Julius, when you see a pretty girl, you love, I want you to marry her. I intend to marry as soon as I get a divorce. Then you get married and you can call on us. We can't afford to part as enemies.'

"'Annie,' I said, 'what are you talking about? You going to leave me like that?' She said: 'Julius, you've been a good man; you have given me your money, but you are a quiet man and I am a jolly young woman. I like entertainment and like to go places.'

"'Anna, Anna!' I said, 'how can you be such a woman?'

"So that's the way she left me. Then there was a $100 butcher bill from Voepel's store. That was a big bill for a man that works every day, never misses a day. I told Voepel I must have an itemized bill. He threatened to sue me. Then my wife told me Voepel would give me a hundred dollars for the furniture and take the butcher bill off. I think they wanted to put me out of my own house. I didn't sell the furniture. I have it yet.

Told Him to Get Trunk.

"Then another time, before my wife left, she said: 'Julius, you get you a trunk to put your clothes in. I'm going to pack up the furniture and I want some place to put your clothes.'

"I didn't have money for a trunk, and she told me to go to my boss. I went to my boss with tears in my eyes—I was crying like a baby. I says: 'John, I've got no money, but I want you to get me a trunk.' 'What's the matter, Julius?' the boss asked me and I said: 'John, my wife is making me get a trunk for my clothes; she is going to move.' Then while I'm telling the boss, I cry so much I can't tell him any more.'

"One time Fred's uncle asked me why I didn't shoot somebody. I told him I was a peaceable man and if I couldn't get satisfaction some other way, I would go without it.

"It got so bad last February I did refuse to eat at home for four days, not 10 days—I admit it."

Voepel Her "Relation."

Mrs. Hienis, when seen at her mother's home, was in a laughing mood. She laughed heartily when told of the suit brought by her husband against Voepel.

"Nothing to it at all. Mr. Voepel is a friend of the family—a very dear friend of the family. He has been very kind to us all. Yes, oh, yes, we frequently went out together, but my mother or sister was always along. Julius urged us to go often. Why, I was just like a child to Mr. Voepel. He's just a very dear friend of the family.

"You know he's related. My father's sister married Voepel's brother, John D. Voepel. What relation? No blood relation. But I first met him at my aunt's house. He has been very kind since. He is quite a little older than I, you know."

Drinking Spoils Home.

Mrs. Hienis in her divorce petition says her husband cursed her, that in February he refused to eat at home for ten days. He frequently came home late, she says, and refused to tell where he had been and accused her of misconduct.

Of these allegations she said: "We had been married only three weeks when he struck me. He would come in late at night and when I'd ask him where he'd been, he'd say it was none of my business. He did not provide well for me, and made false accusations. I stood it as long as I could.

"Mr. Voepel is a gentleman. When I was sick with the typhoid fever, he made more inquiries about me than my husband.

"You can't run a house properly when the man drinks. Julius drank too much.

"I intend to keep the custody of Amy, our 7-year-old girl, and I am going to fight for divorce. I do not mean to marry anyone. I have had enough of matrimony."

Voepel was seen in his rooms over his grocery and butcher shop at 4874 Easton avenue. He said:

"I have been Hienis' friend for five years. I got him the job he now has. I furnished him money to move where he now lives. I sent him a bill for $100, including some of these money advances. He has to find an excuse not to pay it, I suppose, and so brings this suit against me.

"Julius often told us to go out. He would say he couldn't go and would ask me to take his wife to the theater. We never went out together unaccompanied by a third person.

"About that furniture, he sent a man up himself trying to sell it to me. I didn't want it, but I suppose I should have bought it to sell and get part of my $100 out of it. That's business.

"If Julius ever had a friend, it is I. I have told Mrs. Hienis more than once she'd be sorry if she left Julius. I kept her from going once. I have befriended Julius, and now he doesn't appreciate it."

SETS GAMBLER TO FLEECE GAMBLER; LOSS TURNS GAIN

Captain William Leyhe of the Steamboat Cape Giardeau, and Steward Henry Sherman Lost $90 to the Trio of Card Sharps Who Traveled on Their Boat One Trip.

HELD UP ACE AND TEN AND DREW THREE ACES

Friend Posed as Arkansas Banker Looking Over Real Estate, Joined in the Game and by Means of Marked Cards Won All the Cash the "Tinhorns" Had.

Capt. William Leyhe of the steamer Cape Girardeau, which arrived at St. Louis Friday morning, is telling a story of how he and his steward, Henry Sherman, turned the tables and cleaned up three poker sharps who had worked the deck so cleverly on a previous trip that Leyhe and Sherman were losers to the amount of $90.

Not only did they recoup their losses on the second trip, but they fleeced the gamblers out of every cent they had. The captain and steward were net winners $180. The three gamblers who more than met their match are said to live in Alton, but their real names are not known to any members of the steamboat crew.

When Capt. Leyhe and Steward Sherman realized that they had been the victims of professional gamblers, who had probably used marked cards, they set about to find a way to beat them at their own game. The gamblers were invited to make a second trip on the boat, which they accepted. Steward Sherman, who has been steamboating over all the waterways of the country, happened to know a gambler by the name of Owens, who, he said, could make the three gamblers look like deuces in dirty decks.

Sherman succeeded in finding Owens before the boat was scheduled to leave on the next trip. He went down to the river pretending to be a stranger, and let it be known casually that he was an Arkansas banker who had been attending the convention in St. Louis. He said he was going to Cape Girardeau to look at some farm land near the town that had been offered to him at a bargain.

The gamblers soon "spotted" the "Arkansas banker" as an easy mark, and invited him to join in a small game of draw, with a 25-cent limit, which was afterwards increased to table stakes. Capt. Leyhe and Sherman finally got into the game. This was simply done to give Owens an opportunity to study their tricks. He lost a few dollars on the down-river trip, and at Cape Girardeau told Leyhe and Sherman that the three gamblers were tough propositions.

Gambler Marked Cards.

"I have my brushes and ink with me, Captain," he said, "and if you will find me a quiet place to do a little work with about 20 decks of cards we'll have their money, diamonds and everything else they've got before we get back to St. Louis."

Owens went up to the Captain's private rooms and worked for hours over the cards. He had them all marked before the boat started up the river on the return trip.

Then he outlined to them the details of his plans to fleece the gamblers at their own game. He said that he was not going to win any money himself, but would fix things so that Leyhe and Sherman would have the delightful experience of cleaning up the fellows who had victimized them. He drilled the two men in a set of signals, which he wanted them to understand perfectly.

There was one sign to open a jackpot, another when to call, another when to raise and another when to stay out, all so cleverly devised that it would be almost impossible for an opponent to catch on. He gave them particular instructions regarding the opening of the jackpot, and told them, when they got the sign, to open the pot, no matter what they had in their hands and to draw three cards.

Owens had made such a careful study of the methods of the card sharps on the down-river trip that he was able to explain them in detail.

Were Expert Dealers.

"They have the cards marked, and deal from the bottom as well as the top," he said. "They have their coat sleeves lined with fur so that they can slip the cards up and down as they please. If you observed closely every time one of the party sneezed the cards he wanted would fall from his sleeve. Of course," he added. "I suppose you didn't see that, because it takes a professional who is wise to all the tricks of the game to detect such things."

The steamer left Cape Girardeau before nightfall, and when darkness came on was puffing up against the strong current. The game was arranged in a quiet part of the boat. Long before bedtime the sharps had lost every penny they had.

"Never in all my life," said Capt. Lehye in describing the game, "did Sherman or myself hold such hands. Upon getting a signal from Owens to open the pot on a pair of threes I would obey instructions, draw three cards and throw them out of the winbeat a big full.

"Another time I got the signal to stay in. I held up an ace and a ten and got three more aces. That was too much for me and I threw my hand down without calling and walked out on the deck to get a breath of fresh air. That was such a draw that I could hardly believe my own eyes when I saw the cards. Sherman got the same kind of hands.

Sharps Could Not Understand.

"It wasn't any wonder that we broke the gamblers. You ought to have seen the expression on their faces. After each big 'killing' they would tear up the cards and throw them out of the window, suspecting that the deck had been tampered with. Then they would call for another deck.

"It mattered not how closely they inspected the cards they could detect nothing wrong. They must have thrown away a dozen decks, but Owens had prepared for them so well that there wasn't a chance in a million for them to discover the secrets.

"After they threw up their hands they went out to the barroom and got a new deck of cards. It happened that the bartenders had just changed watches and they got a deck that had not been marked by Owens. They took it out and played a game of euchre, just as an excuse for making a closer inspection of the cards. I don't suppose they knew how the trick had been worked, but they were convinced that somebody on the other side of the house knew more about the tricks of the game than they did.

"They never did learn that Owens, who to them was only a country banker from Arkansas, was about the smoothest proposition in the gambling world. I have never seen his equal.

Sharpers Had No Show.

"He sat there and played with apparent unconcern. But he knew every moment of the time what was going on, and when he gave the signals we landed heavily on the sharpers who had us as much at their mercy a few nights previous as Owens now had them.

Capt. Leyhe said that when the three gamblers left the boat they headed straight for the bridge, and he supposed they made their way to Alton. While Owens won nothing, having made the trip to show his friend, Sherman how easily he could clean up crooked gamblers at their own game, yet he was handsomely rewarded by Capt. Leyhe and Sherman.

Capt. Leyhe says there is very little gambling on the river steamboats nowadays. He says that there is just an occasional game played, and that he seldom tries his skill at poker. Once in awhile a band of professional gamblers make trips on different boats, but it is not often that they find easy victims.

UTES CONTINUE TO RAID HERDS; STILL IN CAMP

GILLETTE, Wyo., Oct. 26.—The roaming Utes who have defied the State of Wyoming and the United States soldiers are still encamped 75 miles north of here on the Little Powder River. Six troops of United States cavalry, under Col. Rodgers, are now marching overland from Fort Meade, S. D. Two troops of the Tenth Cavalry from Fort Robinson, Neb., are already here seeking to protect the settlers.

The soldiers, however, have orders not to shoot unless absolutely necessary. The reinforcements from Fort Meade are not expected to arrive before Sunday.

Should a clash occur, a repetition of Wounded Knee is feared.

The stolid refusal of the Indians to return to their reservation is partially explained by a Sioux Indian who came to town today after a few days' hunting along the Little Powder River. He says he visited the Utes in their camp and they told him that they had sent runners out to all the tribes of the Southern and Northern Sioux.

To the Sioux the Utes made the proposition that if permitted to live upon their reservations they would humiliate themselves and become servants of the Sioux.

The Southern Sioux rejected the proposition, saying the Government would not permit it. The Northern Sioux, however, looked with favor on the plan and told the Utes they could come to the reservation if they liked, regardless of what Uncle Sam might say.

With that understanding the Utes are working their way north, intending to get to the Fort Bertholdt Agency in North Dakota.

The Indian band is being increased by the accession of small bands which had become detached from the main body during its stay on the Northern Wyoming. The presence of the soldiers has induced the stragglers to rejoin the camp.

The Utes continue to raid the herds on the range and killing sheep and cattle in large numbers. As most of the food of these Indians is meat, it takes several animals each day to appease their appetites. An unconfirmed report reached town that five cowboys had been killed. No names are given, however, and it has been impossible to confirm the rumor.

BUSINESS MAN LOST HIS GRIP, SHOT HIMSELF

GAVE LIFE FOR FRIENDS

William Walsh, after writing a note to his wife referring to this Scriptural passage, and another note to a friend asking him to see that Mrs. Walsh obtained his life insurance and pension, shot himself to death in the chapel of the Elks' clubrooms. He had passed the biblical three score and ten by one year, and had at one time been a member of the famous jewelry firm of Merrick, Walsh & Phelps. Later he met financial reverses which reduced him to a salesman on a small salary.

That the act was prompted by desire to put Mrs. Walsh into easier circumstances financially is the belief of friends of the family.

Walsh was chaplain of the local lodge of Elks, and customarily spent part of his afternoons and evenings at the clubrooms. At 4 p. m. Thursday he joined Col. C. D. Comfort, Capt. A. J. Jacobs, John A. Sohns and Albert Knell at the club, and chatted with them an hour. They did not observe anything unusual about his demeanor. Sohns asked him to take a drink shortly before 6 o'clock, but he declined with a smile, and left his companions.

Body Found Lying on Chairs.

John Sampels, an Elk, who is a member of the Garrick Theater orchestra, was accompanying three members of the Veronique company through the clubrooms an hour later when, on throwing open the door to the chapel, he saw a figure lying across two chairs on the east side of the room. The pose was natural, and Samuels thought the man was asleep.

"There's an Elk dead to the world," he said, laughing, and advanced from the doorway, on the west side of the room, toward Walsh. The others in the party, laughing merrily, followed, determined to awaken the sleeper.

As Samuels advanced he saw the revolver lying on the floor, and saw that part of the gray hair was crimson.

"You mustn't come here," he said, quickly turning to his companions. But they had already seen enough to tell them what had happened, and they turned with white faces to leave the room.

Jules Bertero, secretary of the club, identified the body. Above where it lay was a big painting of the e d r B o as Iago and paintings and portraits of other eminent tragedians hung about the walls staring with fixed eyes upon the scene of death.

On the chair beside the body two notes were found. The first was to Mrs. Walsh, and read:

"My Darling Wife—God bless you. It is God's will. Consult Jules Bertero, Elks' secretary, for assistance and advice.

"Send love to P. Kaercher, and pay him and others what I owe them. Amen."

The other note was to Bertero, as follows: "Dear Jules—Kindly advise and assist my dear wife in her present trouble and in getting my life insurance an pension. Pension Agent, Hequembourg 411 Olive street. Give my love to all th boys. Amen."

A postscript asked that I. M. Bixler of 1392 Union avenue be notified.

Bullet Through Brain.

Walsh had placed the revolver just above his right ear, and the bullet passed entirely through his brain, emerging at the top of the skull and scarring the wall. No one in the clubrooms heard the shot. The chapel is at the extreme east end of the suite and the members who were there at the time were in rooms some distance from it.

The body was taken to the Morgue. Capt. E. V. Walsh, a son, was called there, but did not enter, saying that he had felt a horror of such places since childhood. The body was taken later to the rooms of an undertaker.

In a pocketbook found on Walsh's person was a bank-book, which showed a balance of about two hundred dollars in the Fourth National Bank. This was practically the only remnant of what was once a comfortable fortune. Walsh was at one time one of the most successful jewelers in St. Louis. He was made secretary of the firm of Merrick, Walsh & Phelps chiefly on account of his wide reputation, and held that position until the firm was absorbed five years ago by what is now the Mermod, Jaccard & King Co.

Walsh lost heavily in this deal. Peter Kaercher of Belleville, for 36 years a close friend of Walsh, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that the loss was due to the perfidy of a business associate. This is corroborated by Bertero, who says Walsh told him of the deal only a short time before committing suicide.

Ended Life to Help Family.

After the firm went out of business Walsh became a jewelry salesman. He went from one company to another, his salary gradually decreasing. Last March he was employed by Hess & Culbertson, and worked there until his death. Samuel E. Bamber, a salesman there, who was formerly employed by Merrick, Walsh & Phelps, said of Walsh's death:

"It is quite possible that he killed himself in order that his family might have his insurance. His business affairs had gone from bad to worse. He seemed to lose his grip, and couldn't hold his own as a salesman. But his disposition was naturally cheerful, and he continued to belong to the same clubs as of old. It was a surprise to me when I heard he had committed suicide."

Bamber was unable to say how much insurance Walsh carried, and Bertero, who was appointed in the notes to attend to this matter, is also ignorant of the amount. Capt. Walsh carried several thousand dollars. He expressed great surprise at the suicide and affection for Walsh, who was familiarly called "Uncle Billy" at the clubrooms.

Hequembourg, the pension agent, says Capt. Walsh would have collected three months' pension, at $12 a month, Nov. 4. His widow will get this only to the date of the death. The pension was for disabilities resulting from Walsh's services as a soldier in the Civil War.

Friends Not Surprised.

Kaercher, after saying that the loss of Walsh's fortune was due to a business associate, declared that he was not at all surprised at the suicide. Things Walsh had said and done had led him to believe such a thing might happen, although he says Walsh never openly threatened to end his life.

Capt. Walsh is inclined to attribute the act to an illness his father suffered last winter. He has never been the same since that time, Capt. Walsh says, although his mind has been clear and he has not been subject to moroseness or pronounced melancholia.

Walsh was born in Quebec, Canada, July 14, 1835, and came to St. Louis in 1865. In the Civil War he was a member of the Fifteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry. He belonged to the G. A. R., the Knights Templar, the Mystic Shriners and the Elks. The funeral will probably take place Sunday at the home, 1390 Union boulevard.

CLUB PROPERTY TAKEN.

Beer Principal Asset of Kirkwood Organization.

The Rose Hill Pastime Athletic Club of Kirkwood surrendered Friday morning, and its paraphernalia and furnishings were hauled to Clayton. They will be sold at auction in an effort to satisfy the fine of $500 imposed for lid violations. The furnishings consist of a pair of Indian clubs, some beer, a set of boxing gloves, more beer, a checker board, beer, a pool table, several bottles of whisky, a case of beer and various other liquids intended for beverages.

The checker board is in excellent condition, though some of the markers used in athletic contests on the little squares are missing. The articles have been stored alongside the furnishings of the Kirkwood Social Athletic Club, which were seized Wednesday. The Rose Hill Pastime Athletic Club managers resisted when the first effort was made to serve the execution, but withdrew opposition Friday.

This leaves the Meramec Rod and Gun Club as the sole Kirkwood survivor. This organization was also fined $500 on charges of lifting the lid, but an appeal was taken.

CRACKSMEN GET $2700 WITHOUT WAKING VILLAGE

DOOR BLOWN TEN FEET

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 26.—Robbers obtained $2700 in cash, the total amount in the vault of the Bank of Jamestown, Moniteau County, last night by blowing open the safe and escaped with their booty, undiscovered.

The robbery was first known at 8 a. m. today when Cashier A. D. Meyers entered the bank and found the vault a total wreck. There is no clew to the identity of the robbers.

The bank building is located among the few mercantile establishments of the town and no one sleeps in or near the building at night. The safe gives evidence that a heavy charge of explosives must have been used, as it is totally wrecked. The noise of the explosion was not heard by a resident of the town.

When Cashier Meyers went to the building this morning to open for the day's business he found the front door locked. Stepping behind the counter, he found the safe door lying ten feet from the safe and the entire contents of the vault were gone.

Meyers found several flour sacks stolen from a mill, not far from the bank, lying on the floor. They had evidently been used to deaden the sound of the explosion. The robbers are thought to have had with them all the tools necessary for their work, as blacksmith shops of the town had not been robbed.

Jamestown is an inland-town, and the robbers must have ridden in on horses. No reports of the theft of horses from farmers have been received in the town and it is believed the men rode their own animals.

The cashier immediately gave the alarm and posses were sent out to search the surrounding country, while the police of all neighboring towns were notified. The officers have little hopes of capturing the robbers, as they had several hours' start. It is not even known at what hour the robbery occurred.

Suspicion points to two strangers who have been in the town a day or two. One, a one-armed man, was noticed about town Thursday. There is also evidence that a stranger had been sleeping in a barn in Jamestown for several nights. Whether this is the one-armed man or another stranger who has succeeded in keeping himself concealed is not known.

The bank is fully protected by insurance, and will lose nothing by the robbery.

The Bank of Jamestown was incorporated in 1891. It is capitalized at $12,000, and has a surplus of $8400. The officers are John Muri, president; S. W. C. Heysel, vice-president, and A. D. Meyers, cashier. Jamestown has a population of 400 and is situated off the railroad in Moniteau County, 12 miles from California, Mo.

Still Counting the Money.

Assistant Subtreasurer Bantz told a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday that the investigation of the books and counting of the money at the Subtreasury would be concluded about next Wednesday. He said he would make his report direct to Washington and was not authorized to give out anything about the investigation.

LETTER TO DEAD SOLVES MYSTERY

WOMEN'S MISSIVES FOUND

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—A love letter to the dead, it is probable, will solve the mystery of the murder of Attorney Charles H. Stevenson. The letter was received in the dead lawyer's office, room 510, 100 Washington street. It fell into the hands of the authorities and led to the discovery of other letters, all of them endearing and all of them from women, that revealed such a chain of love intrigues, divorce plots and even suggestions of crimes that the police were astounded.

This particular letter to the dead started the police on a search for an alleged outraged husband, who was about to be sued for divorce. Ira B. Johnston is the husband. The dead attorney is the man charged with having committed the alleged wrong and started the divorce suit.

The new woman in the case is Edna Johnston. She is now stranded in Pittsburg. It was while walking through Sluggers' alley to meet Richard Halm in order to borrow $25 for the woman that Stevenson met his death.

The wronged husband cannot be found. Two days before the lawyer's body was found at the bottom of the blind elevator shaft in the rear of the building, 96 Washington street, Johnston received notification of his alleged wrongs. He was also notified of the pending divorce suit. At the time he was within a few hours' ride from Chicago.

Letters From Women.

The letters from other women were also endearing. One of them appears to have been written by Dr. Sarah Hackett Stevenson, who was known as the lawyer's cousin.

It called the lawyer "Dear heart" and "a part of myself." It chided him for some monetary wrong he was accused of having committed and sweetly forgave him in the same sentence.

A third letter revealed another romance and another woman. This third woman is Irene Parks, a nurse. Dashing young "Charley" Stevenson won her heart as he did those of many others. According to the revelations in the letter, he was to have married her a year ago.

This letter to the dead was written from Pittsburg the night Stevenson met his death.

It was one of a dozen letters from the same woman that revealed these facts. Ira B. Johnston, who lived with his wife in Chicago, left her some time ago to take up his business headquarters in Pittsburg. While he was away his wife met and fell in love with Stevenson.

During the summer months in the past year the affair went on, hidden from Stevenson's lawyer friend, just as he concealed his marriage with Avada Marsland.

In other letters Stevenson was referred to as "Dear Stevie" and "Darling Whiskers."

The letters ended with the terms, "Yours always," "Yours forever" and "Always yours." Many of them asked Stevenson for funds.

FRENCH WARSHIP SENT TO TANGIER

Foreign Diplomats Demand That Sultan's Representative Be Dismissed.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—In view of the situation in Morocco, the French Government has decided to send a warship to Tangier.

U. S. Minister at Fez.

TANGIER, Oct. 26.—Owing to the disturbed state of the country, the American Minister, Mr. Gummere, and Dr. Roser, the German Minister, are remaining at Fez.

The Moorish officials, in answer to the French representatives regarding the disquieting situation, declare their ignorance of many facts called to their attention, and deny responsibility for others.

Some of the foreign diplomats are demanding the dismissal of Mohammed El Torres, the representative of the Sultan here, on the ground that he is old, incapable and fanatical.

The situation in Morocco City continues critical.

Herr Heinrich, a German merchant, who was captured by Moorish horsemen near Rabat, has been rescued by his personal guard.

Spanish Cruisers Ready.

MADRID, Oct. 26.—In view of the alarming reports from Morocco, the Spanish Government has decided to hold several cruisers ready for dispatch to the west coast for the protection of Spanish subjects.

WHO'S WHO TANGLE IN COLLECTORSHIP

Allen, Who Resigned, Insists That He's Still Kirkwood Official.

SUCCESSOR GETS BOOKS

Legal Flaws in Manner of Withdrawal Caused a Change of Mind

Legal troubles in Kirkwood and St. Louis County are due to the fact that N. H. Allen changed his mind. Last spring he was elected Collector in Kirkwood, and since then he has chased the nimble dollars of taxpayers with much earnestness. The Board of Aldermen wanted him to deposit the dollars weekly. Mr. Allen wanted to retain them and have the pleasure of counting them, making his deposits with the City Treasurer monthly.

There was a clash, and last week Mr. Allen went to Mayor Ochterbeck and resigned. He did it formally and effectually. "You are out," said His Honor, and when the Board of Aldermen met, C. F. Andrae was named to fill the unexpired term as Collector.

Wednesday Mr. Andrae called on Mr. Allen for the books and other paraphernalia and insignia of office. Mr. Allen, having changed his mind, refused to surrender the books. He said that he was not the ex-City Collector, that he was the real thing.

"But you resigned," said Mr. Andrae.

"Yes, but I tendered my resignation to Mayor Ochterbeck, and he had no right nor authority to accept it. The matter should have been acted on by the Board of Aldermen."

Mr. Allen waited for this declaration to soak in and then he continued:

"Furthermore, you are not properly and legally appointed. The charter provides that the Board of Aldermen can make an appointment only when the vacancy occurs within six months of a general election. If the time is longer a special election must be called.

"There is an election next April," said Mr. Andrae.

"To be sure," assented Mr. Allen. "But it is not, within the meaning of the charter, a general election. Therefore you were not legally appointed, and you are not the collector. If you are not the collector, who is? Naturally, I am."

Arguments seemed wasted on Mr. Allen, so recourse was had to the law. A replevin writ was obtained from the Circuit Court in Clayton, and Deputy Sheriff Shores went to Kirkwood to serve it. Mr. Allen declared that he would ignore the writ; but after a consultation with J. G. Hawken, his attorney, changed his mind and surrendered the books.

"We will hold the signer of the bond given when the replevin writ was issued responsible for damages," said Mr Hawken. "The matter will come up at the January term of court, and it will then be determined whether Andrae is the legally appointed official. If not, my client is still in office and is entitled to the fees and perquisites, and we will seek to obtain them from the bondsmen."

ROADS MAKE OFFER.

At the meeting of the Board of Public Improvements Friday morning the Missouri Pacific and the Frisco Railroads made a formal offer in writing to bear the entire expense of abolishing the grade crossing at Tower Grove if the city paid the damages resulting to abutting property owners.

The proposition made by the railroads was conditional on the streets running under the railroads in a subway. The plans of having the railroads pass over the streets instead of under them was prepared by C. D. Purdon, consulting engineer of the Frisco, and E. E. Mitchell engineer of construction of the Missouri Pacific.

Both railroads declare that if the streets pass under the railroad tracks in a subway the cost will be only one-fourth as great as if the streets pass over the tracks on a viaduct.

L. F. Parker, general solicitor of the Frisco, and Martin L. Clardy, general attorney of the Missouri Pacific, signed the letter for their respective roads.

The letter was referred to the Committee on Grade Crossings.

Fake "Extra" Seller Freed.

Charles Cole, seller of fake "extras," was arraigned in the City Hall Police Court, Friday, and discharged. Cole was arrested at 4 a. m. at Seventh and Pine streets, where pedestrians heard him yelling "Extra! Extra! All about the death of Mrs. Rolla Wells! Great scandal!" Policemen Lane and Kerz examined the papers and found they were dated the afternoon before. Cole was taken to the Four Courts, where he said that he was drunk and didn't know what he was doing. He said that he was 31 years old and lived at 1421 Washington avenue. He was charged with disturbing the peace.

Fined for Blocking Street.

Herman Schlueter of 817 McLaren avenue, foreman of switch engines of the Wabash, was fined $100, the minimum fine, in the Dayton Street Police Court, Friday, for obstructing Angelica and Ferry streets with a freight train for more than 30 minutes. He said he had been unable to have the train moved.

ORIGINAL KEEPER OF PARK COTTAGE, NOTED FOR EXTORTION, DEAD

"Cool" Herbert Charged Fabulous Prices for the Most Indifferent Service Under Circumstances Which Made It Advisable for Customers to Pay the Bill.

POLITICAL gossip was sidetracked by local pioneers Friday for a discussion of the life of Cooleridge W. Herbert, news of whose death in Bellevile Hospital, New York, had reached St. Louis.

"Cool" Herbert, as he was familiarly known, lived in St. Louis for 35 years. He was a character. His age at the time of his death was 75.

"I remember 'Cool' well," said John Kernan, one time flag dealer. "I loaned him $300 worth of flags when he and White Carroll opened a saloon years ag on Sixth street, and I haven't seen those flags since.

"'Cool' came here in '64, just after serving a term in Joliet for the theft of some jewelry in Chicago. He was originally a New Yorker and went back East every time he was broke, which was seldom in the early days.

"'Cool' was a well-read man. He had charge of the library in Joliet and read nearly every book in that institution. He could talk on any subject, and his knowledge of history was great.

Ran "Swell" Saloon.

"When he came here he started in business with White Carroll, who at that time was opposing 'Jack' Looney in a Democratic factional fight. Looney ran a theater on Green street, now Lucas avenue. 'Cool' ran some of the swellest saloons in St. Louis. They were regular palaces. He opened a place on Chestnut street opposite the Laclede Hotel. The floors were of marble and the ceilings were mirrors. The last place he conducted was at the northwest corner of Sixth and Walnut streets. He dropped out of sight about five years ago. I guess he went to New York. None of the old timers had heard anything of him until we learned of his death. I am very sorry to hear he died in poverty. He always had plenty of money when he was in St. Louis.

"Judge Claiborne and I gave him the title of Colonel years ago. He was never in the army that I know of. It was said that he was on the military staff of Gov. Fletcher, but that was a mistake. He was in the saloon business from the time he came here until he left.

"'Cool' conducted the old Wash Home, a roadhouse out on Easton avenue, where Pendleton avenue now crosses. He also opened the old Cottage in Forest Park, and conducted it for several years. He was proprietor of the old Delmonico, which was on Lindell boulevard. He was the first proprietor of the Morgan Club, and for a long time he was in charge of the Hawthorne, a roadhouse out on the Clayton road."

Such Four Courts' old timers as ex-Mayor Noonan, Tom Kelly, the ex-prize fighter; Chief of Detectives Desmond and John Gernez knew "Cool" Herbert well.

"He was one of the slickest money getters I ever heard of," said Gernez. "Many a man paid high prices for a short stay at his roadhouses. I remember the case of a man, well known in business circles even at this date, who went out to the old Delmonico with a woman who was not his wife. They drank wine and dined to the tune of $70. In the morning 'Cool' presented the man with a bill for $700. The man protested, but 'Cool' only said: 'If you haven't the cash I'll take your check!' He got a check. He charged lots of men such arbitrary rates as that. Jim Cronin took a punch at him once for trying to stick up one of his friends.

Masons Repudiated Him.

"One morning I went out to the Morgan Club with a party of friends for breakfast. There were no covers on the tables, and when we ordered sirloin steaks they brought us common old beefsteak. The coffee was cold, and when 'Cool' presented me with a bill for $20 I made a roar. He apologized in his most gracious style. Said the cook had left and all that sort of thing. Then he said he had some fine brandy in the house and that as we were not satisfied with the meal he would like to have us take a drink of the brandy. Of course we took a drink, thinking that it was on 'Cool,' but it wasn't. He added the brandy to the bill and made us pay. He was a great confidence man.

"A friend of mine went out to the Forest Park Cottage when 'Cool' was running it and ordered a fresh bass. 'Cool' told him he would have to wait until a man could go to the lake and catch one. About an hour later my friend was served with an old icebox fish that had never seen the waters of Forest Park."

"Talk about 'Cool' sticking up people at the old Delmonico," said an old-timer, who knew him well. "That was nothing to compare with the way he cheated people at the old Forest Park Cottage. He ran there without paying a cent for license, and the way he charged for his grub you'd think he was under a heavy expense.

"A fellow by the name of Charley Reed, who married a Countess and got a bunch of money from her, opened up the palace of a saloon across the street from the Laclede Hotel, the ceilings of mirrors and the floors of marble. When Reed began hitting the high places with the Countess' money, "Cool" conned him out of the saloon.

Her Cuisine Not Choice.

"'Cool' was a Mason, but in very poor standing. He got into the order years ago, before the rule making saloon keepers ineligible was adopted. He always carried a Masonic emblem as big as a dollar in the lapel of his coat, and a Knights Templar charm always dangled from his watch chain. He was not recognized by a good many Masons of high standing.

"I never will forget the time 'Cool' planted his wife under the bar in the saloon at Sixth and Walnut to watch the bartenders and see that they did not steal any change. He placed her right where the bartenders could see her and know they were being watched. That was what he wanted. His only purpose in hiding her was to keep his customers from knowing about it. He always posed as a good fellow."

"Cool" Herbert was about 75 years old at the time of his death. He slipped on the pavement about ten days ago and broke his hip. Owing to his advanced age complications set in which resulted in his death. It is supposed that the body will be buried in New York.

Trolley Line Sues Vandalia.

The East St. Louis & Suburban Railway Co. Friday filed suit in the City Court, East St. Louis, for $5000 against the Vandalia Railroad. The suit grows out of the street railway company's S-shaped trestle, several hundred feet long, over the Vandalia and other tracks. For removing surface street car tracks and building the trestle, the Vandalia was to pay the street car company $3000 as its share, the company alleges.

OLD AGE

Depends Not Upon Years, but Upon Vital Force.

At the recent Convention of Physicians there was a good deal of discussion in regard to old age and the usefulness of persons over sixty years old. Some at fifty years call themselves old, and really appear so, while others at seventy years seem active, vigorous and young.

It was the opinion that it was not years, but the loss of vital force that makes a person old. Weakened digestion, thin blood and poor circulation soon start functional powers and vitality on the wane, and then the symptoms of old age quickly appear, as the system then has not the power to replace waste fast enough.

That old feeling may be warded off and overcome, and we wish every person in St. Louis who feels old, whether they are so in years or not, would try the cod liver preparation, Vinol. It has vital properties which repair worn tissues, check the natural decline and replace weakness with strength. It is an ideal body builder for old folks.

This is because Vinol is a genuine cod liver medicine, containing all the medicinal curatives and strength-making elements of cod liver oil taken direct from fresh cod livers, with tonic iron added. We will return your money if it does not do exactly what is claimed for it. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co.

Note.—While we are sole agents for Vinol in St. Louis, it is now for sale at the leading drug store in nearly every town and city in the country. Look for the Vinol agency in your town.

News of the Great Clearance of

Fashionable Ready-to-Wear Garments

AT the hour of writing it is quite impossible to tell just whether any lots will be entirely wiped out before closing time Friday. This event bids fair to out-distance any garment sale the house has known. Saturday's list of lots and sizes is thus more or less uncertain. For the benefit, however, of those who have deferred attendance until Saturday, let us sound this note of encouragement.

The collection of ready-to-wear garments prepared for this clearance numbered well into the thousands and included every description of Women's and Misses' Suit, Gown, Coat, Wrap, Waist, Robe, etc., and in each a very large range of qualities. It is unlikely, then, that any but the single-garment lots will be entirely closed out, though we advise prompt attendance Saturday morning.

ESCAPES AFTER BATTLE

Unidentified Youth Wounds Pursuers in Chase Through Back Yards.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FREMONT, O., Oct. 26.—As a result of a running battle with a mysterious "Peeping Tom," Louis Johnson, a prominent resident of this city, is suffering from a bullet wound in his right leg and Frank Keeler will probably die from the effects of a wound in the groin.

The entire police force and a posse of citizens searched the city all night for the unknown man and unless some clew is found this morning bloodhounds will be placed on the trail.

This is the fourth time within the last six months that the mysterious man has made his appearance either at the home of Johnson or his son-in-law, John Weber, who lives next door. Once before he engaged in an exchange of shots with Mr. Johnson and on another occasion he attempted to burn Weber's home.

Yesterday evening shortly after 6 o'clock Keeler, who is a lad of 16 years, went to Johnson's home on an errand. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were sitting at the dinner table when Keeler, who was standing near them, noticed a strange man peering through the window. He immediately informed the couple of what he had seen and the three rushed to the door to make an investigation.

Seeing no one around they concluded that the boy might have been mistaken and went back into the house. They had hardly closed the door when three shots were fired through the window. One of the bullets passed within an inch of Johnson's head and imbedded itself in the wall. Again Johnson and his wife rushed to the yard and the young Keeler hastily went to the Weber residence, where he procured a revolver.

Chase Through Back Yard.

When the boy returned Johnson and Keeler started across back yards after the "Peeping Tom," who was hastily running toward the railroads tracks.

The pursuers had gained on their man sufficiently to see that he was a young man and dressed in a long black overcoat, when the man turned and emptied his revolver at his pursuers. One of the bullets struck the boy in the left side just below the kidney and another passed through the fleshy part of Johnson's leg. Despite their injuries, Johnson and Keeler continued the chase for a short distance and the latter emptied his revolver at the fugitive.

Both men then fell exhausted from loss of blood and their assailant escaped along the railroad tracks. Neighbors who heard the shots rushed to the scene and removed the injured men to Johnson's home.

Two weeks ago Mr. Weber was awakened by a bright light shining into his bedroom window. He found that the back porch of his home was a mass of flames. An alarm was turned in and the fire was extinguished before any great damage was done to the residence proper. After the blaze had been stifled an investigation showed that the sides of the house and the lattice work had been saturated with coal oil and a quantity of excelsior and light shavings strewn about the porch before the place had been set on fire.

Johnson and Weber say they have no enemy that might wish to do them harm and can give the police little aid in trailing down the mysterious man.

BOY TAUGHT TO STEAL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—When Hyman Grossman, a 15-year-old lad, was arraigned in the Children's Court yesterday on a charge of picking pockets, he swore that a man had taught him to steal and sent him out at 5 o'clock every morning to look for victims.

The boy said his parents were dead and that he lived at 150 Ridge street with a man and woman.

"Does this man know that you steal?" asked Justice Zeller.

"He's the one who put me up to it and taught me," replied the lad.

The youngster then went on to tell how the man instructed him for weeks in the art of picking pockets before he sent him out. He said he had to practice for hours every day on the couple, relieving them of wallets, pocketbooks, watches and jewelry until he became so adept that he could rob them without their knowing it. If he did the job in a clumsy fashion he would be beaten.

The man was placed under arrest. The detectives later searched his house and found a quantity of stolen goods.

DAUGHTER MISSING, INSURANCE WITHHELD.

Brother and Sister of Dead Refused Cash.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 27.—Unless the heirs of the late Perry Spencer can show that the daughter of the deceased, who disappeared some time ago, is dead, the Ancient Order of United Workmen will not pay a brother and sister of Spencer the $2000 insurance policy that he held. Spencer was divorced from his wife and shortly thereafter his daughter disappeared. That was 12 years ago. Now a brother and sister are seeking to collect the insurance. The company claims that should it pay the insurance to these parties when the daughter is alive and therefore the legal heir, it would be liable. Hence it has resisted payment of the policy until proof of the girl's death is produced.

STRUCK BY TWO CARS.

Wagon Smashed in Broadway and Driver's Leg Is Broken.

James McMahon, living at 2119 Wash street, suffered a broken leg and was otherwise painfully injured by two Broadway cars while trying to get out of their way at the corner of Broadway and Spruce streets Friday. He was driving a wagon for the Lecouter stair manufacturers of 3015 Salena street, and at the corner of Broadway and Spruce streets saw a southbound Broadway car coming at high speed. He attempted to get out of the way by crossing in front of a northbound car. The motorman on this track, not expecting such a move on the part of McMahon, went straight ahead and the wagon was struck with such force as to shove the northbound car from the track. The wagon was caught between the cars and was demolished. The women in the cars screamed and the men began jumping from the platform and windows.

McMahon was thrown beneath the wheels of the car. He was taken to the City Hospital.

Indiana Man for Archdeacon.

Rev. W. S. Howard of Plymouth, Ind., has been nominated for the office of archdeacon of the Episcopal Diocese of Missouri. He has not yet accepted. The office was recently created by the diocesan convention, and pays $2500 a year. The archdeacon has charge of missionary work in the diocese. Two other nominees have declined the post.

HANKS MUST SEE COURT.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 26.—Clerks in the office of Secretary of State Swanger today refused to accept the resignation of J. L. Hanks, candidate for Congress on the Union Workingman's ticket in the Tenth District in St. Louis. The action was taken after receipt of an opinion written by Assistant Attorney-General Blake.

The action does not mean that Hanks will be compelled to run in St. Louis County, but the opinion held that the withdrawal must be presented to the County Court of St. Louis County. Hanks' resignation from the ticket has already been accepted by the Board of Election Commissioners of St. Louis.

In his opinion Assistant Attorney-General Blake holds that as the Secretary of State has already certified the tickets to the county courts, a withdrawal can only be accepted by the courts.

KANSAS CITY FIRE DEAD, 8.

Four More Bodies Taken From Ruins of Building.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 26.—Four bodies were removed this morning from the ruins of the burned Chamber of Commerce Building in Kansas City, Kan., making the total known dead to date eight. The bodies removed today, although badly charred, were identified as:

Edward Winslow, 42 years old, city solicitor for the Nelson Morris Packing Co.

Mrs. Edward Winslow, his wife.

Mabel Winslow, 9 years old, and May Winslow, 5, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Winslow.

Will Vote Straight Ticket.

All citizens would do so if the entire ticket was as good as the $25, $27 and $30 Schloss Bros. overcoats on sale for $14.50 at the Globe, Seventh and Franklin avenue, tomorrow.

8 MISSING AFTER KANSAS CITY FIRE

Firemen Making Systematic Search of Chamber of Commerce Ruins.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 26.—A systematic search for victims was begun today in the ruins of the Chamber of Commerce Building in Kansas City, Kan., destroyed by fire yesterday.

First the falls were pulled down and then a large force of men was put to work to remove the debris. Eight persons are still unaccounted for this morning. At the hospitals two of the injured were in a serious condition, but it was believed all the others would recover. Several of them were able to leave for their homes today.

The loss of life is attributed in part to the lack of fire fighting apparatus and a movement has been begun through the City Council to remedy the defect as soon as possible.

Three 10-per-cent-a-month money lenders, who had offices in the destroyed building, lost much of their paper, including hundreds of dollars' worth of notes. One money lender had placed his possessions in the building vault, which is buried beneath tons of wreckage.

BOY SAVES A BUILDING.

Fireman Brushed Off Running Board by Freight Cars.

Fire which started in the top story of the three-story brick building occupied by the Missouri Bedding and Feather Co., at 1125-1127 Collins street, destroyed the contents at a loss of $10,000, and damaged the building to the extent of $5000 before it was extinguished, early Friday.

The fire is believed to have been caused by defective electric wiring. William Vanesler, aged 13, of 1126 Collins street, turned in the first of the three alarms. The building is owned by W. B. Versteeg.

On the way to the fire, Joseph T. Lynch, a truckman of Hook and Ladder company 13, was brushed off of the side running board of a hook and ladder truck being driven at a rapid pace through a narrow opening between two freight cars at Carr and Collins street. His bruises were treated at the City Dispensary, and he was removed to his home, 1015 South Thirteenth street.

COWBOYS DRAG A NEGRO TO DEATH

Body of Texas Black Man Is Then Hanged to a Tree.

ROSWELL, N. M., Oct. 26.—"Slab" Pitts, a negro, who was run out of town two weeks ago after serving 90 days for violation of the Edmunds act, was lynched by cowboys at Toyah, Tex.

The cowboys went in the night and placed a rope around the neck of the negro. He was dragged to death and then hanged to a tree.

SUBURBS ALARMED.

They Fear Government Will Abolish Free Mail Delivery.

Residents of Kirkwood, Webster Groves and the vicinity of Jefferson Barracks are worrying about the possible cessation of their carrier mail delivery, Jan. 1, 1907. Indignation meetings are being held with a view to soliciting aid in their fight to keep the carrier. At a meeting held in Bristol Hall at Webster Groves Wednesday evening a petition asking aid was drawn up.

Senator Warner, Congressman Bartholdt and Postmaster Wyman were appealed to in the petition to use their influence to have the carriers retained.

The meeting, at which about 250 were present, was presided over by Mayor Hart of Webster Groves.

Assistant Postmaster Stice, in the absence of Postmaster Wyman, said Friday that no order had been received to abolish the carrier service at any of the three places. He said that the subject was under investigation by Postoffice inspectors some time ago, and that the matter was now in the hands of the Postmaster-General at Washington.

The law requires that offices suplied with carriers as a branch or sub-station shall be within five miles of the city limits of the main office. This is one of the matters to be dealt with in the present case. The offices at Webster, Kirkwood and Jefferson Barracks were established during the Baumhoff administration, and the revenues from the offices have not been as large as anticipated.

HEARST'S LABOR MEETING A FROST

Meant to Receive a "Tribute," Was Handed a Lemon Instead.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—"Labor's tribute to Hearst," tendered in Madison Square Garden last night, was a lemon. It was handed to the candidate for Governor in a rather surprising way.

"A labor ratification meeting to indorse the candidacy of William Randolph Hearst for Governor," had been advertised extensively. Mr. Hearst's campaign managers meant to make it one of the most remarkable demonstrations of the campaign. It was.

Nobody—least of all, Mr. Hearst himself—knows just what was the matter. But something was wrong. The session started dismally, woke up a bit when Mr. Hearst entered the garden and then petered out, melted away and broke up noisily while Mr. Hearst was talking. He had barely started his speech when the rush for the doors commenced.

The members of various union labor organizations which had paraded up Broadway and into the garden carrying flags and transparencies were the first to break for the doors. All over the big building there was a pounding of feet as the audience disintegrated and headed for the steps.

Mr. Hearst finished his speech in a din and confusion that made it impossible for any but those in front rows to hear what he was saying. Plainly, Mr. Hearst was disappointed and dispirited by the undeniably impolite reception he got. He went to the garden in fine spirits. He left gloomy and downcast.

Several hundred of the men who had participated in the demonstration attacked a banner picture of Charles E. Hughes. After a fierce struggle with four policemen the crowd wrecked the campaign exhibits and smashed a large plate-glass window of a hotel. One policeman was badly cut. The police used their night sticks with effect. Several arrests were made.

LEVIED ON TOWER.

De Forest Wireless Station Is Seized by Constable.

The station and apparatus of the De Forest Wireless Telegraphy Co. in East St. Louis has been levied upon by Constable Thomas Peet by virtue of a writ of attachment in his hands. The station consists mainly of a framework extending 300 feet in the air, with the necessary arms to receive the wireless messages as they flash through space. The Constable has stationed a watchman at the place to see that the station does not escape and get outside the limits of St. Clair County.

The station was abandoned, as far as business was concerned, about three months ago. The attachment was issued from the court of Justice Driscoll, and was at the instance of Frank B. Bowman, owner of the ground on which the station is located. He sues for $75, which is for three months' rent since the place was abandoned. The company has a lease on the ground for ten years, only two years of which has expired.

In case the De Forest company desires to give up the lease, several business men are considering a plan of leasing the ground for an athletic park, as it is in a prominent place and easy of access. The stumbling block along this line is the fact that the 300-foot framework is in the way, and its endless sustaining wires cover almost the whole block of ground. It is figured that it would be a dead loss to remove the framework, for after it is taken down it is thought that the expense of removing it will be much more than the wood would bring for kindling.

The case is set for trial for Saturday afternoon, and in the meantime the watchman is watching.

Men's Suits and Overcoats

A Splendid Array of Styles and Fabrics and Matchless Values (2d floor)

FOR Saturday we have arranged a special sale of Suits and Overcoats. Consummate skill in designing, masterful tailoring and the careful, painstaking finish of every garment lifts them far above suits and overcoats ordinarily sold at these prices. We earnestly invite you to call and see for yourself.

At $15

We show hundreds of Men's Suits and Overcoats that were made especially for us by the foremost clothesmakers in America, and they compare favorably with $18.00 and $20.00 values. Suits come in black unfinished worsteds, Hockanum Thibets, serges, reliable fancy worsteds and Scotch tweeds. Overcoats in the swagger herringbone gray effects, tan coverts, black vicunas, blue and black kerseys and dark Oxford effects, lined with silk. Sizes to fit men of all proportions—$15.00.

At $20

We show you some of the handsomest garments ever turned out by high-class tailors. Every garment is absolutely style-correct, even to the smallest detail, and no matter how extreme or conservative your tastes may be, your very idea will be found in this magnificent assortment. Suits in both single and double breasted styles. Overcoats in all lengths from 36 to 50 inches—$20.00.

At $25

Both Suits and Overcoats are positively hand-tailored throughout. The models are aristocratic in the extreme and the fabrics are the best. In Suits we show both single and double breasted styles, cut on the handsomest lines, either with or without vents. Overcoats are the French flare back style, for men who like the extreme in fashion, while for men of conservative tastes we recommend the semi-form-fitting models. All wanted fabrics and all sizes, in stouts, slims and regulars—$25.00.

Young Men's Suits and Overcoats

Especially designed for the younger man, who demands something with a little more "dash and go." Garments that are cut, trimmed and tailored by specialists who devote their entire time and energy to the manufacturing of proper clothes for boys 15 to 20 years of age. Coats are cut the proper length, lapels correctly shaped, in fact every little detail has been carefully attended to. Both Suits and Overcoats at prices ranging from $5.00 to $20.00.

Delmar Avenue Baptist Pastor to Head Seminary.

Rev. Dr. J. T. M. Johnston, pastor of the Delmar Avenue Baptist Church for the past 10 years, will probably announce his resignation at the Sunday morning service. Dr. Johnston has been called to accept the chair of biography and church history in the new theological seminary to be established in connection with William Jewell College at Liberty, Mo. He will remain in St. Louis for some time. Members of his church have tried to induce him to refuse the offer.

The Baptists of Missouri have undertaken to raise $1,000,000 as an endowment fund for the college, one-half for the theological seminary. Dr. Johnston is at the head of the committee which has charge of the plans for raising funds. If he accepts the position offered him he will be virtually the head of the seminary.

Dr. Johnston has not announced the names of those who have promised him money. John E. Franklin, head of the newly organized Bankers' Trust Co, of St. Louis, who recently came here from Fredericktown, Mo., is credited with having given $150,000. John D. Rockefeller has given money to the institution in the past.

WILSON TO TAKE STUMP.

Tired Out Working on Meat Inspection Law.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Secretary Wilson, the "farmer" of the Cabinet will take the stump in Iowa to help his party to elect a straight Republican delegation to Congress.

"I am going to talk to the farmers of my State," said Secretary Wilson. "I have been working on the meat inspection law for four months and I feel as though I would like to go home for a little while."

Cummins is expected to carry the State and most of the Republican congressional nominees are expected to pull through. Owing to the bitter factional fight between Shaw and Cummins elements some of the Republicans will vote for the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, while some of the Democrats will flop.

Cummins has never liked Representatives Lacey, Hepburn, Hull and one or two other members of the congressional delegation and there are threats of knifing.

Secretary Wilson will try to overcome this ill feeling. Secretary Shaw, who has been on the stump for some weeks, has not made speeches in his own State.

KILLS SELF WITH SHEARS.

Woman Severs Windpipe With Scissors at Hospital.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 26.—Delirious from long illness and nervous shock, Miss Grace Friedman, aged 35, a school teacher of New Richmond, O., and a sister of William M. Friedman of Cincinnati, thrust a small pair of scissors into her throat at the Good Samaritan Hospital, tearing a jagged wound in her windpipe, which resulted in her death. Miss Friedman came to Cincinnati to receive treatment for a nervous complaint.

DEATH BY TOY CANNON.

Rich Man Kills Self, Using Plaything of Childhood.

BROCKTON, Mass., Oct. 26.—Securing a toy cannon that had long been among the forgotten playthings of his childhood, Joseph H. Gifford, 28, wealthy, prominent socially, his wife and three young children living, late yesterday afternoon at his home, 308 Belmont street, this city, loaded the cannon with a small train of powder. He lay upon the floor and allowed the charge to penetrate his neck to the brain.

When the cannon exploded and the shot buried itself in his brain the flash of the powder ignited his clothing, flames were burning his coat and scorching his hair when his aged mother, drawn to the scene by the report of the cannon, discovered him.

George R. Bailey of this city, a relative, also chanced to be passing at the time. He ran around the barn in the rear of the house and not finding anything there, he went inside. With another member of the family he went upstairs and by pouring water upon the body of Mr. Gifford, they managed to extinguish the flames.

Gifford, it is explained by the family, had been despondent for some time. Not long ago he was taken ill and went to a distant part of the State to visit relatives. He returned some few weeks ago and up to a week ago was in poor health. Mrs. Gifford and the children are not in the city, having gone on a visit to relatives.

Chance to Buy Some Booze.

City Marshal Secrest of Kirkwood will hold an auction Nov. 6 and 7 of the property of the Kirkwood Social Athletic Club, including a quantity of liquor, which he has seized on an execution issued by Justice Jacobi for a judgment of $500. The property of the Rose Hill Pastime Athletic Club will be seized Friday, and will also be knocked down by the city to the highest bidder.

INSURANCE A FORCE AGAINST SOCIALISM

Policy Holders Become Conservative, Educator Tells Convention.

NEW YORK LAW ASSAILED

Resolution Adopted Almost Unanimously After First Being Tabled.

Life insurance as a force against Socialism was discussed by Prof. Sylvester F. Scovel, former president of Wooster University, Ohio, in an address before the closing session of the National Association of Life Underwriters.

Prof. Scovel's subject was "Life Insurance and Social Duty." The recruiting ground of Socialism, he said, was among the propertyless. Lift insurance, being a species of property, gave the insured an interest in the existing social arrangement and stood for conservatism.

The convention adjourned shortly after 6 p. m. Thursday, after approving the Executive Committee's slate for officers, headed by Frank E. McMullen of Rochester, N. Y., and choosing Toronto as the place of the 1907 meeting of the association.

The resolution conveying an indirect attack on the Armstrong insurance law, recently passed by the New York Legislature, which had been tabled in the Executive Committee, was adopted at the afternoon session, after it had been defeated in the morning. The later action came after an explanation of Chairman R. E. Cochran of the Executive Committee that the resolution had not been defeated, but merely tabled. The motion to adopt was carried almost by acclamation.

Compromise on Amendment.

The fight against including ex-presidents in the provisions of the resolution excluding all officers of life insurance companies from holding official position in the association, was settled by the adoption of an amendment introduced by W. A. Galentine of St. Louis. This limits the term of future ex-presidents to three years on the Executive Committee or as delegates-at-large, and allows present ex-presidents life tenure in those offices.

The day was closed with a banquet attended by about 300 delegates and guests at the Southern Hotel. American and British flags formed the decorations. The Canadian delegates joined with the others in singing "America," though some, being unfamiliar with the words, substituted the words of "God Save the King."

William D. Wyman of Chicago acted as toastmaster. Speeches were made by Judge Shepard Barclay on "The Complex Relations of the Agent;" Chas. G. Dawes of Chicago, former comptroller of the currency, on "The Sherman Anti-Trust Law and the Public;" Rev. Henry Stiles Bradley of St. Louis on "Opportunities in Life Insurance for Development of Ethical and Altruistic Principles," and G. H. Allen of Montreal on "The Canadian Movement."

Mr. Dawes attacked the Sherman law and brought applause when he praised James J. Hill, the railroad magnate, as working for the good of the Northwest.

GIRL PUPILS SUE TEACHER.

Frightened When Expelled, They Walked 18 Miles.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COFFEYVILLE, Kan., Oct. 26.—As the result of an 18-mile walk following their dismissal from school, three girls, one 13 and two 14 years of age, have filed suit against three teachers of the public schools here for $7500 damages caused by exposure and fright.

The girls are Madge and Ruby Powell, 14 and 12 years of age respectively, and Lula Fitzgerald, aged 14 years. The teachers are Lola Jones, Prof. Bloomer and W. M. Sinclair. The Board of Education is also made a defendant in the suit.

The girls allege that they were expelled without their parents' knowledge and that they walked to Cherryvale, after having been threatened by the teachers of being sent to the Reform School. The Powell girls' grandfather lives at Cherryvale, and they fled to him. The girls say that they were afraid to go home or remain in Coffeyville.

School of Mines Director to Remain Through Session.

The Board of Curators of the State University at a meeting at the Southern Hotel Thursday, deferred action upon the question of asking for the resignation of Director Ladd of the School of Mines at Rolla and decided not to disturb the present administration until the end of the session.

According to Walter Williams of Columbia, member of the Executive Committee, the report of the findings of the committee after investigating charges against the management, was not made Thursday on account of the absence of several members of the Board of Curators.

A resolution presented by the St. Louis Alumni to the board asking that the athletics department be placed in the hands of a board of control instead of a director of athletics, as is now the system, was referred to the Executive Committee.

The question of moving the clinical department of the medical school to a larger city, was also referred to the Executive Committee.

A chair of Highway Engineering was established, but the position was not filled. Heretofore that department has been combined with the agricultural department. The position of assistant professor of physiological chemistry was abolished and another full professorship established.

FAIRBANKS WILL SPEAK.

Vice-President Saturday Night, Beveridge Next Friday.

Vice-President Fairbanks will speak at the Odeon Saturday night. He will arrive here shortly before the time for the meeting, accompanied by Henry J. Allen of Kansas, and will take dinner at the home of Robert S. Brookings on Lindell boulevard. Mr. Brookings, as chairman of the Reception Committee, and Judge Franklin Ferriss, who will preside at the meeting, will meet the vice-president at Union Station.

The meeting will be opened by Chairman Howe of the Republican City Central Committee. Judge Ferriss will introduce Mr. Allen, and Mr. Fairbanks' address will follow. The Committee of Two Hundred and other prominent Republicans will occupy seats on the stage. The boxes will be reserved for women. Admission will be by ticket. Speakers will be provided for the crowd outside the building if there should be an overflow.

A second noteworthy Republican rally of the fall campaign will be held Friday evening, Nov. 2, when Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana will speak. Senator Beveridge has never before spoken in St. Louis. The place will be announced later.

"Just Right" Clothing
For Men and Young Men.

Distinctive Suits for Men at $20

Between style established by good form and mere abritrary style—freak style, as it were, there is a broad line of distinction.

The former gives true expression, the latter usually exaggerates.

These twenty dollar suits have attained the happy medium. Their style is within the realms of good form and popular requirement—at the same time they are divorced from the commonplace.

Quality of materials and workmanship, perfection of fit and grace of cut, have never before seen such high development in twenty dollar suits.

Eight different models—with rounded or peaked lapels, loose or medium form-fitting backs, without the side vents, which are now passe.

DOCTOR DIES SUDDENLY.

Dr. Vetter of Belleville Stricken After Treating Others' Ills.

Dr. Gustave Vetter, a prominent Belleville physician and a member of the Board of Education, died suddenly at his home, 1309 West Main street, within 15 minutes after he had prescribed for two patients.

Dr. Vetter had been subject for some time to an affliction of the lungs which affected the heart. After he had waited on the patients in his office the physician laid down on a lounge in the library of his home and complained to his wife of having a severe headache.

She left the room and shortly afterward heard him breathing heavily. She ran into the room and when she saw his condition telephoned for a physician. Drs. Scheel, Bechotold and Kempff responded and were with him when he died 15 minutes later.

Dr. Vetter was born in Coburg, Germany, Dec. 1, 1953, and came to America about 25 years ago. He practiced medicine in Millstadt and New Athens for 10 years before going to Belleville. He was elected a member of the Board of Education at the last election, and at one time was health officer for Belleville. He was a member of the West Belleville Arbeiter Unterstuetzungsverein and of the Masonic lodge. He is survived by his widow, Elsa Vetter, two brothers and two sisters who reside in Coburg, Germany. The body will be cremated.

NAPOLEON'S REAR GUARD FOUND IN ALPS CAVE.

GENEVA, Oct. 27.—The skeletons of three men, who are believed to have been soldiers in the army of Napoleon that crossed the Alps in 1800, were found last week in a kind of closed-in cave in the ice on a disused road in the Col Septimer—a mountain 6000 feet high.

Two curious Swiss guides broke into the cave with their ice axes. If their theory with regard to Napoleon is correct, the skeletons have lain there 106 years.

The road near which they were found was made by Caesar.

NO ALUM TASTE IF STONE "EATS" HIM

TO SPEAK AT CLARENCE

Kirksville Will Be Scene of Another Attempt at "Joint" Debate.

"Fire Alarm" John Flanigan of Carthage was in St. Louis Thursday to arrange with the Republican State Committee a campaign itinerary that will include several towns in the State where William J. Stone is scheduled to speak.

Mr. Flanigan said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that, judging from the attacks being made upon him by Senator Stone's friends, one would suppose he had done something to injure the Senator.

"I wish to say," remarked Flanigan, "that I have handled Senator Stone very mildly in my speeches.

"I met him at several places, and although he claims he called me a Chinese gong on one occasion, I have not been able to find anybody who ever heard him apply such an epithet to me.

"As I have said before, I have only one objection to meeting Senator Stone in joint debate, and that is that Stone cannot get out an audience of Democrats big enough to encourage the ordinary spellbinder.

"Bryan and Folk seem to be the only two men who can arouse Missouri Democrats.

Why He Follows Stone.

"I notice that the Senator's organ at Jefferson City is asking who is responsible for sending me on Stone's trail.

"I can only say to the organ that I am taking up Senator Stone because he says himself, and I take his word for it, that he is Missouri's most representative Democrat.

"I understand Senator Stone will be at Clarence, Oct. 31, and Kirksville a few days later. People in both towns, irrespective of politics, have asked me to speak either before or after Stone.

"I have accepted, but I am going to caution my friends in both places not to meet me at the station with a brass band.

"Senator Stone has given it out that I am an ignoramus about matters of government. I am going to make him prove that assertion or admit that he stated what was not true.

"Democrats are saying that Stone, once his wrath is aroused, will eat me up on the stump. Well, if he does I'll promise him to leave enough to pay the undertaker, and guarantee at the same time that the post-mortem will not reveal any alum in my digestive organs.

"I want to serve notice on the Senator now, so that he can be well prepared. The public may then determine who is the real Chinese gong in Missouri politics."

TENDERFOOT KILLS BEAR.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 26.—Charles G. Gates has killed a grizzly bear which may be the biggest killed in Colorado. According to a telegram signed by Gates, and sent from Maher, Colo., the bear weighs about 1700 pounds and old time hunters say that is about as big as grizzlies grow.

Four dogs were killed and one so badly wounded that he had to be shot. The battle with bruin took place in the foot hills near Cathedral Peak. The bear was killed by Gates and his brother-in-law, Melville Martin.

About three weeks ago the Gates party outfitted in Denver, getting the most expensive accouterments their guide would allow them to take. Nothing has been heard from them until the telegram today. According to a special from Maher, Colo., the killing of the mammoth bear by the tenderfoot plunger has thrown that little village into a fever of admiration for him. When he started out the old timers laughed at his expensive trappings.

"I allow if he sees a grizzly he will leave all them fine fixin's behind and make for the tall timber," said Hank Martin, a veteran bear hunter. Martin inspected the grizzly today and was overcome by surprise.

Gates and his party are jubilating and the whole town has free liquor. The camp of the Gates party is well up on the side of Cathedral Peak. For several days they have followed the trail of the grizzly, but only the dogs were able to go fast enough to get sight of the bear until today, when bruin stopped to parley with the canines and made a fatal mistake.

He was a wily old bear for he led the pack of hounds into a blind canyon and then turned on them. He was slaughtering them right and left when the hunters came up and began pumping bullets into him. Both Gates and Martin shot the bear and each is giving the credit to the other, but the bear being so big, it is the opinion of hunters there is honor enough for both.

ELECTRIC CIGAR LIGHTER; MATCHES NO LONGER REQUIRED.

A novelty on the market is an electric vest pocket cigar lighter. The cover is lifted and a flame springs up. Wind makes the flame brighter. After lighting the cigar the cover is replaced and the flame goes out, until you want it again. The novelty, which is sure to be popular with men, will fit easily in one's vest pocket. The Globe Clothing Co. of this city will give one of these free with men's and boys' suits tomorrow.

TRUST METHODS IN WATER.

County Consumers Will Ask Hadley to Prosecute.

Residents of Wellston and De Hodiamont will appeal to Attorney-General Hadley to institute quo warranto proceedings against the West St. Louis Water and Light Co., on the ground that it is violating the anti-trust laws of Missouri.

At a meeting of the Wellston Business Men's Association, held Thursday night at 5971 Easton avenue, a committee was appointed to confer with the similar organization in De Hodiamont and with the West End Business Men's Association, with a view to obtaining municipal legislation compelling the city to furnish water to residents of the county near the city limits, and to appeal to Hadley. The committee is made up of S. W. Jurden, John S. Sidebottom and Walter Davis. Members of the organization say they can supply the necessary evidence against the water company.

WIDOW'S FORTUNE TO BE LOST AT WEDDING; OTHER'S INCREASED

Millionaire's Will Prohibits the Remarriage of His Wife While That of Only a Well-to-Do Merchant Provides for $2000 Gift in Similar Circumstance.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Two men, one a multi-millionaire and the other only a well-to-do East Side business man, have died within the last few months and that repository of secrets, the Surrogate's office, where their wills were filed for probate, reveals their last testaments to be two of the most remarkable documents reposing in the steel filing boxes.

In life the contrast between the two men was great. One was very rich, measured even by modern estimates of wealth; the other was not at all rich, judged by the same standard. Their deaths have revealed an even greater gulf between their two ntures than lay between their fortunes.

Daniel O'Day has left his widow a rich woman. Should she remarry she will lose practically everything, including her children. To take another husband means for her poverty, so far as her wealth in her own right is concerned. Houses, grounds, horses, carriages, automobiles, yachts—everything is lost to her should she remarry.

The palatial O'Day country residence is one of the show places of New Jersey. Its sunken gardens of Elizabethan fashion; its splendid artificial lake, its vineries, greenhouses and magnificent terraces, says the will of the old millionaire, will pass forever from the possession of his young widow and her family in the event of her taking another mate.

Remarrying Prohibited.

A second marriage would mean to Mrs. O'Day the renouncement of an income of $325,000. The great country palace at Deal, N. J., which cost more than a million dollars to build and lay out, would know her no more as mistress should she introduce a new master there. Her New York mansion at 242 West Sixty-ninth street, would, under the same circumstances pass from her possession.

Her friends are speculating today on whether she will ever make the sacrifice. The question is whether any man would ask her to renounce all this if he could not give her its equivalent. They wonder how Daniel O'Day, himself married a second time, came to draw up such a remarkable instrument. The equity of a condition that his widow's remarriage must—unless she marries a very wealthy man—commit social and financial suicide, is puzzling them. The will has surprised the friends of the O'Days as much as it amazed the disinterested persons who have read its contents.

The very opposite of the document by which old Daniel O'Day seeks control of his wife, even from the grave, is the last will and testament of Joseph Widerewitz. His widow, Pesha, should she marry again, is to get $2000 to be considered as a wedding gift. Through the will of Widerewitz his orthodox piety breathes. The instrument was written in Hebrew, but a translation is attached to it.

Merchant's Will.

"The living takes it into consideration at the time his judgment is clear," it begins, "to direct what his heirs shall do after he is no more."

After bequeathing his $20,000 estate to his six children, three sons and three daughters, Widerewitz concludes his will with the remarkable clause:

"And to my wife, Pesha, in the event of her remarriage after my death, I further bequeath the sum of $2000."

"Yes, it is true, my husband leaves me $2000 if I remarry," said Mrs. Widerewitz, who is a handsome woman of middle age, when seen by a reporter today at her residence, 222 Henry street, which her husband left to her. "Further than that I do not care to discuss the matter.

"I have read of Daniel O'Day's strange bequest, and, while I have no intention of remarrying, still I regard my husband's bequest as far more fair to the widow."

Remarriage Views of Men Are Different.

Daniel O'Day, Standard Oil multi-millionaire of New York:

Should his young widow marry a second time she will lose her children, who will be turned over to her stepson, except one; the million-dollar O'Day mansion at Rye, N. J., and an income of $325,000.

Joseph Widrewitz, East Side business man:

Should his widow marry a second time she will be the richer by $2000. She already enjoys by legacy from her husband an income of $2000.

CHIEF OF POLICE TESTIFIES

Chief of Police W. F. Bathrust of Huntingdon, Pa., says: Recently I undertook to arrest an outlaw which for viciousness and danger to my person far exceeded any I have heretofore dealt with. I refer to a severe case of Rheumatism and Grippe. Having contracted a heavy cold through exposure, I drifted into the tortures of Grippe and Rheumatism. For weeks I suffered the most excruciating pain in my arms and legs and tried all sorts of medicines without relief. I secured a bottle of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure, and after taking a few doses felt better and in less than a week was completely cured—this was nearly two years ago, and I have never had any return of the trouble. I keep one of your family medicine chests in my home and would not be without it."

HAZERS TIE TWO BOYS TO TRACK

After Frenzied Battle One Escapes and Brings Aunt to Other's Rescue.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Oct. 26.—John Green and Percy Well, two students at the High School here, were hazed after Kenyon College methods today.

Blindfolded and bound, they were tied to a railroad track by a gang of fellow students. They were released, however, before any harm came to them.

Green's captors could not hold him down long enough to tie him securely. He broke away and fled screaming to his home near by. His aunt ran to the tracks and found Well there. His tormentors fled at her approach.

She released the boy, who was almost unconscious from fright.

The town and school authorities are making every effort to ascertain the identity of the hazers.

WERE WEDDED AND PARTED, AND REWED

WON HER IN LESS TIME

Bride's Mother Tried to Prevent Marriage, but Was Unsuccessful.

Otto Rottenberg testified at the trial of the divorce suit brought by his wife, Mrs. Hannah Rottenberg in February last, that the divorce would mark the beginning of a year's probation at the end of which, if he behaved, he would remarry his wife. He is again wed to her though the period of probation is not finished.

Mrs. Rottenberg, who was formerly Miss Hanna Kauffmann, and her former husband were married by Rev. Henry J. Messing, pastor of the United Hebrew Synagogue at his home, 4439 Delmar avenue Wednesday afternoon. The ceremony was performed without the knowledge or consent of Mrs. Rottenberg's family, except her mother, who, although she knew her daughter's intention, opposed it. None of the Kauffmann family attended the wedding. The bride's mother, Mrs. Kauffmann, at her home, 5190 Morgan street Thursday said she did not know her daughter's whereabouts.

Mr. and Mrs. Rottenberg were first married in St. Louis in March, 1900. Rottenberg had then been in St. Louis a year, coming here from New York. He is a tailor. Miss Kauffmann was then 19 years old and her husband was 24. After the wedding they went to live on California avenue.

In February last the divorce trial was heard before Judge Ryan of the Circuit Court. It was then that Rottenberg while testifying on the stand, made the statement that he would again marry at the end of a year, if he behaved himself. He said that his wife's mother had said to him that if her daughter got a divorce and he behaved himself for a year they could be remarried.

In her petition for divorce Mrs. Rottenberg had said that her husband gambled. She charged that he stayed out nights until unseemly hours, and did not treat her properly. He did not contest the case, but was summoned as a witness.

Courted by Telephone.

By the decree Mrs. Rottenberg was granted the custody of their 5-year-old daughter, Mildred. The child is now living with her grandmother on Morgan street.

Since the divorce Mrs. Rottenberg has lived at her parents' home and Rottenberg has roomed at 4112 Morgan street.

Mrs. Kauffmann, the mother, said that Rottenberg had been forbidden to call since the divorce, but he has been in constant communication with his former wife. He talked to her frequently by telephone, Mrs. Kauffmann said, and had seen her a number of times.

Several weeks ago Mrs. Rottenberg confided her intention of remarrying her former husband to her mother. Mrs. Kauffmann said that she had done all she could to dissuade her daughter and had kept the intended marriage secret because she feared that her sons might make it unpleasant for Rottenberg. In spite of her protests, she said, her daughter bade her good-by Wednesday and left the house, saying that the wedding had been arranged.

Mrs. Kauffmann said that the family objected to the marriage because they feared that Rottenberg was still a victim of the gambling passion which he had admitted while testifying at the divorce hearing. M. Kauffmann, father of Mrs. Rottenberg, is a dry goods merchant at Parma, Mo. Thursday he had not been informed of the wedding.

Rottenberg is employed at an Olive street tailoring establishment. He declined to discuss his remarriage and refused to divulge his present home.

MILLIONAIRES DISHONEST.

Cleveland Y. M. C. A. Decides Question bv Vote of 10 to 7.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 26.—The Arena Club of the Y. M. C. A. decided this morning that a millionaire cannot be an honest man. Some other decisions were arrived at that must have made the ears of Rockefeller, Carnegie, Morgan and others burn.

At the meeting the question under discussion was: "Can a millionaire be an honest man?" The answer in the negative was made by a vote of 10 to 7. One of the members held that the automobile in which John D. Rockefeller passed a tired washerwoman on the street belonged, according to a just law of wages for labor, to the woman rather than to the multimillionaire.

Carnegie made money too fast to be honest, was another assertion made. The general opinion as expressed by John A. Alburn, the leader, was that a man ceases to be honest when he accumulates more money than is needed for him to live modestly and does not use the surplus for the benefit of his fellow man.

Steigers, Herman Steinwender, W. A. Stickney, Otto F. Stifel, Philip Stock, J. P. Whyte and Fred Widman.

ACTRESS' HOME GOES FOR LOANS

"Atlasta Place," Country Seat of Grace Van Studdiford, Sold to J. W. Thompson.

A deed transferring "Atlasta Place," the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Studdiford on Lackland avenue in St. Louis County, to John W. Thompson, a general railroad contractor with an office in the Wainwright Building, was filed with the County Recorder in Clayton Thursday afternoon. A separate deed transferring all the chattels, fixtures and furnishings of the country home to the same grantee was filed at the same time.

The papers were filed by O. G. Shands, office man of John W. Thompson, to secure loans made to the Van Studdiford by Thompson.

"The deeds do not mean a final sale," said Mr. Thompson to a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday. "If the Van Studdifords meet certain obligations they have assumed—that is, pay back loans and interest—the property reverts to them again. If not, the deeds stand as recorded."

The consideration named in the transfer is $25,000.

Building Another Home.

"The consideration is not that which passed in the transaction," said Mr. Shands. "It is merely nominal. I prefer not to tell the amount that Mr. Thompson loaned to the Van Studdifords."

Mrs. Van Studdiford, known on the stage as Grace Van Studdiford, is at present playing in vaudeville in Chicago. Her husband and her brother are living at the country home.

"My sister is now building another home," said Mr. Quive, Mrs. Van Studdiford's brother. "I will not say where. There is nothing in the sale. The Van Studdifords have sold enough real estate in and about St. Louis that such a transaction should attract no attention."

The tract of land on which the Van Studdiford country home stands was sold to them six years ago by Judge Henry D. Laughlin. The price, real estate men declare, was very moderate the intention of the seller being to fix the character of the residences in the district. The Van Studdiford home, a structure of concrete on attractive architectural lines, is said to have met the expectations of the seller.

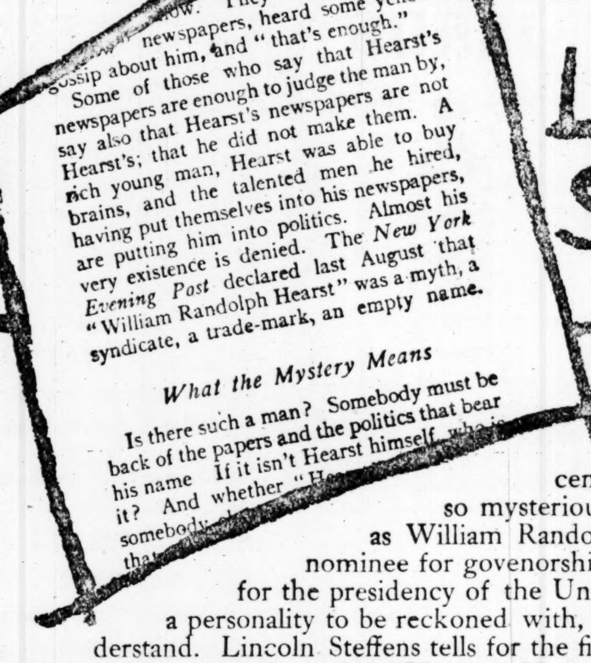
Is Hearst HEARST? by Lincoln Steffens



...denotes a ...know. And nobody ...ow. They have read his ... newspapers, heard some yellow gossip about him, and "that's enough." Some of those who say that Hearst's newspapers are enough to judge the man by, say also that Hearst's newspapers are not Hearst's; that he did not make them. A rich young man, Hearst was able to buy brains, and the talented men he hired, having put themselves into his newspapers, are putting him into politics. Almost his very existence is denied. The New York Evening Post declared last August that "William Randolph Hearst" was a myth, a syndicate, a trade-mark, an empty name.

What the Mystery Means

Is there such a man? Somebody must be back of the papers and the politics that bear his name If it isn't Hearst himself, who is it? And whether "He... somebody... that...

Not in our time, at least, has there suddenly come from behind the scenes to the very center of the public stage, so mysterious and elusive a character as William Randolph Hearst, Democratic nominee for govenorship of New York, aspirant for the presidency of the United States. There he is, a personality to be reckoned with, one it is necessary to understand. Lincoln Steffens tells for the first time in a clear, forceful, fearless manner just where Hearst is Hearst and where he is someone else; a vital, striking, out-of-the-ordinary delineation of him as journalist and politician—his personality, his ambition, his theories, his proposed reforms.

Carl Schurz, almost the only American who had the opportunity of seeing the entire Civil War from the inside, had the ability to write it as it should be written. The second part of his Reminiscences, beginning in deals with the epochal events in American history, culminating in that magnificent description of Lincoln which has not been equaled by any writer, not even John Hay.

McClure's

Magazine for November

Schurz saw Lincoln as he was in his relation to the government, to the war and to his friends. He writes without fear or favor. He saw the Battle of Gettysburg from a point of vantage and has contributed the greatest description of this battle that has yet been written,

This history, which is now being printed in McClure's Magazine, will be read in the school books of future generations. HARPERS BOOKS

Gray Mist

By the author of "The Martyrdom of an Empress."

This is a story by one who knows—a book that rings true, a book written of an isolated and peculiar people by one of themselves. It is a story of a land nearer than Paris, but as remote as a dead century, told by one who calls it "home," and who loves it with all the passionate devotion of exile.

The men and women who move through its pages are drawn from life. The beautiful Breton landscapes of cliff and sea are depicted by an artist in word-painting, and the main incidents of a plot of deep interest are actual facts, strange as they are. Illustrated in color from paintings by the author.

BOSS PRESIDENT IN ROW WITH RELATIVE

An ash cart which Chris Von der Ahe, former president of the St. Louis Browns, sold for $8 is the cause of an estrangement between Von der Ahe and his former brother-in-law, Theodore Paschedag.

Paschedag conducts a livery stable just across the street from Von der Ahe's saloon on North Grand avenue. He appeared at the Four Courts Friday. Von der Ahe came soon after, and Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Thomas heard both sides. He took no action.

Until five months ago, Chris and his former brother-in-law were good friends. Then he transferred his livery business he says, to Paschedag's brothers on the same street. Relations grew strained, and Von der Ahe says he ordered Paschash cart to remove from his premises an ashcart which had been there four years. He says Paschedag paid no attention to the notice, and he sold the cart for $8 to pay for storage. This sale caused the complaint. Paschedag told Thomas he valued the cart at $35.

SWITCHMEN ASK 10 CENTS MORE HOURLY

WANT EIGHT-HOUR DAY

Demands Are Backed by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

The demand of switchmen upon the Terminal Railroad Association and all railroads entering St. Louis and East St. Louis for an increase in wages, filed by a committee of employes distinct from the unions, has now taken the form of a formal demand upon the railroads by the unions for higher wages.

The demand was made by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the railroads are given until Nov. 3 to comply with the demand.

Officials of the unions will not be interviewed, but individual members say that unless the railroads concede to the demands a strike of the switchmen employed by the railroads in St. Louis and East St. Louis and the Terminal Association will follow.

It is said that this will not only affect St. Louis but that a general strike probably will follow on all of the railroads in the United States.

Already signs of preparation by the Terminal and other railroads in East St. Louis are apparent. The railroads have stationed watchmen at all of the switch towers and freight offices in East St. Louis and say they are ready for any outbreak.

The railroads have announced that they have men in both cities ready to take the places of the switchmen.

Sheriff Won't Name Deputies.

Representatives of the railroads asked Sheriff Thompson of St. Clair County Friday to give watchmen stationed at the switch towers commissions as deputy sheriffs. Sheriff Thompson refused to comply, saying that it was too near election time to have armed guards all over the city in opposition to the unions.

The railroads have placed advertisements for switchmen and trainmen. Many of the men who applied, however, refused to accept work when it became known what they would be expected to do if a strike occurred.

The switchmen asked that they be given 38 cents an hour and a working day of eight hours in their first demand through a committee. They also asked that the foreman of the switching crews be given 42 cents an hour.

The present scale for switchmen is 28 cents an hour and for foremen 33 cents an hour, with a working day of nine and ten hours. The switchmen gave the railroads until Thursday, Oct. 25, at 10 a. m. to consider the matter.

In making the demand the switchmen did not consult with the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, which has affiliated with it switchmen, and there came near being a split between the two. They held a joint meeting Sunday in East St. Louis and the brotherhood agreed to join the switchmen and demand that the railroads grant the scale of wages asked for by the switchmen.

Busiest Time of Year.

An agreement was then made that the switchmen would not go on a strike Thursday, but would wait until the expiration of the limit placed by the brotherhood, which is Nov. 3.

A member of the union said Friday that the switchmen thought their demand had been made at the proper time, as this is the busiest time of the year and there is a serious congestion in the terminal yards in both cities.

In speaking of the congested condition of freight, J. C. Lincoln, commissioner of the St. Louis Traffic Bureau, said: "It is to be hoped that the railroads will get together and avert the strike as it would result disastrously to St. Louis just at present, considering the condition of affairs. We are having many complaints from the grain men about congestion and delay in shipping. Many report cancellation of sales on account of the delay. I do not know what the fault is. It may be in the inadequate terminal facilities or the lack of motive power. There is a complaint of congestion from all parts of the United States.

"There must be something seriously wrong when it requires seven days for the shipment of a car of grain from Kansas City to St. Louis. It is either delayed in one of the cities or at some point between."

L. D. Kingsland, president of the Million Population Club said, "Congestion of freight in St. Louis is caused by the inadequate terminal facilities and there are many complants being made about delays of shipment of St. Louis products. It is to be hoped that something will be done to prevent a strike that would further congest the freight shipment."

A. F. Versen, secretary of the Traffic Bureau of the Business Men's League, said: "I do not know of my personal knowledge that there is congestion of freight in St. Louis, but from complaints of others there must be. The Terminal facilities are inadequate and there will be more or less congestion until the facilities are increased.

"The fault, however, is not only with the Terminal, but with the shippers as well. The shippers are negligent in unloading and loading cars, causing delays in that way.

"The railroads are as much to blame as the Terminal Association. From personal experience I know of instances where the railroads wanted to deliver cars to the Terminal Association but would not accept cars from the Terminal, saying they could not handle any more.

"The Terminal would not accept the cars unless the railroads would accept cars from it in exchange.

"Another thing is the coal business. Coal men are allowed 72 hours to unload a car of coal. This necessarily delays matters and causes a congestion and a shortage of cars. I think the railroads will eventually have to cut down the time of the coal men to 48 hours like all other business."

DIVORCE AT NEAR THE GOLDEN WEDDING TIME.

Applicant Says She Was Married in 1861.

SEATTLE, Wash, Oct. 27.—After 45 years of married life, Mary Ann Koperowski, or Mary Ann Cooper, as she prefers to be known, has brought suit against Michael Koperowski, or Cooper, for a divorce. She alleges desertion as the reason for the divorce, and asks for the property belonging to the couple.

Mrs. Cooper claims that she was married in Poland in 1861, and lived with her husband until 1895. They have seven children, all of whom are grown. Five years ago Mrs. Cooper obtained a divorce, but it was found to be faulty because of certain legal technicalities.

POOR SOCIALIST EDITOR SPURNS BRIBER'S CASH.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—The Humanite, of which M. Jaures, the Socialist champion, is the editor, is, as he himself announces, passing through a crisis, and if immediate help is not forthcoming it will go to smash. It is $300 to the bad every month, and this makes up a round sum in process of time.

Economy and a little more patronage might, M. Jaures thinks, set matters right, but anyhow, the Humanite cannot go on at the present rate. Purely political newspapers like it are not usually paying concerns, but M. Jaures tells us that the Humanite might have been saved if he had accepted the offer made to him a few days ago of $50,000, on the condition that he should cease his campaign against "the Russian finances," and should not protest against the new loans contemplated by the Czar on the French market, or the overtures of politicians who would make "miserable intervention with the Government."

Far better will it be to disappear if life is to be kept up at such a cost, remarks M. Jaures, who says that it is a grief to him and to his colleagues to see all their labor of the last two years and a half come to nothing.

LEANING BUILDING REALLY STRAIGHT

The new 16-story Liggett building at Eighth and Chestnut streets presents one of the most striking optical illusions of any of the St. Louis skyscrapers. Viewed from any point between Sixth and Seventh streets on Chestnut, it appears to be leaning far over the street. The front elevation appears to be badly out of plumb, the east corner about 10 feet higher than the west, and there seems to be an actual curvature in the Chestnut street wall.

The illusion is so pronounced that persons frequently stop and take a second look to convince themselves that the building is not about ready to fall. The Leaning Tower of Pisa is not actually out of plumb much more than the Liggett building appears to be from those viewpoints.

If the spectator is standing on the north side of the street and views the building through the network of telegraph and telephone wires the illusion is intensified.

There isn't really anything wrong with the structure. It is a perfect piece of skyscraper architecture, and the walls are all right. From the near distance the eye is not able to adjust itself to the different perspectives—the distance being greater to the top of the building than the bottom—and that causes the illusion.

As the building is erected on sloping ground which the eye uses as a basis of comparison, the illusion seems more pronounced. When standing on the ground and looking at the building through the telegraph wires the spectator does not see things at their proper angles and that intensifies the apparent curvature in the Chestnut street elevation.

F. J. Wiget Exonerated.

Frank J. Wiget, a painter employed by the Missouri Pacific Railroad, and living at 2953 Atlantic avenue, has been exonerated of the charge of robbing Daniel Murphy, a Government cattle inspector, in the saloon at the Gayety Theater. Wiget was arrested on the complaint of a negro porter who said he thought Wiget had drugged and robbed Murphy. Wiget was taken to the Central District Wednesday, Oct. 17, and held for 26 hours. Then he was released on bond. Friday the bond was removed and no warrant issued.

DURING the eight years of our commercial existence we have evolved a supreme standard of clothes excellence for St. Louis men which neither time nor circumstance can lower.

Every garment entering here is a crowning achievement by the most proficient tailors that exist, under whose bold but skillful artisanship has been established a hitherto inaccessible perfection in ready attire.

Let those who will pit their phantom claims against the actualities of our superb apparel. Though it be the most inexpensive garment our collection affords, it does honor to our high standard, or though it be the most costly, yet its intrinsic worth more than justifies our affixed price.

For the touch of the master craftsman is as exclusively evidenced by our $15.00 and $20.00 clothes as by those of more pretentious prices. All are cut from identical patterns, and fashioned from models equally as expressive of the latest mode trends.

And no clothes are subjected to such drastic criticism, such rigorous requirements, such strict specifications—our very insistence acts as an incentive towards betterment upon the comparatively few concerns whose productions we consider adequate to our exactions, and insures for our patrons refined, exclusive clothes incorporating that same painstaking hand-tailor work that forms the high-class tailor's leading pretext for charging you twice what we do.

Any man who appreciates the niceties of dress can do himself no greater service than to become thoroughly acquainted with raiment of such inimitable excellence—

NOT A BORROWED BABY.

Mrs. Maulhardt Denies That She Tried to Deceive Court.

An attempt was made Friday in Judge Fisher's Court to show that Mrs. Josephine Maulhardt of 3649 Vista avenue, who is made defendant in a suit for divorce brought by Emil Maulhardt, borrowed a baby in order to increase the amount of alimony she sought.

Mrs. Maulhardt's motion for alimony pending settlement of the suit was taken up Friday morning, and she was put on the stand by Attorney Walsh, representing her husband.

"Isn't it true, Mrs. Maulhardt, that you went about the neighborhood of your home, looking for a young baby to use in this suit?" he asked.

Before Mrs. Maulhardt could answer Attorney Brock, representing her, objected. Attorney Walsh explained to the Court that Maulhardt denied that he was the father of the child, and that he believed his wife had borrowed it in order to persuade the Court to allow her more alimony. On this statement Mrs. Maulhardt was allowed to answer the question. She denied that she had borrowed the infant, which is 5 months old, and said she could prove it hers.

FARMERS SAY CROP REPORTS AID GAMBLERS

HELP TO SPECULATION

Wisconsin Leader Bolts Because of Choice for National Organizer.

NO DECISION ON TRUST

Twenty-Four States and 200,000 Farmers Represented in Convention.

The farmers don't want the United States Government to send out any more monthly reports of crop conditions giving advance information as to the crops. By a resolution passed at Thursday night's session of the national convention of the American Society of Equity, the farmers' organization, now in session in East St. Louis, the Government methods and regulations along this line were severely criticised.

The farmers demand that all laws and regulations concerning the sending out of these monthly reports be repealed, and that reports be sent out only after the crops are matured. The resolution declares that these Government reports have "often proven disastrous to the farmers' interests, causing millions of dollars to be lost to this class of producers by playing into the hands of speculators and causing them to hammer down prices regardless of the cost of production."

The system in several states requiring the farmers to list their acreage and propective and growing crops, was also attacked by a resolution unanimously aodpted. The resolutions said the system was "manifestly unfair and unjust to producers, and furnished weapons to brokers and speculators to break down and destroy equitable prices on such crops before they were harvested," and demanded the repeal of all such laws.

Minimum Prices Named.

The convention went a step farther in its effort to control market prices and has arranged a list of minimum prices to be accepted by the members for their crops. The members of the society are instructed not to sell any part of their crops until this minimum price is reached. These prices are as follows:

Wheat, No. 1 Northern or No. 2 red, $1; corn, to Jan. 1, 1907, 45 cents; from that date until April 1, 1907, 50 cents; after that date and until prices are again fixed, 55 cents; oats, 40 cents per bushel; barley, No. 2, 55 cents; rye, 75 cents; buckwheat, 70 cents; Irish potatoes, 65 cents; sweet potatoes, 75 cents; navy beans, $1.50; red beans, $2; cotton, 12 cents; wool, 30 cents; hogs, $6.50; cattle, $6; sheep, $5.50; hay, $14; broom corn, $75 to $100.

These prices are based upon Chicago market quotations, except that beans will be regulated by Detroit markets, sweet potatoes and buckwheat by local markets, and cotton by New York.

The plan of circulating a pledge to be signed by the owners of at least three-fourths of the grain producing acreage in the United States, pledging the signers not to sell any part of their crops until the minimum price fixed by the society had been reached, has not yet been approved by the convention. This plan was introduced by J. S. Hayes of Kentucky at Wednesday afternoon's session, but was attacked by the conservative delegates as being the first step in forming a gigantic trust more far-reaching than any trust now in existence. It was also considered by several delegates as a violation of the United States laws prohibiting combinations in restraint of trade.

Wisconsin Leader Bolts.

Several times Thursday the convention was split on various questions. The 16 Wisconsin delegates are the gladiators of the convention and they were in the center of all battles. The crisis was reached late Thursday afternoon when N. C. Crawley, chairman of the delegation and State organizer of Wisconsin, bolted the convention and announced that he would take the delegation with him. This happened during the election of officers, and after the Wisconsin delegation had bitterly fought H. B. Sherman of Indiana for re-election as national organizer.

Sherman was elected three times Thursday before his election would be accepted by the convention. While he was presiding as chairman during the election of officers, a motion was made that he be elected by acclamation. He put the motion and declared himself elected by an aye and nay vote.

After considerable argument, this election was declared off and a vote taken by ballot. When the ballots showed that Sherman was elected by a narrow margin it was suggested that more votes were cast than there were delegates present. After another vote was taken and carried that the ballot stand, he was declared duly elected.

When he was re-elected over their protests the Wisconsin men were chagrined. The delegates lined up on both sides of the room and shook their fists at each other. Crawley paced up and down the aisle between the two factions, wearing his big white hat and smoking a corncob pipe, and finally left the convention hall. The other Wisconsin delegates remained, and at the night session, P. L. Scritsmier, a delegate from Bloomer, Wis., made a plea for harmony, and after an impassioned plea suggested that Mr. Sherman resign his office for the sake of harmony. Sherman did not resign.

President Re-elected.

The national officers elected were: National president, J. A. Everett of Indianapolis, Ind.; vice-president, J. B. Whiting of Interlaken, N. Y.; secretary, M. Wes Tubbs of Indianapolis, Ind.; treasurer, John P. Stelle of Illinois; national organizer, H. B. Sherman of Greensburg, Ind.; directors, H.E. Wilson of Oklahoma, C. O. Drayton of Illinois, W. W. Scott of Wisconsin and M. F. Sharp of Kentucky.

At Friday's sessions, the livestock and fruit and produce departments will hold meetings in conjunction with the national society. Both departments will elect officers and the departments will be officially taken into the organization as an auxiliary branch to work in co-operation with the farmers' branch. Just before the close of the convention, President-elect Everett will deliver an address on "The Field Before Us."

The delegates to this convention represent the farmers of Alabama, Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Indian Territory, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, New Jersey, Nebraska, North Carolina, New York, North Dakota, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia and Wisconsin. Delegates are in attendance from each of these states, and an organization has been formed in each.

According to the constitution of the Society of Equity, a local society having at least 10 members may be formed in any district. In any county having at least five local societies, a county society may be formed, and at least five county societies are required before a State society may be organized. In states having a State organization, the delegates to the national convention must be chosen from the State society officers. If there be no State organization, then the delegates may be selected from the county unions. If there are no county societies, the delegates may become delegates at large from the local unions.

Each local society is entitled to one delegate; from a county society, one delegate is allowed at large and an additional delegate for each 200 members. From State societies one delegate is allowed for each 500 members in the State. Based upon the delegates in attendance, the officers consider that they have approximately 200,000 members.

JUDGES IN FOURTH WARD FEAR ATTACK

Republican Election Officials Say Service at Polls Is Dangerous.

A number of Republican judges and clerks of election, in conversation with Election Commissioner Schnurmacher, have declared that they desired to be excused from serving because they were in fear of physical violence.

"I do not remember the names of the election officials who expressed themselves in this way," said Mr. Schnurmacher to a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday, "but they were officials in the Fourth Ward. I assured them that they would be amply protected by the police and by the Board of Election Commissioners.

"To this they answered, 'Oh, we have received assurances of police protection before, but on election day the protection did not materialize.'

"I believe the police will protect the election officials. The matter has not come before the Board of Election Commissioners.

Strike of Teamsters.

Fifteen teamsters of the Mound City Express Co. have been on a strike for the last eleven days. The strike was ordered because the foreman hired a negro to drive a large transfer wagon. The company has one wagon which the men will not drive on account of its enormous size. The foreman hired a negro to drive the wagon and the men walked out. All the wagons are now driven by negroes.

SALOONKEEPERS, GAMBLERS, RACE TRACK FOLLOWERS ARE NUMEROUS ON CITY LEGISLATIVE TICKETS

The Worst Lot of Candidates for the General Assembly That Have Ever Been Nominated in St. Louis Are Offered This Year.

Legislative Tickets As Shown by Figures

	Dem.	Rep
Saloonkeepers	5	2
Racetrack representatives	2	1
Brewery employes	1	2
Nominated by ward heelers	4	2
Representative citizens	7	12

To be elected, 3 Senators, 16 Representatives.

Many Candidates Are Unknown and Others Have Had No Experience That Qualifies Them for Places in a Lawmaking Body.

A careful investigation by Post-Dispatch reporters shows that 12 of the Democratic legislative nominees are wholly unfit to serve St. Louis in the Legislature. The Republicans did better than the Democrats, but their ticket includes seven men who by reason of bad records or inabilty are incapable of properly filling legislative positions.

Five Democratic nominees are saloon keepers. Every one of them is opposed to the Sunday closing law and owes his nomination to the same influences that hissed the name of Gov. Folk when a resolution proposing an indorsement of the Sunday closing law was introduced into the Democratic city convention.

The Republican leaders refuse to make Folk or his policies an issue in the present city campaign. On the other hand State Senator Sartorius and other Democrats are openly declaring that the Sunday closing law is a farce and if they get an opportunity the St. Louis "lid" will soon be a thing of the past.

Sixteen members of the Missouri House of Representatives and three State senators will be selected by the voters of St. Louis at the coming election, Nov. 6.

The senators are elected for terms of four years each and the representatives for two-year terms. The entire commercial and financial interests of St. Louis, from a legislative standpoint, are vested in the 19 representatives St. Louis sends to Jefferson City.

The next General Assembly will convene in January. At every session of the Legislature important laws affecting the interests of the people of St. Louis are considered. The political bosses in both parties usually dictate the legislative tickets. Their subserviency to the cause of selfish interests has been shown repeatedly in the past.

Two years ago the St. Louis legislative delegation, with comparatively few exceptions, misrepresented St. Louis by telling the Legislature that this city desired to keep on the statute books the old breeders' law which legalized gambling at the racetracks.

Few St. Louis members fairly represented the people in voting on measures affecting the big corporations.

The list of nominations presented to the voters at the coming election contains among others the names of saloonkeepers, ex-detectives, ex-beer salesmen and one former prize fight promoter.

Following are the records of the St. Louis legislative candidates:

Thirtieth District—Ward 6, precincts 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12; all of Wards 7 and 8; precincts 1 to 11 of Ward 12, and all of Ward 13.

John Sartorius (Dem.), present incumbent, conducts a saloon and grocery at 2026 South Ninth street, and, as was pointed out in a recent issue of the Post-Dispatch, his legislative record has been one of subserviency to the lobby.

Adolph E. Methudy (Rep.), is a son of Leopold Methudy, one of the best-known citizens of St. Louis. He spent eight years in the offices of Kehr & Tittman, reading and practicing law, and is now an independent practitioner. He is about 32 years old and has never held public office. He is outspoken in his indorsement of good government as distinguished from partisan government.

Thirty-second District—Ward 12, precinct 15; precincts 12, 13 and 14 of Ward 14; all of Wards 22 and 23; precincts 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 of Ward 24; all of Ward 25, and precincts 1 to 18 inclusive, of Ward 28.

Jeff J. Prendergast (Dem.), president of a construction company, is an active politician, having served two years as a member of the Democratic City Central Committee. He has not, however, sought public office before. In the business world he enjoys a high reputation for integrity and industry.

Frederick Klusmeyer (Rep.), is a contractor, living at 753 North Euclid avenue. He was at one time employed in the office of the City Building Inspector during the Ziegenhein administration. Klusmeyer's candidacy was opposed by many prominent Republicans, including some of the organization leaders.

All of Wards 1, 19, 26 and 27; Precincts 12 and 13 of Ward 2; Precinct 12 of Ward 28.

William J. Schoenlaub (Dem.), served a term as Senator in the Forty-first and Forty-second General Assemblies. He voted for the corporations. He was indicted about two years ago on the charge of conducting a lottery, but was never tried. He owns two saloons and has been cited to appear twice before the Excise Commissioner on charges of violating the Sunday closing law.

Peter Anderson (Rep.), is the head of a large plastering firm that bears his name. He lives at 5210 North Twentieth street. He served two years as a member of the City Committee from the First Ward. He has a wide circle of acquaintances. His reputation as a business man is of the best.

First District—Wards 9, 10 and 11, precincts 13, 14 and 16 of Ward 12; precinct 12 of Ward 23; all of Ward 24; precincts 1, 15 and 16 of Ward 25, and precinct 1 of Ward 28.

Louis J. Ziegler (Dem.) lives at 3533 Halliday avenue. He was formerly a member of the city detective force and is now in the insurance business. Has had no legislative experience, no experience as a public speaker, his distinction consisting largely of his record as a thief-catcher.

Many bills affecting insurance companies are considered by the Legislature. As a result of the scandals disclosed in connection with the New York insurance investigation many of the states are expected this year to enact drastic legislation to safeguard the rights of the policy holders.

During his term as detective Ziegler was fined $5 for maltreating a citizen.

Stephen F. O'Donnell (Dem.) lives at 221 West Schirmer street and is a friend of "Tony" Steuver, the South Side brewer-politician. O'Donnell is making the race for the Legislature on a platform directly opposed to the policy of Gov. Folk with respect to the closing of saloons on Sunday.

Samuel Dunn (Dem.) of 5814 West Park avenue is a tile worker. He is not known outside of his immediate neighborhood and has no special qualifications that fit him for the duties of a lawmaker.

John F. Miller (Rep.) lives at 5615 Manchester avenue. Conducts a saloon and grocery, has served a term in the lower branch of the General Assembly and made a record far above the average of those usually sent to represent St. Louis.

Frank B. Warner (Rep.) of 3327 California avenue was identified with the old Ziegenhein administration, serving as a clerk in the City Register's office. He sold pools at the Delmar racetrack two years ago. There is nothing in his record to commend him to the voters as a suitable candidate for legislative honors.

Austin Biggs (Rep.) of 6109 Virginia avenue is a printer. He served in the lower house of the Forty-third General Assembly and voted against the racetracks, railroads and other interests affected by legislation. His record was in marked contrast to that of other St. Louis lawmakers, who took particular pride in advocating the cause of the racetrack gamblers.

Second District—Ward 6, precincts 4, 3, 1, 5, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13; all of Wards 7 and 8; precincts 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 and 15 of Ward 12; all of Ward 13, and precincts 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11 of Ward 23.

John Seufert (Dem.) of 1003 Allen avenue is a ward worker, who, finding himself out of a job, decided to accept a legislative nomination. He has no particular legislative qualifications.

John J. Newport (Dem.) of 3129 St. Vincent avenue enjoys the distinction of being one of the few representative citizens of St. Louis whom the Democrats have nominated for seats in the highest law-making tribunal of the State. He is a cornice manufacturer and heretofore has devoted little time to politics. He believes in the enforcement of the Sunday closing law, he says, and every other law on the Missouri statute books.

Louis T. Mathews (Dem.) of 3009 Hickory street is a clerk in the office of License Collector Clifford at the City Hall. "Billy" Flynn, Democratic boss of the Thirteenth Ward, is chief clerk under Collector Clifford, and it is understood Mathews owes his legislative nomination to this influence. Flynn is a bosom friend of Harry B. Hawes.

Adam Linck (Rep.) is a saloonkeeper at 1052 Park avenue. He has no talent for legislative work.

Charles Schueddig (Rep.) of 525 South Jefferson avenue is a tool manufacturer. He was a member of the House of Representatives at the 1903 session. He voted with most of the other Republican members against the racetrack gang and other interests seeking favors at the hands of the Legislature.

Louis F. Zepp (Rep.) of 1229 South Fifteenth street is a seasoned politician. He was a solicitor for the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association. Following his nomination for Representative he announced that he had quit his brewery job. Zepp served eight years as chief clerk in the Court of Criminal Correction.

Third District—Wards 3, 4, 5, and precincts 2, 6, 7, 14, 15 and 16 of Ward 6; all of Wards 14, 15 and 16, and precincts 1, 2 and 3 of Ward 22.

Robert Lucks (Dem.) has saloon and grocery store at 2101 Biddle street. He is familiarly known as "Bobby" Lucks. He was raised in the neighborhood of Twelfth and O'Fallon streets and is a great favorite with the factory people, it being said to his credit that he has loaned as many as a dozen umbrellas to shoe factory girls when they chanced to be caught in the rain. He has always kept a large stock of umbrellas on hand and whenever there is a shower the factory girls make a bee line for his grocery store.

John Maroney (Dem.) is a former saloon keeper and lives at 604 Walnut street. He is at present connected with the Water Department of the city and until a few weeks ago was in the roof contracting business. He was conducting a saloon on Market street last winter, when Excise Commissioner Mulvihill revoked his license on the charge that his saloon was a disorderly place. He lives in the Fifth Ward and is a brother-in-law of Constable "Eddie" Morrisey.

John J. McDermott (Dem.), former deputy marshal in the Dayton Street Police Court, is a protege of "Jimmy" Miles, Democratic boss of the Third Ward. He lives at 1301 North Eleventh street. He is a personal and political associate of Senator Schoenlaub.

David Langah (Rep.), lawyer, lives at 825 Wash street. He has never held public office.

John H. Gentner (Rep.) is a clerk for the St. Louis Transfer Co. He has no special legislative qualifications.

John C. Gurda (Rep.), lawyer, lives at 1303 Cass avenue. He is a new figure in St. Louis politics, but he bears a good reputation and is superior in point of ability to any of the Democrats named in this district.

Fourth District—Wards 2, 17 and 18, and precincts 1, 2, 3, 5, 6, 8, 9 and 12 of Ward 19; all of Ward 20, and precincts 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 13 of Ward 21, and precincts 1 to 8 inclusive of Ward 26.

Charles W. Casey (Dem.) is a lawyer and resides in the Twenty-sixth Ward. This is the first time he has sought public office.

Joseph L. Doyle (Dem.) lives at 3126 North Eleventh street. He is an iron worker, entirely inexperienced in the public service.

Fred Busche (Rep.) is a retired grocer and lives at 2601 Natural Bridge road. He has plenty of leisure time and wants to spend it learning how Missouri's laws are made at Jefferson City. He is a brother of former State Senator Charles W. Busch, who figured unpleasantly in the State boodle exposures.

Dr. Goldburn H. Wilson (Rep.) has served three terms in the Missouri Legislature. During his first term he voted for the bill to legalize the St. Louis street railway monopoly. He improved on this record in the succeeding sessions and steered clear of the corporation lobby two years ago. If elected he will be a candidate for Speaker providing the House is Republican.

Henry Droste (Rep.) of 1823 North Jefferson avenue has had several years' experience at the St. Louis bar and is held in high esteem in North St. Louis, irrespective of political affiliations.

Fifth District—Ward 1 and precincts 4, 10, 11, 13 and 14 of Ward 19; precincts 9 to 16 inclusive of Ward 26, and all of Ward 27.

Thomas M. Neagle (Dem.) of 4049A Kossuth avenue, is an insurance agent. He was nominated at a legislative convention dominated by ward heelers.

Richard Hanlon (Dem.), also known as "Turtle Dick," is a betting commissioner. He formerly conducted a saloon at Nineteenth and Chestnut streets, in the heart if the "Bad Lands."

Orestes C. Phillips (Rep.) is a well-known young lawyer and lives at 4405 Greer avenue. He is regarded highly by the members of the St. Louis Bar Association.

A. Haller (Rep.) is a painter and lives at 4236 Kennerly avenue. Both Haller and Phillips are said to be better equipped in every way for legislative honors than are their Democratic opponents.

Sixth District—Precincts 1, 2, 3, 9, 10, 11 and 12 of Ward 21; precincts 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14 of Ward 22; precinct 13 of Ward 23; precincts 2 to 14 inclusive of Ward 25, and precincts 2 to 20 of Ward 28.

Theron E. Catlin (Rep.) of 21 Vandeventer place, second son of Daniel Catlin, the millionaire tobacco manufacturer, is a young lawyer of unquestioned ability, industry and integrity. This is his first appearance in the field of St. Louis politics. The convention that nominated Willard and Catlin was in point of the personnel of the delegates a startling contrast to the convention that fathered the candidacy of Brady and Baumann.

W. P. Brady (Dem.), better known as "Sport" Brady, is another type of legislative timber the St. Louis Democracy desires to send to Jefferson City to embarrass the administration of Gov. Folk. When the Governor's name was hissed in the Democratic city convention, politicians said that such treatment of Folk wouldn't be a marker to what St. Louis Democrats who dislike him would do when they came to select a legislative ticket. That is one of the reasons why "Sport" Brady was put up. Brady was fired from the city detective force about two years ago.

Henry A. Baumann (Dem.) of 4071 McPherson avenue owes his nomination to the same influences that dictated the selection of "Sport" Brady. "Hennie" Bowmann, as he is known among all his friends, was identified a few years ago with Charlie Haughton in promoting prizefights at the West End Coliseum. If he has any qualifications for the office he now seeks, and he has never been a candidate for office before, he is keeping them quietly to himself.

Charles A. Willard (Rep.) is a retired merchant, living at 5944 Cabanne avenue. He is 74 years old. He has a long and honorable record in the St. Louis business world and is so far above the caliber of the Democratic candidates in this district that thousands of voters independent of partisan considerations intend to vote for him in order to rebuke the bosses who have nominated mere tools for legislative positions.

HARRIMAN MAY RETIRE.

Wants to Devote Time to Gigantic Railway Scheme.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—There is a report in circulation here that E. H. Harriman is to retire from the presidency of the Union and Southern Pacific railroads. According to the rumor, the plan is to make J. C. Stubbs, now traffic director for the Harriman lines, president, in addition to his present position, Mr. Harriman remaining chairman of the Executive Committee of the system.

His reason for retiring from the presidency is said to be a desire to devote more of his time to the task which he is supposed to have undertaken of securing a line of railroads from New York to the Pacific coast and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico.

BOLTERS' LEADER RULED OFF TICKET

Election Board Ends Samuel F. Myerson's Senatorial Candidacy.

Samuel F. Myerson, leader of the Republican bolters, has been debarred from running as an independent candidate for the State Senate from the Thirty-second District. The Board of Election Commissioners has thrown his petition out.

Reasons given for rejecting the petition are that the signatures were obtained irregularly, and were not those of persons who intended to vote for Myerson. Objection to the petition was raised by L. C. Dyer of the Republican City Committee from the Twenty-third Ward.

The board found that Notaries E. J. Welsch and Frank Malone had not acknowledged the signatures of each signer individually. The certificate of acknowledgment did not include the names of the petitioners.

A number of the signers were summoned by the commissioners. Among them were Street Commissioner Valliant, R. F. Combs, Henry Newmark, an employe in the Street Department, and E. S. Brooks, an employe in Collector Hagerman's office. Myerson told the commissioners he would resist the action of the board and would, if necessary, take the matter into the courts.

MELLEN SCORES ROOSEVELT

Republican Railroad Official Shows His Resentment.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WATERBURY, Conn., Oct. 26.—President Charles S. Mellen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, was the honorary guest and speaker at the Waterbury Club last night. President Mellen, who is a life-long Republican and was a member of the Roosevelt Notification Committee, showed his resentment toward President Roosevelt for the latter's advocacy of railroad rate legislation in a veiled and sarcastic reference.

"I have noted with amusement not unmixed with exasperation," said President Mellen, "some comments regarding my relations with public men and most recently with Messrs. Bryan and Hearst. I have never met either of the gentlemen. I should be glad to, some time, especially Mr. Bryan, for I am more than interested to become acquainted with the man who, it seems to me, more than any other, has originated many of the policies now governing the party to which I have always belonged, which policies seem to have made possible the candidacy of Mr. Hearst."

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AFTER.

In the daily reminiscences of a venerable contemporary it was stated Thursday that 25 years ago "between 200 and 300 men, representing the leading business interests of the city, met to devise means for raising the freight blockade in East St. Louis."

And the blockade still exists.

Ever since the first bridge was thrown across the river to connect the Eastern and Western halves of the continent and to supply a highway from the East to the West St. Louis has been the victim of monopoly "holdups" and traffic blockades. The great highway which should have been an unmixed blessing was hampered by the fetters of greed and oppression.

Today, after a quarter of a century of struggle on the part of the people of St. Louis, freight is still doled out slowly and painfully in East St. Louis. It is still hauled over in wagons and ferry boats. It is still subject to arbitrary charges and discriminations.

What will be the conditions for the next 25 years—years of crucial competition with other growing markets for the trade of the great and rapidly developing southwestern empire?

The monopoly cinch must be broken and the freight blockade raised or St. Louis will be put out of business.

REFORM AND PROSPERITY.

In her letter read before the New York mass meeting of insurrectos against the nu spelling, Mrs. Mollie Elliot Seawell showed much rebellious feeling, effervescing into the conclusion that fonetic spelling is "a crazy scheme advocated by cranks of high and low degree."

This and the like violence of expression makes it seem likely that there are more unreasonable people still unpacified than can be got into concentration camps for fonetic education at present.

Made bold by numbers, they show their feelings of mutiny and rage in language which takes little account of logic. At this same meeting when it had been unanimously agreed that fonetic spellers of high and low degree are all "cranks," Prof. Brander Matthews, as one of those accused of the worst crankiness, was exhibited to scorn and loathing in a confession that if he were writing another novel he "would not use the nu spelling for fear it would hurt the sale."

When the insurrectos cheered this as proof of his intellectual perdition they were really acquitting him on their own indictment as a crank. No crank will dismount from his hobby when it balks at his commercial interests. Instead of getting down to lead it around the obstacle he will keep his seat and jolt on straight ahead.

QUESTIONS OF THE HEROIC.

With the able assistance of his wife, who is showing herself in all respects a genuine heroine, ex-Senator Burton has begun his imprisonment at Ironton, like a hero and a martyr.

The heroism seems to be genuine, worth its full face value. It is so real that if it were shown generally at a crisis, we might need fewer jails for United States senators and other people who are heroic "with the limit off."

If so many of the rest of us as profess devotion to "civic virtue" showed half the practical devotion to it Burton showed in earning his unlawful fee, and half the heroism in bearing reproach for "civic virtue" he shows in bearing his reproach now—then what?

On the other hand, there was a certain poor widow, a washerwoman, who knew little of law. Having a certain small collection of mites (and losing all sense of civic virtue, if she ever had it) she cast the whole collection into the treasury of Senator Burton's clients while he in Washington was using his eminent talents as a United States Senator to stop the operation of the laws of the United States.

She was not a heroine, that certain poor widow, who may have scrubbed floors for half a lifetime to save the hundred dollars or so on which she was made to hope that she could quickly and surely get a thousand-dollar return without earning it. There was nothing admirable about her as, from week to week, she used all the mind she had left after the loss of her money, in trying to follow the trail of Senator Burton's elusive clients and get back the money which morally she deserved to lose.

But she was only one of many of her kind, weak enough to need at every "tottering step" the support and protection of the law which ought to make the jail comfortable for every heroic soul that risks more against the law than the rest of us are likely to do in supporting it.

Judge Finkelnburg's decision that the records of the East-Bound Freight Committee must be produced in court was clear, broad and to the point. It covered all the law and the equity of the case and laid down a broad, just rule of action. The Terminal monopoly has been driven from its last refuge and stands exposed in its true character. Common terminals are good when their benefits are fairly distributed between the public and the railroads, but when they cover oppression and discrimination enforced by monopoly they represent an intolerable abuse. The evils of monopoly must be eliminated from our bridge and terminal system. It must serve, not oppress, the people.

BELATED WISDOM.

The Philadelphia North American, not having the fear of Gov. Pennypacker in the mind's eye, has exposed some details of deceit in the wonderful $13,000,000 Capitol building.

One of the shams is the use of putty and plaster moldings painted in imitation of mahogany. When the discovery was made it was said in defense that these were stuck on high up in the dome, etc., where it didn't matter. But it was immediately proved that the bogus work was found everywhere. Machine pressed ornaments of putty greet the eye on all sides and it needs only a little more than casual glance to detect the fake.

What a pity the press did not get on the track of the fake before it became an accomplished fact. The $4,000,000 Capitol turns out to be a $13,000,000 structure, and it is not known how much of it is putty, plaster of paris and paper mache, like the Albany Capitol of malodorous fame.

The Republicans are having an unhappy time of it this campaign. They are forced to confess; they cannot excuse. They can only weep and wish that the newspaper press had stopped their boards, commissions, treasurers, contractors and all the mad rout of graft before the evil thing was done.

If the g. o. p. is defeated in Pennsylvania this year it will be because the Republican office-holding clique was not exposed in time. "Why did not somebody tell on us before we did it?" That is the cry in the hearts of the frightened partisans. Gov. Pennypacker, scholar, jurist, sensitive plant—how must he regret his hot tirades against the newspapers which printed his picture. Had he only known what was going on! But he is the very man who screamed loudest against any publicity for public acts.

What ought to be done with the babies whose natural protectors are unwilling to care for them? What is the best way to solve the problem of the foundling? Has St. Louis learned the best way? These and other questions are suggested by an illustrated article in the coming Sunday Post-Dispatch which shows how the unwelcome baby finds a shelter and perhaps a home in "the saddest place in St. Louis." The writer of the article and the artist who illustrates it have produced a page which cannot fail to deeply impress every thoughtful reader. The unwelcome baby, or the baby practically orphaned by poverty, is far more of a problem than the orphan made so by death. It involves social conditions which are radically wrong. Perhaps some readers of the Post-Dispatch may suggest a remedy.

WHAT TIME IS IT?

The Texas Supreme Court has decided that solar, not standard time, governs the courts. In the case decided there was a difference of 18 minutes between the two.

There have been cases before other State courts in which the time reckoning was considered, but the question is not yet firmly settled.

In transactions in which time is an element it may become the determining factor. Insurance contracts will occur to everyone as especially liable to peril if there is any doubt of the legal mode of reckoning. It is a matter which ought to be taken up by the legislatures and Congress, to the end that a uniform rule may be laid down.

LEARNING FROM THE INDIAN.

We are indebted to the Indian for corn and tobacco. The notion that we should kill the Indian because the one gave us whisky and the other cigarettes is not shared by the majority, who realize that in each of these great staples we have found infinitely more good than evil.

It is never too late to learn from the Indian. Mr. J. M. Barrie, the eminent Scotch dramatist, has of late been examining the peculiar Indian nomenclature which enriches our border history with such names as Rain-in-the-Face, Young-Man-Afraid-of-His-Horses, and the immortal Belly-Full-of-Hailstones.

Mr. Barrie finds good in this. It strikes his fancy, and he adapts it to his own work. Next week he is to send us "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire," his new play. The Indian nomenclature adaptation makes apparent at a glance just what the play is about. Being permitted this deep insight into it, we are able to know in advance whether or not we want to see it. This is an admirable idea, for our experience with the plays of the old and ambiguous titles has been that we didn't want to see them, but were unable to know it until we had seen them.

SOMEONE.

  Clothed in the colors of fall;
Someone is tramping through the soft leaves
  Under the cottonwoods tall;
Someone is sleeping o' nights in a tent
  Under the autumnal sky;
    Ah, an 'twere I!

Someone is smoking beside his camp fire
  In the sweet evening time;
Someone invoking the Muse with his bri'r,
  Making his heart sing a rhyme;
Someone is listing the hoot owl's repeat
  Out where the swift echoes fly;
Someone is trysting with Nature so sweet—

MY DOCUMENT.

(With Apologies to Miss Magie.)

I am a poor newspaper poet. I write rhymes and jokes. My salary is 23—bucks a week. I have a soul, but it does not come down to the office with me. Nobody could satisfy a soul on 23 per. Mine cruises the ethereal seas with the souls of Homer, Shakspeare, Byron, Keats and that bunch.

I want an automobile! Gods, how I want an automobile! Why can't I have one? Because I am a poet? Hath not a poet eyes? Hath not a poet organs, dimensions, senses, affections? Is he not warmed by the same sun, lighted by the same moon, cooled by the same wind as a man with money? If we are pricked do we not bleed? If we passed in a big tooter, wouldn't they all stare? If we hit it up, wouldn't they all scatter? If it broke down, wouldn't we crawl around under it and try to repair it? If we are like them in these things, wouldn't we love to run over and kill somebody just as much as they do? Ha! It is too much!

I know a man who is traveling around the world. Why can't I travel around the world? Wouldn't I like to warm my feet in the crater of Vesuvius as well as he? Wouldn't I like to crawl around over the Pyramids? Wouldn't I like to skip pebbles on the Ganges and knock around on the roof in Tibet? Will he see any more than I could? Will he enjoy it any more? Will he kick any harder at the hotels, or want to get home any worse? Not on your life.

I'm wearing my overcoat the third winter. I know a lot of people who get a new one every year. Do they enjoy them any more than I would? Do the coats look any better on them? Are they any easier for the tailor to fit? Can they stand him off any longer? Nix.

I live in a flat, but I know people who live in houses. Do they like to come downstairs to breakfast any more than I would? Do they shudder any harder at the thought of living in a sort of bowling alley, with a pianola upstairs? Did they move any quicker when they could afford it than I would? Nay, nay, Pauline.

I am a victim of the system. I am a desperate man. I know what I will do: I will sell myself into slavery? I will be a white slave.

Bid, ladies, bid for fair.
Bid for the slave with the uncut hair.

If Hearst is beaten there will be a bitter fight for the prize money between the editorial writers and the political poets.

FOOTBALL NEWS.

COLUMBIA, Oct. 26.—There was a stir here today. A circular issued by the Humane Society of Missouri was found in the football team's training quarters. President Jesse was at once notified, and ordered all of the players searched. The result was amazing. Every man but two on the Missouri team was found to have a copy of this circular in his clothes, and these two were finally discovered to have hidden them in their hair. The coach has resigned in disgust, and the faculty, unwilling to see athletics die at Missouri, is trying to organize a basket-ball squad.

MARK TWAIN'S BIOGRAPHY

By His Little Daughter, Susy.

WHEN Susy was 13, and was a slender little maid with plaited tails of copper-tinged brown hair down her back, and was perhaps the busiest bee in the household hive, by reason of the manifold studies, health exercises and recreations she had to attend to, she secretly, and of her own motion, and out of love, added another task to her labors—the writing of a biography of me, says Mr. Clemens in the North American Review. She did this work in her bedroom at night, and kept her record hidden. After a little, the mother discovered it and filched it, and let me see it; then told Susy what she had done, and how pleased I was, and how proud. I remember that time with a deep pleasure. I had had compliments before, but none that touched me like this; none that could approach it for value in my eyes. It has kept that place always since. I have had no compliment, no praise, no tribute from any source, that was so precious to me as this one was and still is. As I read it now, after all these many years, it is still a king's message to me, and brings me the same dear surprise it brought me then—with the pathos added, of the thought that the eager and hasty hand that sketched it and scrawled it will not touch mine again—and I feel as the humble and unexpectant must feel when their eyes fall upon the edict that raises them to the ranks of the noble.

Susy began the biography in 1885, when I was in the fiftieth year of my age, and she just entering the fourteenth of hers. She begins in this way:

"We are a very happy family. We consist of papa, mamma, Jean, Clara and me. It is papa I am writing about, and I shall have no trouble in not knowing what to say about him, as he is a very striking character."

The first critic that ever had occasion to describe my personal appearance littered his description with foolish and inexcusable errors whose aggregate furnished the result that I was distinctly and distressingly unhandsome. That description floated around the country in the papers, and was in constant use and wear for a quarter of a century. It seems strange to me that apparently no critic in the country could be found who could look at me and have the courage to take up his pen and destroy that lie. That lie began its course on the Pacific Coast, in 1864, and it likened me in personal appearance to Petroleum V. Nasby, who had been out there lecturing. For 25 years afterward no critic could furnish a desciption of me without fetching in Nasby to help out my portrait. I knew Nasby well, and he was a good fellow, but in my life I have not felt malignant enough about any more than three persons to charge those persons with resembling Nasby. It hurst me to the heart. I was always handsome. Anybody but a critic could have seen it. And it had long been a distress to my family—including Susy—that the critics should go on making this wearisome mistake year after year, when there was no foundation for it. Even when a critic wanted to be particularly friendly and complimentary to me he didn't dare to go beyond my clothes. He never ventured beyond that old safe frontier. When he had finished with my clothes he had said all the kind things, the pleasant things, the complimentary things he could risk. Then he dropped back on Nasby.

From Susy's Biography—"Papa's appearance has been described many times, but very incorrectly. He has beautiful gray hair, not any too thick or any too long, but just right; a Roman nose, which greatly improves the beauty of his features; kind blue eyes and a small mustache. He has a wonderfully shaped head and profile. He has a very good figure—in short, he is an extraordinarly fine looking man. All his features are perfect, except that he hasn't extraordinary teeth. His complexion is very fair, and he doesn't wear a beard. He is a very good man and a very funny one. He has got a temper, but we all of us have in this family. He is the loveliest man I ever saw or ever hope to see—and oh, so absent-minded. He does tell perfectly delightful stories. Clara and I used to sit on each arm of his chair and listen while he told us stories about the pictures on the wall." * * * * * *

"Papa's favorite game is billiards, and when he is tired and wishes to rest himself he stays up all night and plays billiards, it seems to rest his head. He smokes a great deal, almost incessantly. He has the mind of an author exactly, some of the simplest things he can't understand. Our burglar alarm is often out of order, and papa had been obliged to take the mahogany room off from the alarm altogether for a time, because the burglar alarm had been in the habit of ringing even when the mahogany room was closed. At length he thought perhaps the burglar alarm might be in order, and he decided to try and see; accordingly, he put it on and then went down and opened the window; consequently the alarm bell rang. It would even if the alarm had been in order. Papa went despairingly upstairs and said to mamma: 'Livy, the mahogany room won't go on. I have just opened the window to see.

"'Why, Youth,' mamma replied, 'if you've opened the window, why of course the alarm will ring!'

"'That's what I've opened it for, why I just went down to see if it would ring!'

"Mamma tried to explain to papa that when he wanted to go and see whether the alarm would ring while the window was closed he mustn't go and open the window—but in vain, papa couldn't understand, and got very impatient with mamma for trying to make him believe an impossible thing true."

"Papa said the other day, 'I am a mugwump and a mugwump is pure from the marrow out. (Papa knows that I am writing this biography of him, and he said this for it.) He doesn't like to go to church at all, why I never understood, until just now, he told us the other day that he couldn't bear to hear anyone talk but himself, but that he could listen to himself talk for hours without getting tired, of course he said this in joke, but Iv'e no doubt it was founded on truth."

NEW JOKES FROM THE OLD WORLD

Courageous Diet.

"If there is anything in the theory that we are what our diet makes us, brave people certainly ought to eat a lot of grapes."

"Why grapes especially?"

Cautious.

"Don't you think kissing is a very foolish practice?"

"Well, I must say it is something I always set my face against."

A Slight Misunderstanding.

"I'd like to know, Mr. Busyman, why I can't have a new silk dress and that French poodle I wanted?"

"Because, my dear, as I told you before, I can't afford such luxuries."

"Then will you please tell me what you mean by this memorandum I found in your pocket. 'Don't forget to see about ribbons and dog of typewriter?'"

A Striking Resemblance.

"Can you tell me why a good housekeeper is like a hustling theatrical manager?"

"Can't say I see any resemblance. Why are they alike?"

Outward Signs.

"That girl's family must have had a rise in the world."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Burton Case.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Our attention is drawn to numerous articles published regarding the recent imprisonment of Senator Burton.

It seems to the writer that the situation is, as the prisoner deems to make it, more of a vacation than anything else.

Why is it that rules are so lax in this particular case?

Senator Burton violated the laws, or at least was judged guilty in his trial, and he should serve his sentence in the regular way. Perhaps it was an "honorable" crime, but he took a long chance for his money and was caught in the deal. The Senator was merely gambling and should pay the penalty.

J. Smith Answered.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

One word for J. Smith. A wife cannot dictate to her husband to employ male stenographers instead of female, as I begged my husband to give employment to a man when I heard that he employed a woman as his stenographer. He told me to go to, that he was running his office, and that he intended to run it as he pleased.

And so it is with a good many more wives, only J. Smith don't hear from them.

Look for the List.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

On reading the pertinent paragraph about the naming of unfit candidates from your live paper it occurs to me that no paper is so well situated to serve the best interests of our city and commonwealth just now as the Post-Dispatch.

There are thousands of our best citizens, regardless of party affiliations, who are anxious to vote intelligently and cast their ballots for men best calculated and qualified to promote the highest interests of our city, State and Republic.

If you can give us the exact status of candidates in your broadly read paper, we editors of church papers will be very glad to copy the same.

Thanking you for what you have accomplished in the past, in behalf of civic righteousness.

W. B. PALMORE,

Hurry Up.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I see by this morning's paper that only 12 days remain in which to secure that $100,000 subscribed by D. R. Francis and W. K. Bixby for the Palace of Fine Arts in Forest Park, conditional upon other subscriptions being added to bring the total up to $500,000. St. Louis is known as a wealthy city, of sound and conservative policy, but she also has the reputation in Eastern cities of being a "slow town," and not undeservedly so. For shame, all ye millionaires (over 30, if I mistake not). Where is your civic pride? Are you going to let two patriotic citizens stand alone upon the pedestal of honor? Get busy. There is still time to take advantage of this glorious opportunity to give St. Louis an art palace which will always be a source of pride and honor to the city. Let us have something besides Carnegie monuments of fame.

STUDENT.

WHISKERS

From the Boston Herald.

FRANK RICHARDSON of London is shocked because Mrs. Craigie used in her last novel, "The Dream and the Business," the expression "side whiskers." He objects to the "redundant 'side.'" Whiskers "is" whiskers, he would have us believe; but there is one glory of the "Piccadilly weepers," and another of the "mutton chop." Mr. George Meredith, who has much to say about whiskers in his novels—did he not invent the sublime word "whiskerage?"—uses the term for various forms of facial foliage. He, Dickens, the Richardson of "Clarissa," Bronte and others added "side" as descriptive and particularizing.

"Whiskers" is now a vague term. It may describe "Galway sluggers." "The wind blew through his whiskers!" But it would scorn to blow through weak "siders." Here is reference to luxuriant growth from ears to below the chin Then there is the Homeric term "zymos." Mr. Richardson condemns "lip whiskers" (for mustache) and "chin whiskers" (beardette) as Americanisms. Who ever heard in Boston the synonym "lip whisker?"

We fear "chin whisker" is an Americanism. Richard Grant White spoke of "that adornment known in the West as 'chin whiskers,'" but Mr. White was too often a superior person. The term is much to be preferred to "beardette," a vile word which is neither English nor French.

OVER THE TEACUPS

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Rose Marion.

"TELL me no more of rare June days; October the opalescent is the month of months," declared Dreamy, as the taste of candied sweet potatoes made her palate glad.

"Don't want to go to the matinee," she added. "Sin to shut yourself indoors a day like this. I'll take my theaters at night until it rains. Besides I want to fix my autumn leaves."

"Where have you been?" asked Nippy, who noticed that Dreamy's skirt was burr embroidered.

"To the home of St. Louis' eldest sister, Cahokia," replied Dreamy.

"Where you and all other dreamers belong," continued Burny. "You could go on dreaming forever there except on Sundays when hunters, fishers and Jake Bene's ballplayers make noise."

"Don't be snippy, Bunny," begged Dreamy." Cahokia is darling these days. The sumac is red, the young wheat is green, and the apple trees look like those in old picture books, they're so burdened with red fruit. The old churchyard through which worshipers have walked for more than 200 years is covered with maple leaves, and the sparrows that live in the old church are busy fixing up thir home for the winter.

"You should see the doors in that old church. Walnut, and as thick as double doors. There's a new rock church, and they don't have services in the old one; but the old pews and the mission cross are in the new church. The old cathedral on Walnut street seems like a new edifice when one is in Cahokia.

"Especially when you look at the tombstones in the old cemetery. One of those is so old you can't read the inscription. Julie Beauvais Jarrott is the name on another. She was born in Kaskaskia in 1780. Imagine! Washington was only 48 then, and the Revolutionary war was on. All the words on that stone are in French.

"The old courthouse is gone. They took it to the World's Fair, and didn't bring it back. All of Dr. Illinski's home has been torn awayexcept the chimneys. I played around there when I was little, and it made me lonesome to remember that the fine old physician, a Polish exile of blue blood and wonderful brain, has gone forever from Cahokia.

"The old Jarrott house still has some of its grandeur, and one would suppose from its appearance that it expected the long-burnt abbey to return to its place across the road any minute. The grandest wedding Cahokia ever saw took place in that mansion—it's now the home of nuns who teach the church school—and my mother was there.

"Josephine Jarrott was the bride—it was in the '50s—and they had a big supper and a wonderful cake with little birds on top. Mother was a little girl, but she can describe those birds yet. I'll wager that cake was made in that dear little bakeshop on Market street, where we go for coffee when we want to see some of the brainy ones of St. Louis. Col. Jarrott invited the whole 'Commonfields' and a good part of the county besides. I wish I could trade off some of my experiences for a vision of that night when crowds of candles made the waxed halls bright."

"For instance, your own day in Cahokia?" asked Burny.

Intuition caused her companions to feel that they were near the trail of a romance, but they asked no questions. Burny remarked: "A sock shower is the most fun, and a handkerchief rain's the most useful. Flip a penny nickel, Nippy, and let the Indian be socks."

GIRL SLAVES of A GREAT CITY

BY ELIZABETH MAGIE

COPYRIGHT 1906

What Will YOU Do to Free Yourself?

ARTICLE III.

"WHAT would you rather do than go fishing?"

If you ask the average man or boy this question he would probably have to think some before replying and then very likely his answer would be "Nothing." But the girls, as a rule, are not so fond of fishing—not for fish, at any rate.

"What would you rather do than typewriting?" I asked a $10-a-week typewriter. She glanced at me suspiciously. I smiled reassuringly and repeated the question.

"Oh, I don't know," she said. Then she folded her hands, looked up at the rim of her big brown hat and said, "Why, I would like to sing in the chorus. All the girls say I have a lovely voice, and I just love to sing."

"Why don't you go on the stage, then? Can't you get as much as you do at typewriting?"

"Oh, yes, more; but my parents educated me in stenography and typewriting and I suppose I've got to do that, but I hate it. I would rather do housework. Why don't I get married? Because I don't know the fellow. But I would rather marry anybody most than do typewriting."

This young lady would probably resent the idea of selling herself; nevertheless, should she enter into marriage merely to escape from typewriting it would be nothing more nor less than a sale of herself.

Of course she might make a pretty good bargain: then again she might be jumping out of the frying pan into the fire. Anyway, she would be taking a mighty big chance.

And right here is the beginning of the vexing problem of marriage and divorce, which will never cease to be a problem until the industrial slave is made free. Another $10 a week typewriter with whom I talked, and who is as pretty as a picture and as bright as a new dollar, has a variety of ambitions and talents. She is assistant teacher in a Sunday school and one of her ambitions is to be in a position to better the conditions of the laboring classes, especially of the children.

SHE WANTS TO BE A HUMORIST.

In answer to some of my questions she said:

"I have always wanted to write good, pithy articles, in humorous vein sometimes, perhaps, but always something that would be of help to somebody. I never completed my grammar school education. What I know I have learned by observation and experience mostly. I read only the best literature, chiefly good fiction and a little of the old English writers.

"I would like to be an artist, too, and am taking lessons in water-color now. I have never given particular attention to politics. I think people are generally in politics for what they can get out of it; they may be good partisans, but personal interest is at the bottom of it, I think.

"What is a slave? Well, a person can be a slave to almost anything. A voluntary or an involuntary submission to undesirable conditions and circumstances makes one a slave.

"People should work, but they should like their work. I like stenography. The office is pleasant, my fellow clerks are congenial and my employer is a very kind, very wise and learned and up-to-date gentleman, and I learn a lot from him. Of course, I would like a larger opportunity, but if I must work I am pretty well fixed here.

"If I can help you in your work I shall be most happy to do it. I am dependent wholly upon my salary and live entirely within the $10 a week. I live with relatives and pay $5 a week for rooms, board and washing. My carfare is about $1.50 a week. This leaves me $3.50 for clothes, painting lessons, books, etc. Of course, I like nice clothes, and I think it is the duty of every one, man or woman, especially woman, to dress and look as well as possible. I can't dress as I would like to, but I am very careful of my clothes, and do the best I can with what I have."

The deep unfathomed caves of ocean bear."

This girl, obscure and unknown, is one of the rarest gems in the deep unfathomed ocean of humanity. She is one of the brightest, pleasantest and prettiest girls that it has ever been my pleasure to meet. She says she is older, but she doesn't look a day over 20. I most sincerely hope and trust that she will not be long in finding her widest opportunity for happiness and usefulness.

SEEKING SOULS, NOT CLAMS.

It is such souls as this that I am in search of; such souls as this that the world needs, and it is my purpose to bring them as nearly as possible into their highest usefulness. The clams are well enough where they are.

"What would I like to do most?" said another $10-a-week stenographer, an intelligent, keen-witted girl, who looked like she would make something worth while out of herself if she only had a half a chance.

"Why don't you do it?" I asked.

"Where's the dough?" she answered.

"Why, you are earning $10 a week; can't you save your money?"

"Save money on $10 a week? I've got to eat and dress and pay rent, haven't I? I'd like to know how far and how long I could travel on what I could save."

"Perhaps some of the railroad magnates would give you a pass if you should ask them."

"They're not giving passes to poor people," she replied.

"If it wasn't for the thought of being a sort of a servant I sometimes think that I would like to be a lady's maid to some actress. I could get to see something of the world then. Besides, these maids always live well and dress well."

"You like nice clothes, then, do you?"

"You bet I do. And people like you better and treat you better when you're well dressed, too."

Her definition of a "slave" was "one who has to work hard and who is not free to come and go."

"Are you a slave?"

"N-no." She didn't like to admit it.

"You work hard all day, you say, for $10 a week, and you are not free to come and go. Then aren't you a slave?"

She looked at the toe of her tiny shoe as if trying to solve the riddle. Then she looked up at me quickly, gazed at me for an instant, grasped my hand and said: "You are Miss Magie; I'm sure you are. I'm glad to know you. I'll think about the things you've been telling me, and I'd like to help you if I can."

A very fascinating girl, with round, red cheeks and beautiful dark eyes and hair, said that if she were free to do just as she pleased she would like to engage in charitable work, to go around among the poor and relieve their distress and better their condition. She dwelt at length upon this. She was sincere. She would enter this work with her whole heart and soul.

"SLAVE'S" DEFINITION OF SLAVERY.

She learned typewriting, she said, simply because she had to do something to help the folks at home. She defined a slave as one whose life is controlled by another. She thought that the people who did the most useful work in the world ought to get the most pay. She had evidently given some thought to industrial conditions, for when asked what she thought was the cause of so much poverty on one side and so much wealth on the other, she said: "It's because some people own and control what belongs to everybody."

She's pretty near the root of things, I guess. I'll keep watch of her. She'll help some.

I talked with several other girls, particularly typewriters and stenographers, asking them all practically the same questions. In answer to the question, "What do you read?" most of them replied that they read novels and magazine stories. One, the would-be traveler, liked books on travel; another preferred history, and one read only newspapers. One only said that she would rather hear a sermon than see a play. As to the novel readers, one admitted frankly that she liked sensational love stories the best. Most of the others said that they did not like trashy novels. They liked stories with something in them.

I referred the readers to Hamlin Garland's thought-compelling story, "Under the Lion's Paw," and to the little stories of "Monopoly Gulch" and "The Lost Island."

These young girls—most of them—don't want to read tracts on economic subjects; when they do read they read principally for amusement; therefore, I suggest stories that instruct as well as entertain.

Would-be reformers, in their efforts to instruct, usually talk over the heads of the people and therefore their lessons are lost. They fail to realize the fact that the large majority of people are in the kindergarten class of economic philosophy, and it is folly to expect to impress them with high school lectures.

"If you had only $10 a week with which to meet all your bills, what bill would you pay first of all?" was one of the questions.

The majority answered: "I would have to pay the rent first;" but one said that she would "feed her face" first of all.

All the girls with whom I have talked so far are getting $10 a week or less, and, on the average, one-third of their salary is paid out in rent.

ONE HAPPY ON $8 A WEEK.

I explained to the girls the power of the landlord, and while some of them who do not pay out their money directly to the landlord did not wholly grasp the point, yet they all agreed that the landlords had first call on their wages. I have met only one girl so far who seems perfectly satisfied with her condition. She is getting $8 a week. She would just as soon do typewriting as anything else in the world, she says. She doesn't read much; she is satisfied with ordinary clothes, and she would rather go to prayer meeting than to the theater.

Query: Is this girl's soul dead—killed, crushed out of her by a life of hopelessness, or has she never had a soul?

Nearly all of the wage slaves whom I have interviewed have artistic or literary ambitions, or are anxious to do something for the good of others. Subjectively, they sense the injustice of the system that holds them down, but, helpless and hopeless, the majority of them accept what seems to them the inevitable. In others the sparks of "noble discontent" are kindling into flame; they are ready to fight for their rights, and all that they wait for is the clarion call of a leader.

Girls, my advice to you is to think—think hard of the condition in which you find yourselves. If you are not doing the thing that you most wish to do, then you are not free; you are slaves. If there is something that you feel that you can do better than what you are doing, something that you desire to do more than what you are doing, don't sit down in uncomplaining submissiveness, but put on your thinking caps and think.

What is the cause of your condition? Isn't it possible to better it?

If you feel in your soul that you are worthy of better things than you are getting, then fight for better things. Demand your rights. But do not be satisfied with things for yourself alone. Think of the rights of others, and while fighting for your own liberty, look around you, look into the heart of things, seek out the cause of so much inequality, and although you cannot yet vote yourselves, use your influence with those of your friends and family who can. You are responsible in some measure for the way they vote.

I am not taking up this battle in the interests of any sex or class. What I am fighting for is equal opportunities for all. Let's start fair and may the best man win. And just for a starter I would be glad to have you think of any one who has more power over our lives than has the landlord.

I am being criticized by some for seeking to stir up strife in the ranks. I am advised to let the people alone in blissful ignorance of their slavery. These critics and advisers, I take it, while not among the powers that be, are very close kin to such powers, and, doubtless, if they had a chance, could wield a scepter as tyrannically as any king that ever lived—or raise the rent without a spasm of conscience.

A Question.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

Tommy: I want some chocolate caramels.

Dealer: How much do you want, sonny?

The Loan.

Kisses you'll not give, O, maiden miser!
Grant me, then, I beg of you, a loan!
That, upon a second thought, were wiser;
Thus you might for cruelty atone;
I will render—and with no delay meant—
Ample interest and the fullest payment!

IN SCHOOL

TEACHER: Now, you have all studied about liquid measure, and I think you know it. Johnny, you may now tell me what measure treats of inches, feet and yards.

Johnny: Tape measure, teacher.

Teacher: Did you hurt yourself when you fell, Johnny?

Johnny: No, ma'am; but I hurt myself when I hit the ground.

Teacher: What are you going to call the baby, Johnny?

Johnny: I guess Johnny, just like me.

Teacher: But it won't do to have two—

Johnny: That doesn't make any difference. It was papa's before I had it. Pa and ma have a way of making us boys use up their old things.

Pleasure.

From the Washington Star.

"Don't you disapprove of gossip?"

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne, "but I'm like everybody else, the more I disapprove of it the more I seem to enjoy listening to it."

8vo Cloth Bound.

An East Side school teacher, learning that a girl pupil was sick, went to visit her.

The good-hearted instructor having called at the child's home before, had no difficulty in finding her, though the quarters were at the top of a densely populated tenement.

The mother was absent and the little 8-year-old, Susie by name, well wrapped up, was sitting on the side of the bed.

After some talk, the teacher, observing that the child spoke with difficulty, said:

"Susie, I am going to examine your lungs."

"Yes'm," dutifully responded Susie, as "teacher" began to loosen the youngster's waist. After removing it, the teacher found layer upon layer of flannel, which she unfastened with no little difficulty, satisfying herself that there was no danger of pneumonia. Then she began to replace the child's dress, when Susie gave way to a flood of tears.

"Mommer will be awful mad at you when she finds out!"

"Why, Susie!" exclaimed the teacher, "what do you mean?"

"You've gone and unfastened all my flannels, an' mommer had jest got me all sewed up for the winter!"—Harper's Weekly.

WEIGHT OF A LION

"WHAT does a lion weigh?" Ask that question of any acquaintance, and see what he will say. Those who best know the look of the king of beasts, and how small his lithe body really is, will probably come furthest from the trutht. About 300 to 350 pounds is a usual estimate. But this is below the mark. A full-grown lion will tip the scale at no less than 500 pounds. Five hundred and forty pounds is the record for an African lion. His bone is solid and heavy as ivory.

The tiger runs the lion very close. A Bengal tiger killed two years ago by an English officer scaled 520 pounds. A tiger of this size has, however, considerably greater muscular strength than the biggest lion.

Few people know that a grizzly bear can give points to any other carnivorous animal in point of strength. A grizzly bear weighing just four hundredweight has been watched carrying a heifer of more than two-thirds its own weight for two miles up the most steep and rugged mountain side, and this without pausing one instant for rest. The grizzly bear is the largest and most powerful of all the bear tribe, but his cousin, the cinnamon bear, runs him very close; and the big white polar bear, though not really so dangerous a customer, is capable of performing the most extraordinary feats of strength.

PEARL FISHERIES

Frederick C. Penfield in Century.

THE world's most gigantic gamble, pregnantly fruitful with chance in all variations and shadings, is unquestionably the Ceylon pearl fishery; compared with it, any state lottery pales to insignificance. From the taking of the first oyster to the draining of the last vatful of "matter," every step is attended by fickle fortune; and never is the interest of the people of Portugal or of Mexico keener over a drawing of a lottery, the tickets of which may have been sold at the very thresholds of the cathedrals, than is that of the natives of Ceylon and Southern India over the daily results of a Manar fishery.

Each bivalve is a lottery ticket; it may contain a gem worthy of place in a monarch's crown, or be a seed pearl with a mercantile value of only a few rupees. Perhaps one oyster in a hundred contains a pearl, and not more than one pearl in a hundred, be it known, has a value of importance. Nature furnishes the sea, pearling-banks, oysters and all therein contained; the Ceylon administration conducts the undertaking, and for its trouble and trifling outlay exacts a "rake-off" of two-thirds of all that may be won from the deep. And mere man, the brown or black diver, receives for his daring and enterprise one oyster in every three that he brings from the ocean's depths—and his earnings must be shared with boat-owner, sailors, attendants and assistants almost without number.

For size of "rake-off" there is no game of hazard in the world offering a parallel. The Ceylon Government used to exact three out of every four oysters brought in, the current tribute of two out of three having become operative only a few years since.

KANSAS RUGBEIANS ARE BURLY FELLOWS

Jayhawker Line Is Composed of Tried Veterans and Averages 190 Pounds to the Man—Captain Donald Has Played Thirty-Five Games Without a Single Mishap.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 26.—The Kansas University football team that will play St. Louis University Nov. 3, is a veteran aggregation averaging 190 pounds to the man in the line. The Chicago conference rule is in vogue here and in consequence all the men, with a single exception, have played at least one season of college football.

The two veterans, Capt. Donald and Brunner, have played their last game on the Kansas University gridiron. The St. Louis game will be the 35th game for Donald during his college career. He has never been out of the game on account of foul play or injuries during that time, nor has he ever called for time. His position is tackle.

Brunner, during his four years, has played at every position except center and quarterback, but as a tackle opposite Donald he completes the K. U. defense. It is the defense that has kept the opposing teams in their own territory. Coach Kennedy of the Jayhawkers has developed two fine kickers out of unknown men this year. Forter, the fullback, averages from 50 to 60 yards on punts, and has made 80. Cohn is a sure goal kicker. He kicked a field goal from the 40-yard line with a few seconds to play in the Arkansas game.

Wallace and Miller, halfbacks, are speedy on end runs. However, the weight of the K. U. line and the ability of Donald and Brunner has given the ends and backs a rest in the heat of the game, every player except the center having carried the ball in the past games.

Kansas University has played five games, two being university games. Arkansas went down to defeat, 37 to 5, and Oklahoma 20 to 4. The Colorado game will show the real strength of the team. The line up for St. Louis will be:

Under Rugby Rules

Fifteen men will be in the Washington University football squad which will leave for Cape Girardeau, Mo., at 5 p. m. Friday. The Washington eleven will play the State Normal team at Cape Girardeau Saturday afternoon. The Washington men who will make the trip are: Jacobs, left end; Luckey, left tackle; Miller and Stevens left guard; Breaker, center; Rodenbach, right guard; Bock, right tackle; Charley Castlen, right end; Harry Castlen, quarterback; Thomas, left halfback; Schaumberg, fullback; Logan, Morgan, right halfback. The team will average about 165 pounds. The squad will reach Cape Girardeau at 10 p. m. Friday.

Mepham and Piper, of the Smith Academy eleven, have been protested. There is a clause in the constitution of the Interscholastic League, stating that no contestant shall be allowed to represent a school in any event if he has within the preceding six months been a student at any other school of the league, except with the permission of the Judiciary Committee of the league. Both Mepham and Piper attended Western M. A. within the last six months. Mepham is considered one of the best players on the Smith team and the eleven will suffer a great loss if unable to use the men in the game with McKinley High School on Nov. 3.

Rodenburg is doing the punting for the Washington University eleven in spite of the fact that he is one of the heaviest men on the team. Thomas is place kicking and also kicking the goals. The eleven went through a fast practice Thursday evening and Coach Blanchard expects his men to give a good account of themselves in Saturday's game.

Coach Pike of the McKinley High School team has received a letter from his brother, Roy Pike, assistant coach of the Indiana University team, in which the latter states that the McKinley eleven must have suffered a great loss in Krutzsch, who captained the team last season. Krutzsch, according to Pike, is one of the most promising players at Indiana, and would surely make the 'varsity were it not that he is a freshman and consequently barred from playing on the team until next season.

Eddie Cochems, coach of the St. Louis University eleven, will leave for Chicago Friday night in order to witness the Chicago-Indiana game. Cochems expects the contest to be a hot one, as Indiana has a fine team this year. St. Louis U. will also probably play the Indiana team this season, and Cochems wishes to get a line on some of the formations used by the teams. Stagg is coaching Chicago, while Sheldon is in charge of the Indiana team. Clarence Kinney, captain of the St. Louis U. eleven, will be in charge of the St. Louis U. team in the game with Rolla at Sportsman's Park, Saturday afternoon.

The McKinley High-Louisiana (Mo.) game, which was to be played Saturday, was called off by Louisiana and McKinley will have a day of rest. This is the only open date in McKinley's schedule as Manager Kane has had an out-of-town game for each Saturday since the middle of September.

McKinley High is having hard practice every night on the grounds near the South Side school. Manager Kane does not want to take any chances with Smith. Coach Pike has been sending the boys through many novel formations during the past week.

Harting of Yeatman who was out of the Yeatman-Manual game owing to injuries received in practice, will be in the line again Saturday to meet Smith.

Demko and Wightman are two recent additions to the Yeatman team that give promise of making good in Saturday's game.

The poor showing Smith made against Western has given some encouragement to the Yeatman team. The crushing defeat of Yeatman by Manual has had no effect on the team except to make them work harder to prevent any repetition of such scores.

Archer Nelson, captain of the Yeatman team, has been nursing a lame ankle this week, but expects to be ready to show Smith a few things in the sprinting line Saturday.

R. Edgren's COLUMN

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Joe Gans announces his retirement from the welterweight class. He gives up the welterweight title, and says that he is getting lighter as he grows older and will never fight again above the lightweight limit.

There is no doubt that Gans has a clear claim to the welter title, but the competition is growing keen. Soon Gans would have to meet George Thomas, the best of the white welters and a new wonder among the fighters. Thomas is so far ahead of the other welterweights that he would have given Gans a hard razzle for the title. There is easy picking for the lightweight champion in his own class now, and he is a wise coon to stick to the little fellows.

Look out for Thomas. He is a great welterweight, and he'll go through the bunch in short order.

Thomas is wonderfully well built for fighting. He has a heavyweight's clever arm and shoulders and good body and light legs. He is fast and very clever and he can hit like Tommy Ryan.

Up in Hamilton, Canada, the home of the Marathon winner, Sherring, an Indian has just won the great annual road race. The distance was 19 miles, 168 yards. The winner, John Longboat, an Onodagan, is nearly 8 feet tall and weighs only 145 pounds. This was his first race. Indians usually make good long-distance men. Their ancestors could run day and night and heredity counts in athletics.

Here's another Indian. He seems to be some relation of Nozo, the Indian who was coming from Tiburon, but never arrived. "Modern Mexico" says: The Tarahumaris, a great tribe of Northern Sierra Madre Indians, are the greatest runners on earth, not in regard to speed, but in endurance. They have been known to average 170 miles a day, and there is an absolute record that is indisputable of a Tarahumare, sent with an important Government document that necessitated an immediate answer, covering the distance, a 600-mile jaunt, in five days, or an average of 120 miles a day, not counting the time lost while the answer was being prepared. And it must be remembered that this feat was not performed upon a fair road, or on an undulating plain, but was over the hardest country that the Sierra Madre affords, up and down paths that the very deer would hardly ever make a trail. The only level ground encountered was the ford of a deep river. Also the trip was made on a species of pinole, or popcorn ground down and mixed with water, and the Indian carried his camp equipment, a blanket.

Now wouldn't that make you dizzy? We thought the jiu-jitsu thing was about the limit, but this beats it.

One best bet: If this Jap marvel ever comes to America, he'll run 100 yards in 12 seconds—perhaps. But we won't have him timed by a "professor."

DANIELS AND HANDY SWIM AT BUFFALO

Unwarranted speculation has left the inference that C. M. Daniels and Hart Handy, the crack short and long distance swimmers of America, would meet in St. Louis this winter. Daniels and Handy will not swim their half-mile match in this city. They have arranged to do so at Buffalo, the former home of Mr. Daniels, on Feb. 8, 1907.

"I was brought up in Buffalo," he said, "and have lived there most of my life. My friends have often urged me to give them a chance to see me swim. When Handy and I decided that we would swim against each other and announced the fact there seemed to be very little ambition on the part of either of our clubs to arrange the meet; then we thought it would be best to compete on neutral grounds, and when several members of the Buffalo Club urged me to let them hold the event, pointing out that their town was the best, because half way between Chicago and New York, I gave in."

It came as a decided surprise to Daniels' club mates that he should have arranged all the details of the match without letting them know anything about it, as all were under the impression that it would come off in New York. The distance fixed upon is the half mile, and it will be contested in the pool of the Buffalo Y. M. C. A., which is 60x20 feet in size. It is considered one of the fastest pools in the country; there are scuppers on the water level through which the waves produced by the contestants drain out, giving no back-wash, so that the surface is kept comparatively smooth, improving the chances of fast time. A new record is sure to be made, and there are those who believe that Daniels, tained specially for the event, will place the figures low enough to surprise a few of our skeptical friends across the pond.

In looking over the records of the men we find that Daniels beat Handy in the outdoor half-mile national championship of 1905, and then won the event indoor in 12:29. Against this goes Handy's fast half on the way to the mile standard from 26:13 to 25:15. The time is better, and Westerners believe their representative will win, but the New Yorker's admirers scoff the idea. Experts agree that 12 minutes will be beaten.

Both men are now taking a well-earned rest and will not start in training until after the new year. This will give them five weeks to prepare in, as the race is to take place on Friday, Feb. 8.

Another event which has aroused a great deal of interest is the 100-yard match coming off next month between Lester Crane of the New York A. C. and Dan Renear of the University of Pennsylvania. The race is the result of a challenge from Renear to the New York A. C. He offered to swim any club member outside of Daniels at 100 yards in the university pool. The choice of a date he left to the man accepting the challenge, though he said he would prefer it to come off soon.

MILITARY RACE A TURF FEATURE

Steeplechase for Soldiers Will Be Attractive Event on Program at Bennings.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Lieut. I. S. Martin of the Fifteenth United States Cavalry arrived here Thursday afternoon, having made a special trip from Cuba in quick time for the particular purpose of representing the army in the military steeplechase race at Bennings Saturday under the auspices of the United Hunts Racing Association.

The original program called for three of these races, one of them to take place yesterday afternoon, and Lieut. Martin hastened to the track in his riding togs to find that the only military race to be run will take place Saturday. Another exasperating feature of the case is that his two highbred horses are somewhere on the road between Washington and Shelburne, Vermont, where he left them on the Seward Webb farm. The officers of the association kept the wires hot Thursday in an effort to trace the horses and they are expected today.

Lieut. Martin is the only entry in this race representing the United States Army. He is probably without an equal in the army in steeplechase and cross-country riding. With his troop he left Fort Ethan Allen in Vermont Oct. 3, under orders for Cuba, where they arrived Oct. 10 and at once went into camp. This camp was on the fringe of the big storm and suffered no damage or inconvenience. The orders to go to Cuba, it was feared by the racing association, would interfere with Lieut. Martin's participation in the race, as he was one of the riders last year at Morristown, N. J., and his appearance this year was desired. The officer was assured that unless active service in Cuba prevented he would be granted leave of absence, and as his troop has had nothing to do he easily secured leave and started for New York from Havana Sunday morning last.

Lieut. Martin is a native of Virginia, and has been familiar with horses since boyhood. He has two thoroughbreds, Dixie and Humming Bird. He probably will ride Humming Bird, a gray mare that is well broken for steeplechasing.

Lieut. Martin has been keeping up with this sort of racing and riding for some years whenever he was situated so he could do so.

The military steeplechase is open to officers of the army, and active members of Squadron A, New York; Squadron C, Brooklyn; Squadron A, Baltimore, the First Philadelphia troop, and West Point cadets. The horses ridden must have been owned by the rider at least one month before the race. The prize consists of a cup valued at $200, and $500 added, of which $125 goes to the second and $75 to the third horse.

JENNINGS AFTER SKATER COOKSON.

Pace Davidson, a member of the famous Davidson family of skaters who is at present connected with the Jai Alai Rink, is out with a challenge on behalf of Jimmy Jennings, for a series of 1-mile roller skating races with Albert Cookson, for a side wager from $50 to $500. Davidson is willing to wager real money and offered to post a good sized forfeit Thursday to show that he is in earnest. Davidson will put up his money with any reputable man.

Jennings claims to be the champion skater of Missouri. He defeated Elmer Swarts, who won the State championship over Jones, Sweeney, Shaw and other fast racers.

WILL TRY NEW BASEBALL IDEA

Elberfeld's Plan of Having the Batter Run to First or Third Base to Be Tested.

Manager Orendorff, who is promoting the baseball game between the All Professionals, a team made up of Trolley League and other professional baseball players, and the St. Louis Giants, the star negro baseball team of the West, proposes to try Elberfeld's idea of making it optional with the batter who, with the bases unoccupied, hits safely, to run either to first or to third base.

Mr. Orendorff, who is the star catcher of the Trolley League, likes the idea and will give it a trial. The game will take place at Sportsman's Park Sunday afternoon.

CYCLING CLUBS' WEEKLY RUN.

There will be but one division for the weekly run of the St. Louis Cycling Club, which will leave for Bulltown, Mo., at 8 a. m. Sunday from Sarah and Olive streets. Bert Harding, captain of the club, will be in charge of the squad and will set the pace.

WAGON GATE INTO MORGUE.

Changes in the City Morgue, for which a contract will be let Nov. 30 by the Board of Public Improvements, will make it unnecessary in future to carry unshrouded dead across the sidewalk into the building in view of passers-by. A gate is to be cut through the wall immediately east of the Morgue, wide enough for a wagon to drive through into the courtyard of the Morgue and to turn around for driving out.

The new work also includes the erection of an addition to the Morgue, which will contain a furnace or incinerator, in which the clothing of the dead will be burned.

HARVARD MAY QUIT ORGANIZED ATHLETICS

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—While it has not been officially stated, it is quite probable that with the end of the current term athletics at Harvard will be eliminated. The statement made recently by Head Coach Reid of the football team, and the statement made by President Eliot last fall regarding athletics leads the undergraduates and those interested in athletics to believe that an athletic revolution at Harvard is imminent.

That the faculty may even forbid all the games or contests with outside colleges, or may oblige athletes to pay their own expenses in order to eliminate the business phase of the question are among the interesting possibilities discussed by the students.

At the last meeting of the football team Bill Reid intimated that this would be his last term as coach. His contract was made for only two years and this year winds it up, and in the matter of renewal there arises this question.

BIG BABIES WILL MAKE BOLD BATTLE

Kaufmann and Berger, Lusty Young Sons of Anak, Should Furnish an Interesting Fight at Frisco on Wednesday Evening.

BY MYLES J. BURKE.

Al Kaufmann and Sam Berger two vigorous young giants, will meet in a 20-round battle at Frisco next Wednesday evening and the winner should in a short time prove his right to the heavyweight championship title relinquished by Jeffries.

Both Berger and Kaufmann are over 6 feet tall. Berger, when not in training, weighs about 225 pounds. When fit he usually weighs about 200. Kaufmann's best fighting weight has been at 195 pounds or slightly under. Both fighters are 20 years of age.

Prof. Van Court, boxing instructor of the Olympic Club of Frisco, developed the pair. Berger won the Olympic amateur championship at the World's Fair in St. Louis. Kaufmann won a string of amateur fights on the Pacific Coast, in every one of which he knocked out his opponents in less than one round. Jack O'Brien knocked him out in 17 rounds at Frisco after which Kaufmann defeated two professional fighters in Eastern bouts.

Berger's only professional fight was with Jack O'Brien. It was a six-round, no-decision affair at Philadelphia. Berger more than held his own. Six-round, no-decision contests are a hard thing to figure on. It was stated that O'Brien was not exerting himself to his limit, as he was figuring on a return match and a big purse for a return battle. At any rate the contest was so close that the New York and Philadelphia sporting experts almost came to blows over the question as to whether O'Brien or Berger had the better of the contest.

The bout demonstrated one thing and that was that Berger at least can put up a good fight. There is as much difference in the fighting styles of Berger and Kaufmann as if they were engaged in a different game entirely. Kaufmann never paid much attention to the fine points of the game. He is a natural fighter. All Kaufmann wants to do is to wade into his opponent and exchange blow for blow. Kaufmann has a terrific right-hand punch. No fighter has been able to withstand its force up to date. O'Brien was very careful to keep out of Kaufmann's reach. Jack did not try to put over his right until he had Kaufmann's eyes almost completely closed from jabs. Kaufmann is game, willing and strong and has great endurance and can stand punishment.

Berger is fast on his feet and clever. His style of fighting resembles O'Brien's in-and-out motion. He jumps in with a straight left and is away again in a flash. He can hit hard and accurately, as he has big, loose muscles, not tied up by work. When he uses his right it is for a short jolt. They jar, but do not knock out; at least Berger has been unable to have much success with his short punch up to date.

Berger has never fought more than six rounds in his life. He is working hard, with Jimmy Britt as his sparring partner and trainer. Every day Sam is out on the roads, walking and sprinting from 10 to 15 miles. All that bothers Berger is his ability to go 20 rounds. If he cantravel the route at full speed he figures that he will easily be able to outpoint Kaufmann. On the contrary, if Sammy has to slow down and Kaufmann forces him to swap wallops, Berger will undoubtedly hit the canvas with a thud. At any rate, it should only be a year or two until either of the men should be able to trim most of the present crop of heavyweights in easy fashion.

Big Jack Johnson, the colored heavyweight, cannot find anybody to fight him. The National A. C. of Philadelphia, Jack McGuigan's organization, has a standing offer for 60 per cent of the gross receipts for any man of class that will agree to meet the big black in a six-round contest. None of the men wants Johnson's game, however. Jack is a bit too clever and experienced a fighter when in shape for any fighter to tease.

Honey Mellody, welterweight champion, is very busy these days keeping out of the path of Joe Walcott, former welterweight champion. Mellody gained a 15-round decision over Walcott at Chelsea, Mass., in a bout for the title. Walcott is sure he can trim Honey, but Mellody must think likewise, as he declared that he will not fight Joe again for some time. In the meanwhile Mellody will probably be matched with Mike Sullivan for a bout to take place in Chelsea in the near future.

Wolcott's Fighting Brother.

Joe Walcott's brother, Belefield, has been matched to box 20 rounds with Arthur Cole, the New England welterweight, at Bangor, Me., on Oct. 30. Belefield is game, as while the men are to fight for a guaranteed purse of $800, it is to be divided 75 per cent to the winner and 25 per cent to the loser.

CHAMPION TROTTER BRED BY ACCIDENT

Sweet Marie, Greatest Mare That Ever Stepped on the Light Harness Turf, Result of Haphazard. Mating.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The breeding of Sweet Marie, possibly the greatest campaigner of all times, was an accident.

As a general rule, the stars of the light harness world are the result of a desirable intermixture of blood lines. It was the theory of the late Senator Stanford to have a thoroughbred close up, and many of the dams at the once-famous Palo Alto were thoroughbreds.

Many fast performers came from Palo Alto, including Sunol, who once reigned queen of the turf, owing to cutting the fraction of a second off the 2:08¾ record of Maud S., which stood for so many years. While Senator Stanford met with conspicuous success, he did prove that his pet thory beat the old method of breeding trotting bred stallions to trotting bred mares. That the breeding of a champion trotter is a good deal of a lottery is emphasized in the case of Sweet Marie.

This wonderful mare—the grandest ever hitched to a sulky—was bred by a poor colored man who knew absolutely nothing about blood lines or pedigrees. Through the courtesy of Ed Smith, the well-known light-harness starter of the California circuit, the writer is able to give much heretofore unpublished history about this wonderful campaigner.

How McKinney Was Purchased.

One March morning in 1889, Charles Durfee, the well-known driver and breeder, left Los Angeles for the East for the purpose of purchasing a young stallion. He was accompanied by Chas. Lockhart, who was about to secure the nucleus of a breeding farm which he was about to start near Burbank, Los Angeles County. Durfee purchased the then 2-year-old McKinney, by Alcyone, a son of George Wilkes and Cannon Ball, a 3-year-old stallion by Simmonds. The writer had the privilege of inspecting both importations on the day of their arrival. Everyone posted on light-harness topics knows that McKinney has become the greatest sire of speed in the world, having more 2:10 trotters to his credit than any other stallion living or dead. Among the brood mares purchased by Lockhart was Lady Rivers, by Carr's Mambrino, dam Susie, by Vermont. He secured this mare from D. K. Edwards, who bred her when a resident of Salinas. Susie was used as a buggy mare.

Lockhart did not make a success of his breeding venture, owing to the drop in the value of all harness horses, and Lady Rivers was sold to E. K. Benchly of Los Angeles. She proved to be a very balky mare and of no use for driving purposes. Consequently Benchly assigned her to the sales ring, where she was acquired by John Schurmacher, the Los Angeles photographer, for $180. Schurmacher could do nothing with the mare, as she absolutely refused to be driven. After she broke a couple of carts, Schurmacher determined to get rid of Lady Rivers at any cost. But no one wanted the high-strung mare.

Negro Did Not Want Dam.

The Schumacher family own property on Spring street, Los Angeles, and employed a colored man named Billy Smart to cart away the refuse at $1 per week. Frank Schurmacher told Smart that he would give him Lady Rivers if he continued to take away the refuse. Smart refused the proposition, but said that he would take the mare provided that she be bred to some stallion. As Schurmacher had the privilege of breeding to McKinney, who was then an unknown quantity, the bargain was consummated. Frank Schurmacher saved $52 and Smart got Sweet Marie, as that was the result of the mating of McKinney and Lady Rivers.

Smart kept Sweet Marie in pasture until she was 3 years old, at which age she was broken. In the fall Smart turned her over to a colored trainer named Sam Washington. She showed a mile in 2:26½ and was purchased by Milo M. Potter, the well-known hotel man. He drove her at the matinee races held at Agricultural Park for a couple of years. Potter finally decided to sell all his light harness horses, including Sweet Marie. Garland, the present owner, was the purchaser of Sweet Marie, paying $3150 for the daughter of McKinney.

A Big Gaited Mare.

Sweet Marie was a big-gaited mare and slow to get into her stride at that time, and Potter is entitled to the greatest credit for the development of Sweet Marie. It required six months of hard wo[illegible] after she could trot a mile in 2:15 be[illegible] she could make the first quarter b[illegible] than 35 seconds. Potter had her w[illegible]d with Primrose (2:10), and before the [illegible]le she could get away in such good style that she showed two miles in 2:12 and 2:12½. That was the early history of Sweet Marie, the queen of all harness mares, and who has been invincible on the Grand Circuit this year.

Sweet Marie made her first professional start in 1903 at Seattle, where she captured several races. Then came the memorable race at the Oregon State Fair at Salem, where she was beaten by Dr. Hammond owing to the refusal of Durfee to start Marie in the third heat. There was a scandal and her driver was ruled off, but subsequently reinstated.

Sweet Marie made her debut on the Grand Circuit in 1904. She took the 2:14 trot at Detroit, Mich., in straight heats of 2:10, 2:10¼ and 2:10¼. She was beaten at Buffalo after taking the second heat in 2:09¼.

At Providence Sweet Marie attracted world-wide attention when she won a five-heat race, taking the last three in 2:06¼, 2:08¼ and 2:08½.

Her Great Performances.

At Lexington, in 1905, in a five-heat contest, Sweet Marie reduced her record to 2:05, but two weeks later at Memphis she won the 2:10 trot in 2:04¾ and 2:06. Later in the season Sweet Marie reduced her record to 2:04¼. Sweet Marie won numerous other races on the circuit. This year she displayed further improvement, and there was nothing on the Grand Circuit capable of giving her a race. During the Syracuse meeting she trotted a first heat in 2:04¾ and a second heat in 2:03¾. These are fastest two heats ever trotted to a sulky, supplanting the Cresceus record of 2:03¼ and 2:06¼, made in 1901. Sweet Marie has accomplished the extraordinary feat of having trotted eight heats in 2:05 or better, which is a better race record than made by Cresceus, Tiverton and Lou Dillon combined.

In a special exhibition against time at Columbus on Sept. 21, Sweet Marie stepped a mile in 2:02, going to the half in 59¾ seconds. Marie is 10 years old, and as sound as a new milled dollar.

NEW YORK GETS AMATEUR CUEISTS

The annual Class A billiard championship of the United States will be held in the Liederkranz Club, New York, some time late in February or early in March, the date to be decided upon later by the joint committee of the National Association and that of the Liederkranz Club. The conditions of the tournament provide for 300-point games at the 14-inch two shots in balk-line. The games will be held in the large concert hall of the club, which will seat 1000 spectators. It was decided that no admission be charged, but all members of recognized clubs will be admitted on presentation of card.

Probable contestants in the tournament are Calvin Demarest and Charles F. Conklin of Chicago; Mortimer Rolls of Philadelphia; Charles Wright of San Francisco; Edward W. Gardner of Passaic, N. J.; Dr. L. L. Mial and J. Ferdinand Poggenburg of New York.

There was some discussion as to the holding of a national Class B championship tournament during November and December, and also a metropolitan meeting. The arrangements for these tournaments were left to the committee with full power to act. This turnamnt will include the players of New York, who will compete in the national tournament and put them in competitive trim for the more important tournament to be held after the first of the year. An application of the Chicago Athletic Association to hold the Class A championship of the middle West during the last two weeks of November was granted.

AN INSTANT APPROVAL OF CONFIDENCE

Never in my entire career have I packed my store with as many eager buyers as I did when I opened this sale.

These many years of successful business have placed me before the public as "The tailor with honor," one who takes an interest in his trade, disregarding the profit which all of us strive to make.

My stock is so immense that it will take some time to notice a diminishment, but the choicest patterns are fast being selected.

I want every man to share in this offering, whether or not he has been my regular patron.

I don't intend to reserve a single pattern of heavy weight goods, as I will not be here next Fall. No use me telling you what I have in my stock, for, in short, it contains every fabric of the world's best-known looms from which to have a suit or overcoat made.

Although this business will pass into history, I want my name to live long after this store is forgotten.

"MUTE" BOY, SICK, RAVES OF MONEY

ARRESTED FOR BEGGING

Couldn't Talk in Signs, but Big Bell Failed to Startle Him.

The St. Louis Industrial School, formerly the House of Refuge, has a deaf mute boy mystery, who has either been shamming deafness and muteness for three weeks or has, through a dangerous attack of pneumonia, recovered the power of speech. In his delirium the boy, speechless hitherto, speaks ramblingly of money, asks for water and complains of his headache.

Oct. 4 W. H. Bloomer, an official of the Northwestern Insurance Co., caused the arrest of the boy, who was going through the Bank of Commerce building begging, carrying a card stating that he was a deaf mute and that he desired to get enough money to take him to Jackson, Miss. Officer Johnson took him in custody and gave him into the keeping of the Juvenile Court officials.

The boy wrote his name as Fred Jones, his age 15 years, and that he had come to St. Louis the day before from Jacksonville, Ill., where he had been an inmate of the School for the Deaf. He wrote that he had gone to Jacksonville from Chicago, where his parents had died some time before. He gave the names of his teacher and others in Chicago. The answers were in a good hand.

The Juvenile Court officers at once wrote letters to the persons mentioned by the boy and, their letters being returned not found, asked the Detective Bureau of Chicago to try to learn the boy's past. Efforts both at Chicago and at Jacksonville were unavailing. There were no such numbers on the Chicago streets as those named by the boy, and the superintendent of the Jacksonville school had no record of him.

The boy could make but little use of the sign language, as was shown when deaf mutes were brought to talk with him in signs. Mr. Bloomer offered, if the boy's story was found to be true, to pay his way wherever he wanted to go.

Efforts of the officials to startle the boy out of his supposed shamming were unavailing. Even the sudden ringing of the big bell in the matron's room at the Four Courts, though it made the other inmates jump, had no effect on the boy.

When he was arrested he had a bad cold, and this developed into pneumonia. The boy is now in the hospital at the Industrial School. At the first attack of delirium from the disease the nurses were surprised to hear him talk. He muttered continually during the delirium, moaning, "O, my head!"

Superintendent Richardson of the school declares his belief that the boy was not shamming, that he had become deaf as the result of sickness or accident, that he gradually lost the power of speech through disuse and that with the delirium the faculties returned to him.

SPENCER SCORES BRYAN.

St. Louis Lawyer Points Out Nebraskan's Mistake.

Now that William J. Bryan has talked enough to give the Republicans an idea what he would do if he were elected President of the United States, Republican spellbinders, including Senator Warner, Attorney-General Hadley and Judge Selden P. Spencer of St. Louis are answering his arguments.

The Republican State Committee has not officially sanctioned these assaults on Bryan's position, but lest its speakers decide this question of policy for themselves.

At a largely attended meeting in St. Francois County Judge Spencer had this to say:

"Every position of importance which Mr. Bryan has ever taken has not only been repudiated by the people, but even those who once agreed with him have subsequently rejoiced at the defeat of his theories. He was wrong in 1896 on the subject of free silver, and none are better pleased at the defeat of that principle than his own party.

"He was wrong in 1900 on the subject of imperialism.

"He was wrong in 1904 in ostensibly supporting Parker and actually knifing him upon every occasion.

"He is wrong in 1906 in his doctrine of the Government ownership of railroads, a proposition that would only enrich the railroad stockholders and bring ruin and disaster to every other interest. State and individual concerned, and would not only wreck the cherished ideals of the South, but would strike a blow at union labor from which it could never recover."

UTES KEEP GREELY AWAY.

Indian Fighter Disappoints the Presbyterian Synod.

The Presbyterian Synod of Missouri opened its closing session Friday at the First Presbyterian Church. In connection with the meeting is that of the Woman's Synodical Society for Foreign Missions.

The synod participated Thursday in the diamond jubilee celebration of Lindenwood College at St. Charles, the oldest school for girls west of the Mississippi. The only number on the program that was not given was the address of Gen. A. W. Greely, who had been called away to fight the Utes.

Addresses were made by students, teachers, alumnae, members of the Board of Trustees and representatives of other institutions. Eighty-eight young women of the college were present during the exercises. The colors of the classes were displayed and heartily applauded by the ministers and lay delegates.

Rev. Dr. S. J. Niccolls, in his report of the last college year, advocated the adoption of some plan whereby the institution could undertake the education of orphans, or half orphans of the church, between the ages of 7 to 12. The greatest need of the college, he said, was a $40,000 building.

FINDS SON IN HOSPITAL.

His Absence Made Mrs. Rooney Fear Misfortune.

Fearing that harm had befallen her son, Mrs. Mary Rooney of 2216A Hickory street searched the Morgue, Four Courts and City Dispensary, and finally found him critically injured at the City Hospital.

The son is Kieley Rooney, 21 years old, a telegraph operator. Rooney was knocked from a Compton Heights car on the Eighteenth Street Bridge at 6 o'clock Thursday evening. He was standing on the platform, and while leaning out was struck by a girder. Several ribs were fractured, his face was lacerated and he was internally hurt.

From the time Rooney was brought to the hospital, his chief concern was about his mother and the effect the accident would have on her health.

Rebels Kill Former Leader.

MITAU, Oct. 26.—A man named Sprogge, once a prominent revolutionary leader in the Baltic provinces, was killed here yesterday by revolutionists, while on his way to America, because he had betrayed his party.

He had just recovered from a wound inflicted on him by revolutionists.

Catarrh of the Stomach

COSTS NOTHING TO TRY.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing, headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue, and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do, and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanson, the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diastase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and not being a patent medicine can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. R. S. Workman, Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, Catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

ANAEMIA IS CURED

BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS AS FOOD CURES HUNGER.

They Are the Most Widely Used and Successful Remedy for All Forms of Debility.

Anaemia, whether it results from actual loss of blood, from lack of nutrition due to stomach trouble, or whatever its cause, is simply a deficiency of the vital fluid. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood. They do that one thing and they do it well. As the blood directly feeds the nerves their action on the nervous system is often remarkable and they have cured many nervous disorders that have not yielded to ordinary treatment.

"As a girl," says Mrs. Jessie Fink, of 180 East Mill street, Akron, Ohio, "I suffered from nervous indigestion, and when I was eighteen years old I was reduced in weight to 93 pounds. I was anaemic, nervous, couldn't eat or sleep, was short of breath after the least exertion and had headaches almost constantly. I had a doctor, of course, but I might as well have taken so much water for all the good his medicine did me.

"Finally my vitality and strength were so reduced that I had to take to my bed for several weeks at a time. I could not digest any solid food and for weeks I did not take any other nourishment than a cup of tea or beef broth.

"While I was sick in bed I read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I stopped all other medicine and began to take the pills. Soon my improvement was very noticeable. My strength began to return, my stomach gave me no pain and just as soon as I began to take solid food I gained in weight. I shall never forget how happy I was when I realized that I was really getting well.

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills certainly saved my life. I am now perfectly well, have regained my normal weight of 120 pounds and I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a wonderful medicine and I have recommended them to hosts of people."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are recommended for stubborn stomach trouble, for all cases of weakness and debility, such as result from fevers and other acute diseases. They are grateful to the most delicate stomach, are a powerful tonic without being a stimulant and are guaranteed not to contain any harmful drug. All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

The Evil Thinker

The world's most famous order, The Garter, founded by King Edward III., of England, bears the motto, "Evil to him who evil thinketh." There are persons who are ever on the lookout for misfortune in the lives of their neighbors. Their entire system being upset, they take a pessimistic view of the condition of others. Persons suffering with the tortures of disease should take Dr. Burkhart's Vegetable Compound, the safest and quickest remedy to chase the shadows from the mind, and let the sunshine of a new happiness flood their souls, changing their existence into a state of continual bliss. A permanent cure is offered in the following distressing diseases: Catarrh, constipation, kidney, liver, stomach and blood troubles. 30 days' treatment. All druggists, 25c.

WEIGHT INCREASED 32 LBS.

Thanks to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and Plenty of Fresh Air.

Mr. Meyer Britwitz, who was completely broken down in health and failed until he weighed only 120 pounds, recovered his health and increased his weight 32 pounds, and now has no difficulty in maintaining his weight at 152 pounds.

A constantly growing law practice necessitated my working quite hard and assiduously. My health began to fail, but I could not neglect the interests of my clients and properly care for myself. I began to lose weight and developed a distressing hacking cough, which was extremely severe and violent, especially when arising in the morning, and these paroxysms usually left me weak and with a feeling of lassitude. My whole system was broken down, and after consulting with a number of eminent physicians I decided to take drastic measures, and accordingly abandoned my law practice entirely and took up my residence in Liberty, N. Y., where I lived for one year in a canvas tent.

Early in my stay at Liberty I was advised by a friend of mine to use Duffy's Malt Whiskey as a tonic. This I did twice daily, and found its effects to be invigorating and bracing, with none of the after effects or cravings usually produced by intoxicants. I found it sharpened my appetite considerably, enabling me to eat heartily.

While, of course, my recovery was due in a meaure to my method of living, at the same time I feel certain that the use of Duffy's Malt Whiskey was a material factor in my speedy recovery. My cure was complete, as is evidenced by the fact that I have again resumed the practice of law, and whereas before my illness I never weighed above 120 pounds, today I easily tip the scales at 152 pounds, and find that I have no difficulty in maintaining that weight.—MEYER BRITWITZ, Attorney-at-Law, 99 Nassau St., New York City, N. Y., July 18, '06.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is a promoter of health and long life. It makes the old young and the young strong. It is a food already digested. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey contains no fusel oil, and it is the only whiskey recognized as a medicine. This is a guarantee. It is the best tonic stimulant in the world.

CAUTION—When you ask for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. Dishonest dealers, mindful of the excellence of this preparation, will try to sell you cheap imitations and substitutes, which are positively injurious to the health. Demand Duffy's, and be sure you get it. Sold by every reliable druggist and grocer, or direct, in sealed bottles only; never in bulk; $1.00 a bottle. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist" on the label and be certain the seal over the cork is unbroken. Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

WOMEN'S NEGLECT

Health Thus Lost Is Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

How many women do you know who are perfectly well and strong? We hear every day the same story over and over again. "I do not feel well; I am so tired all the time!"

More than likely you speak the same words yourself, and no doubt you feel far from well. The cause may be easily traced to some derangement which manifests itself in depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or do anything, backache, flatulency, nervousness, sleeplessness, or other womanly ills.

These symptoms are but warnings that there is danger ahead, and unless heeded a life of suffering or a serious operation is the inevitable result.

Miss Kate McDonald of Woodbridge, N. J., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"Restored health has meant so much to me that I cannot help from telling about it for the sake of other suffering women.

"For a long time I suffered untold agony from womanly ills which made me a physical wreck, and no one thought I would recover, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me, and made me well and strong, and I feel it my duty to tell other suffering women what a splendid medicine it is."

For twenty-five years Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, has under her direction, and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge. Her advice is free and always helpful. Address, Lynn, Mass.

FRENCH POOL IS GAMBLING.

Does Not Depend on Skill, O'Hallaron Decides.

Acting Judge O'Hallaron decided in the Dayton Street Police Court Friday that French pool is a game of chance, not of skill, and fined Clark A. Holt, proprietor of a billiard hall at 4740 Delmar boulevard, $10, and two young men $5 each, on the testimony of a policeman that the young men, in Holt's hearing, bet 50 cents on the outcome of a game. Appeals were taken.

The young men were Bernard Deaver of 737 Aubert avenue and Jack Richardson of 4050 North Grand avenue. The police think the latter name and address are assumed.

Charles Nolan, who acted as attorney for the young men, contended that French pool is wholly a game of skill, and illustrated various shots on an imaginary table in an effort to convince Judge O'Hallaron. But the Court didn't agree with him.

Wrote Will on Death Bed.

The will of Albert Croissant of 3717 Hartford street, who died Sunday from a wound inflicted Saturday by his brother, Edward Croissant, was filed Thursday afternoon for probate. It was drawn after he had been shot by his brother and he made his mark, in lieu of signature, as he lay dying at the City Hospital. He left $5 to his son, Albert, and $5 to his daughter, Florence, expressing confidence that his wife would provide suitably for them, and gave the rest of his estate to his wife.

HIGH RATES DUE TO DEMOCRATS

COMPARISON OF CHARGES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 26.—Attorney-General Hadley devoted the greater part of a political address here last night to an answer to a speech delivered several days ago by John A. Knott, one of the two Democratic members of the Board of Railroad and Warehouse Commissioners.

While not particularly attacking Mr. Knott, the Attorney-General severely arraigned the Railroad Commissioners, and contended that the failure of reforms in the establishing of freight rates should be laid at the door of Democratic members of the commission.

In part Mr. Hadley said:

"The much-heralded reply of Col. John A. Knott to the charge I have made, that the record of the Democratic party in Missouri in the regulation of freight rates has been characterized by dishonesty or incompetency, has been given to the public. Insofar as the reply corroborates completely the truth of my charge, it is descreditable to the Democratic party and constitutes another indictment against that party.

"The schedule of maximum freight rates fixed by the Board of Railroad Commissioners in 1904, Col. Knott claims, was a 15 per cent reduction of the rates then in existence. I do not concede that this schedule was a reduction.

Great Reduction Made.

"But admitting for the sake of argument that it was, it fixed a schedule of rates from 25 to 35 per cent higher than those established by the Republican administrations in Iowa and Illinois. It is to the credit of Col. Knott that he does not approve that schedule. It is to the discredit of his party that the schedule exists.

"Col. Knott makes mention in his reply of his effort to reduce freight rates on oil. He moved to reduce the rates in Missouri 75 per cent, in order to make them the same as in Kansas. Mr Wightman moved that the rates be reduced 50 per cent and this motion carried. What has Col. Knott to say of the failure of previous boards to reduce those rates, a failure which has enabled the Standard Oil Co. to levy tribute on the people of the State?

"When the present schedule of rates was fixed, Col. Knott was a member of the board, which was composed entirely of Democrats. Does he contend that Mr. Wightman and the Republican party are responsible for this schedule? I charge that the Democratic party is responsible for the fact that the people of Missouri have paid millions to the railroads through unreasonable freight rates.

Rates Still High Here.

"In Missouri the maximum rate for carrying a 30-ton carload of wheat 100 miles is $60; in Iowa, $48.60, and in Illinois, $48. And yet this difference exists, notwithstanding the fact that the density of population in Missouri is practically the same as in Illinois.

"Col. Knott must concede that this is true. As a member of the board he has accomplished nothing. The next step that should be taken to establish a reasonable freight rate in Missouri is the election of Mr. Flenge and a Republican Legislature.

"I charge further that the Democratic State officials have been guilty of discrimination in the fixing of rates. The railroads have also been compelled to pay a smaller per cent of taxes in proportion to their commercial value than in Iowa and Illinois. This latter condition, however, has been largely changed by the present Board of Equalization."

ATLASTA PLACE IS SOLD.

Atlasta Place, the country home of Mrs. Grace Van Studdiford on the Creve Couer line at Overland Park, together with Mrs. Van Studdiford's personal property there, has been transferred to John W. Thompson of St. Louis, in a deed filed at Clayton. The price named is $25,000, Mr. Thompson assuming in addition notes for $8500, secured by a deed of trust.

Mrs. Van Studdiford, who is a well-known operatic singer, is now on the road with an operatic company. She is the wife of Charles Van Studdiford, formerly noted as a horse owner. The property consists of several acres, and was purchased by the Van Studdifords about six years ago from Judge Henry Laughlin. The dwelling is built of concrete, and is of Spanish architectural design. In front of the property is Lackland road, and the street railway runs in the rear.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Studdiford's relatives, say they will make their home in St. Louis.

DOG CAUSED SHOOTING.

In a quarrel over a dog Fred Seitz, 28 years old, a glassmaker, was twice shot in the hip by Thomas Ward, a neighbor. Seitz is at the City Hospital. His condition is not serious. Ward is under arrest at the Carr Street Police Station.

The quarrel began a year ago when Seitz kicked Ward's dog and culminated Thursday night on a porch at the rear of 1407 North Twelfth street, where the men live.

Seitz says he kicked the dog because it bit him and Ward warned him never to touch the animal again. Very little was said after that until Thursday night, when the old grudge was revived and the shooting occurred. Ward was arrested while hiding in a shed near his home.

Basement Insecure, Jewels Gone

By way of an insecure basement window, a thief entered the home of Mrs. Bridget McLaughlin of 4567 Morgan street Thursday afternoon, and stole $200 worth of jewelry. From one of the bedrooms he took three diamond pins and a pair of gold cuff buttons valued at $50. And from the room of a relative, Miss Amy Halligan, he took a gold bracelet, a gold ring, a watch and chain and a locket.

Advance in Chicago Milk.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—An advance of 1 cent a quart for milk delivered in Chicago after Nov. 1 was decided on yesterday by the Retail Milk Dealers' Association. Consumers who have been paying 6 cents will have to pay 7 cents, and those who have been in the 7-cent class will be compelled to give 8, the highest price ever aked here.

The association has as members most of the small dealers of this city. As justification for putting up the price the dealers say the Milk Shippers' Union will demand 20 cents more, or $1.20, for an eight-gallon can after this month. The retailers say the country shippers have a "trust," which controls the price.

"I WAS A VICTIM OF STOMACH TROUBLE

GENTLEMEN—

For years I have been a victim of stomach trouble. Everything I ate disagreed with me and I did not seem to derive any nourishment or strength from my food.

When I began taking Cooper's New Discovery, I did not expect the results would be different from all the other medicines I had used, but before the second bottle was gone, every trace of my ailment had disappeared and I could eat and enjoy a hearty meal, and I am gaining in strength and flesh.

Indianapolis, Ind.

If not, you need Cooper's New Discovery. It builds up the gastric juices of the stomach, so that food digests instead of fermenting, and the blood receiving pure nourishment from the digested food, instead of the poisonous acid from food which has fermented; strengthens every organ of the body through which it flows.

PURE BLOOD IS THE LIFE.
COOPER'S NEW DISCOVERY MAKES PURE BLOOD.

Cooper's New Discovery costs $1.00 per bottle, six for $5.00. Cooper's Quick Relief, the assistant remedy, costs 50c per bottle.

Languid Liver

Is a universal evil of all warm climates, and is common, in the hot season everywhere. Its effects are quickly felt, in that sleepy, drowsy, tired feeling, headache, loss of appetite, constipation, sick stomach, poor blood, pimples, sallow complexion, nervousness, irritability, melancholy, etc.—all caused by the bilious acids acting on the blood, the cure for which is a quick cleaning-up of the system with

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT (Liver Medicine)

Absolutely no other remedy superior to this for all the common hot climate liver diseases. For over Seventy (70) years its sale has steadily increased, until now it is the standard vegetable liver medicine. Its merits may best be proved by its flock of spurious imitations. Every druggist has been imposed upon by salesmen, and has one or more imitations in stock. Be sure YOU get the genuine. Imitations are injurious. Look for the name "Thedford" on the yellow wrapper, for if you get the genuine it will never disappoint. Try it.

QUICK STEEL HEATERS ARE PERFECT—ABSOLUTELY PERFECT

DO YOU WANT SMOKE IN YOUR ROOM?

If not, buy a "Quick Steel" Heater. The top on Quick Steel Heaters has no opening, while in other heaters you must feed from opening in top. This allows smoke to come into the room, while Quick Steel Heaters force smoke up the chimney.

DO YOU WANT SOOT AND COAL GAS IN THE ROOM?

If not, buy a "Quick Steel" Heater. They have a practically indestructible sectional air-blast fire-pot, which consumes most of the gas and soot and burns the poorest grade of soft coal.

SLAYER OF BABY IS SHERIFF'S GUEST

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 26.—Jailed and under indictment on a charge of first degree murder, yet treated more as a guest than as a prisoner—such is the experience of Mrs. Enola Morehouse, convicted of manslaughter in causing the death of an infant by poison, and granted a new trial because of error, says a Wooster (O.) dispatch to the Plain Dealer.

Mrs. Morehouse is trusted in every way by Sheriff Brown and wife, is permitted to go down town at will and is seen frequently in the stores shopping. A short time ago while the wife of the Sheriff was away Mrs. Morehouse acted as matron and housekeeper. Mrs. Morehouse is a woman of some education, and during her leisure time has written a number of poems, which have been printed by the local papers.

Mrs. Moorehouse has also had printed a cook book made up of recipes she received from many prominent women in all parts of the country, sent at her request. She is a fine cook and the pages also bear many of her own recipes for cakes and dainties.

$27 LEVY ON OLD LODGE MEN

BEHIND ON DEATH CLAIMS

Levy Is Made to Make Up Arrearages for Five Months.

The independent Missouri Grand Lodge, Ancient Order of United Workmen, which seceded two years ago from the Supreme or national lodge because of an increased assessment that was a particular hardship to members, has levied this month a special $27 tax on all $2000 policy-holders over 50 years of age. According to L. T. Rambo, chief clerk to the grand recorder, this is a single assessment, not likely to be followed by others, and is levied to supply funds for a deficiency that arose at the time of the secession.

The assessment is graduated. All men over 50 pay $27, while men at 25 years of age pay only $5.

When the grand lodge parted from the parent body it had paid into the Supreme lodge guarantee fund, $140,000 more than had been paid out in death benefits. Suit has been brought for this amount and decision has been reserved by Judge Reynolds, Rambo says.

In the meantime, the organization is $217,000 behind in its death claims and benefits have not been paid heirs of members who have died during the past five months. This assessment is designated to enable the body to pay all death claims and establish a small surplus.

Much Complaint at First.

Members of the 60 city lodges, especially the old men, objected strongly to the levy. Since it is understood, members are less bitter and say it will save the organization if the levy doesn't become such a hardship that members will be forced to drop out.

"The grand lodge is in no danger of insolvency," said Rambo. "This money was owed to us and we have to get it some way. There will be no other assessments like this. The members are given six months in which to pay it—October, $10; November, $7; January, $5, and March, $5.

"Our rates are lower than those paid in the supreme lodge by those who did not secede. Men there over 55 are paying $8.40 a month for $2000. Our rate was $6.40 until we raised it last March to $7.40. This increase, with a 10 per cent per capita increase from 15 to 25 cents a month and the levy of $27, are the only changes in rates.

"Men up to 54 years of age can change over to the level rate plan, that is, the yearly step plan. They pay so much each year, the figure increasing as age increases.

"At the age of 50, for instance, the rate would be raised from $4 to $6.22 a month."

The idea is to change members over to the level rate plan, which is high enough to cover the death risk and send money into the surplus. So the member between 50 and 54 has the option of increasing his monthly assessment from $4 to $6.22 or to pay the $27 in four payments and pay the old rate.

At the time of the secession there were 24,000 members in the Missouri jurisdiction. Fourteen thousand went with the independent organization, 900 with the supreme lodge and aout 9100 had dropped out.

For the first five months after the secession deaths were not paid. Then, as money came in, they were paid and the subsequent death claims have been delayed five months in payment. This delay has worked a hardship on heirs of men who have paid insurance all their lives.

BOY IS PARDONED THROUGH MOTHER

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 26.—A scene was enacted at the hospital of the penitentiary which brought tears to the eyes of even some hardened criminals, telegraps the correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune.

Mrs. Elizabeth Free came in person with the pardon papers for her son, Otto Free, of Dayton, serving a life sentence for murdering Thomas Donnelly in a saloon brawl, who is dying of tuberculosis.

"Hello," said Free, who is only about twenty years of age, in a slow voice. "Have they turned me down again?"

The clerk said nothing, but advanced and, grabbing the sick convict by the shoulders, laughingly told him to get out and "begone."

"Calm yourself, Otto," said the mother, who got the pardon by personal interview with the Governor after getting evidence that Free should be released upon the grounds that he was dying of consumption. "You are free," continued the mother.

For a moment Free was overcome, and then he embraced his mother and said that she was the best and most faithful mother in the world.

The scene was so pathetic that those who witnessed it had to turn away their eyes.

Mrs. Free had hurried to the Penitentiary from the State House.

When she received the papers with the signature of the Governor she walked out of the office as though in a dream and could not find her way out of the building.

She was directed and when once on the street almost ran, with the papers in her hand, to the Pen.

Within half an hour Free had been furnished with clothes and he was on his way with his mother to the Union Station in the Warden's carriage, which this official was kind enough to have at their disposal.

Mother and son returned to Dayton.

ELOQUENCE WINS $30,000 AND BRIDE

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—The eloquence of Rev. Charles Reign Scoville, D. D., won him $30,000 and a wife, says the Examiner. The money came for the building of a new church. The wife will aid the minister in building the church.

Rev. Dr. Scoville of 304 Oakley boulevard, an evangelist of the Christian Church, who was recently given $30,000 to assist in building a new church edifice, was married to Miss Arlene Cornelia Dux, 4 Campbell Park boulevard, after a romantic courtship. The Rev. Dr. W. J. Layman of Columbia, Mo., dean of the Bible College of the Christian Church, performed the ceremony.

Dr. Scoville is pastor of the Metropolitan Church of Christ, Van Buren street and Oakley boulevard, but is better known as an evangelist and has held successful revival meetings in all portions of the country. He is said to be the first minister of the Christian Church who ever held union services, the church being inclined to be strictly denominational.

Dr. Scoville's marriage to Miss Dux is the culmination of an interesting romance. A little over a year ago a woman, who was about to remove to Chicago from Southern Indiana to become a communicant of Dr. Scoville's church, asked the clergyman to secure a suitable residence for her. The doctrr saw an empty house on Campbell Park boulevard and knocked at the door of the adjoining house to find out about it. The door was answered by a pretty young woman who said her father owned the house and she would be glad to show the clergyman through it. The girl was Miss Ariene Dux.

The clergyman lost his heart directly, and, learning that Miss Dux was an accomplished vocalist, arrangements were soon made by which she was employed as a member of the Metropolitan Church choir. A year later their engagement was announced.

A new church on Oakley boulevard is the dream of Dr. Scoville and to that end he has been devoting his best efforts. A gift of $30,000 was made to him recently by Mr. and Mrs. Breeden of Arcola, Ill., to aid in the building of the church. The donors were attracted to Dr. Scoville by his preaching during revival services in Arcola and desired to aid him financially in his church-building project.

LAWSUIT IS WON BY 16 FOOT WALL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—The Inter-Ocean prints the following:

John Farson, president of the Chicago Automobile Club, and well known banker, has won the fight for his lawns at Pleasant Home, in Oak Park. Hereafter the lawns of his home will stretch in one beautiful straight line from Pease court to Home avenue, and none will dispute with the sporting banker his right to the property.

It took Mr. Farson three years' steady battle and one brick wall 16 feet high and three feet thick, to say nothing of several smaller ones, before he could convince C. M. Hawley, who lives next door, that the price he wanted for his ground was too much. The Hawley homestead made a nasty break in the line of the banker's lawn, and when it was told to Farson that Hawley wanted a fortune for the property, Farson said:

"O, very well; I'll have my lawn anyway.

On the edge of the Hawley property Mr. Farson caused to be built a six-foot brick wall. Mr. Hawley tore it down. Another wall was erected, and another wall demolished. This thing went on for some time till a few weeks ago Mr. Farson's hired man made the wall 16x3, with a good foundation.

All the efforts of the Hawley cohorts to demolish this failed, and yesterday it was announced that a compromise had been effected and that Hawley will move.

Just to show that there is no hard feeling Mr. Farson mounted to the top of the wall last evening and threw down a few loose bricks. The price paid by the banker is not made public, but it is said to have been enough.

Mean Fellow.

"Of course, John," said his wife, "I'm obliged to you for this money, but it isn't enough to buy a real fur coat that—"

"Well," interrupted the brutal husband, "you'll have to make it go as far as you can."—The Catholic Standard and Times.

This Milk is Safe for Babes

Danger to grown-ups too, but especially to children.
For all raw milk contains germs.

They may be just souring germs. But even these after they commence to multiply and long before the raw milk is soured to the taste, cause trouble.

Diarrhoea for grown-ups if one is run down or slightly out of condition.

* * *

And it's so convenient.

For this same Van Camp's Cream will supply every need of the whole family. And it will cut the average milk bill in half too.

You see Van Camp's is just pure milk (nothing else) made germless and reduced to a third of its original bulk by taking out the "two-thirds water" in milk.

It is double thick and a can makes a quart of rich "cereal cream" or three pints of superfine milk. You just add the water we took out.

It has the rich flavor of germless purity.

Try it today with two-thirds water for the children to drink, or half water for your cereal, or double thick for your coffee.

Your grocer will deliver it at 10 cts. a can or $4.50 the case of 48 cans,—that's about 9 cts. each.

REASONS WHY DIEL'S IS THE BEST PLACE TO BUY YOUR SUIT OR OVERCOAT

Men's New Fall Suits . . . $15

HERE we illustrate a single-breasted sack coat. This particular cut will be in greatest demand, while many will prefer the double-breasted model. The style and character, the individuality and superiority of this clothing will appeal to men looking to exclusiveness in cut, and to those who appreciate a good saving in money on their clothing. Cassimeres, cheviots and worsteds, in a broad range of genteel grays, plaids, checks and mixtures; also a splendid line of blues and blacks. To the man who wants to pay we have a rare assortment of exclusive garments—all at a saving of at least twenty-five per cent.

THIS store is the logical place at which to buy your fall clothing, and the reasons why are many. Here are a few: No one manufacturer controls our output; no individual trademark dominates our stock—"Diel's Uncommon Clothes" are bought of the world's best makers in quantities large enough to command the lowest prices and everything we buy must be up to the Diel standard of excellence—that's the best.

Men's Overcoats, $15

OUR showing of men's outer garments for fall and winter wear embraces every known model of worth. The materials were selected for the wearing qualities as well as for their richness and style. These overcoats were designed by the foremost designers, cut and made by men who excel in their particular business, and from the viewpoint of style, fit and finish, cannot be excelled. If you want to pay for an overcoat, we have just what you are looking for.

W. L. DOUGLAS THE BEST $3.50 SHOES FOR MEN

Do you wear W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes? If not, you should give them a trial, because they are the best shoes produced for the price; this is proved by my sales. I make and sell more men's $3.50 shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

More Satisfactory Than Higher Priced Shoes.

I am wearing Douglas $3.50 shoes, and it gives me great pleasure in recommending them to the public. I formerly wore higher priced shoes with less satisfaction. If I pay more for shoes in the future it will be for W. L. Douglas' shoes. F. G. LEWIS, Gen. Merchant, 815 Belt Ave.

IF I could take you into my large factories at Brockton, Mass., and show you how carefully W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are made, you would then understand why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater value than other makes.

BOYS' SHOES, $2.00 and $1.75. Just the same as my men's $3.50 shoes, the same leathers, for $2 and $1.75.

Wherever you live you can obtain W. L. Douglas shoes. W. L. Douglas name and price is stamped on the bottom, which protects the wearer against high prices and inferior shoes. Take no substitute. Sold in W. L. Douglas exclusive shoe stores in the principal cities and by the best shoe dealers everywhere.

Be Good to Yourself

When you want a drink, take it, even if the doctor says "No." If you have a touch of kidney or bladder trouble, order

Dr. C. Bouvier's
Buchu Gin

Then the doctor will say, "Yes." Tastes awful good. Can be used in all mixed drinks where gin is used.

Bouvier's Buchu Gin is made from good old gin and buchu leaves, is a specific cure for bladder and kidney trouble. Gives instant relief in cases of rheumatism and lumbago. As a tonic, is in a class by itself.

All first-class bars have "Bouvier's Buchu Gin."

NEW BRICK HOMES,
$2500—ONLY $2500
ON MONTHLY PAYMENTS.
The best homes for the money in St. Louis; four large rooms; granitoid overground basement, with inside and outside stairways; sanitary plumbing; on the highest point around Forest Park, one block from the best street car line; granitoid walks; two street fronts with each house, one of which is made; with sewer, water, gas, all connected and paid. The basement can be utilized for kitchen and dining room, making them 6-room houses. At a small additional cost the second story can be added, as all necessary provisions have been made for this, including the laying of joists for second-story floor. With this done, the owner can collect enough rent to clear his own, while the lot on the adjoining street will grow faster in value than money with the trust company. If interested in owning a home, you will find here a combination that will appeal to your good sense, and you can obtain one for a small cash payment and the remainder on monthly payments. Open from 4 to 6 daily. Take Market st. cars, get off at Forest Park University, walk two blocks west to 6143 Crescent av. All lines crossing Taylor av. line transfer via Taylor av. over Market st. line for one fare. Open Saturday and Sunday, 4 to 5. F. E. NIESEN, Agent, Tenth and Chestnut.

CLUBS ON DECLINE, MRS. CORY DECLARES

Members Are Accused of Being Imbeciles and Intellectually Incompetent to Carry On the Work They Pretend to Do—Meetings Are Called Vaudeville Shows.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Mrs. Sarah Morris Cory has the distinction of being the only woman in New York who could stand up before a club and tell the members to their faces that they were a terrible mistake. This is just what she did to the Political Study Society and, stranger still, she is a member of this organization herself.

As no one likes to hear disagreeable things about themselves, a Post-Dispatch reporter approached Mrs. Cory with a slight degree of timidity, but she most cordially continued her knocks at the club women and did not spare personalities.

"I don't mind saying what I think," said Mrs. Cory in her home in West Fortieth street. "The whole club system is on a decline, and it is due to this fact that club women are not intellectually competent to carry on the work they pretend to do.

"The majority of the clubs are made up of mediocre intelligences, fools and toadies. There are strong-minded women in clubs, to be sure, and they forge ahead when their originality does not force them out of the clubs entirely. For the one woman of intelligence in a club there are 100 foolish butterflies who have joined merely for the social end of it.

"They immediately become supporters of some dominant power in the club and their individual rise begins through the toady system. They only want mediocre women in the clubs today and when the brainy ones do get in they find they are in trouble and make lots of enemies."

"Don't you consider the woman's club of any benefit, Mrs. Cory?"

"Sincere at First."

"Not a bit. When the first woman's club was established there was a sincerity of purpose, an aim and motive that has become utterly dissipated. The club of today is nothing but a chance for cackling and babble. As I said in my talk, one must be without originality or independent speech—everyone cackles as the others cackle, talk only well-worn platitudes—in short, just be one card in the pack."

"But what about the great intellectual stimulus given the club woman's gray matter by the preparation of her information-giving paper?"

Mrs. Corey gazed pityingly at the reporter.

"The average club woman never writes her own papers," she announced. "There are plenty of places, you know, where these club papers are turned out for so much per word or line."

"But even so, the listeners get some benefit," the reporter persisted.

"They never listen, they are thinking about whether or not Mrs. Jones-Smith will invite them to tea if they support her in her election, or whether their names will get in the paper as patronizing some brainy sounding lecture they don't know the first thing about."

"You haven't a very high opinion of the feminine intellect, then, Mrs. Corey?"

"Indeed I have," replied the frankest woman in New York. "But I don't count club women among those who are going to fight the battle for woman's eventual recognition as man's equal, if not his superior."

"Now, I'm sure women will be much more interested in that point of view, Mrs. Corey, even the club women of your description. One thing I would like to ask is, why do you belong to clubs?"

"Not Sour Grapes."

"I once belonged to 30 clubs. Today I belong to 15, among them the Society for Political Study, which contains the brainiest women in New York; the Professional Women's League and the Equal Suffrage Club. Well, you see, I joined them all a long time ago, and then I don't bother much with the butterflies. At any rate, you will see that my remarks are not prompted by sour grapes.

"It is ridiculous for women to form political clubs and think they can influence the men. As I made plain to the Society for Political Study, men only laugh in their sleeves at women who think they are influencing politics. Women are always striving after the unattainable."

"Doesn't that contradict your views about woman's equality with men?"

"Not at all. Women must strive to be ideal women. The domestic woman of the nineteenth century was nearer the ideal woman of creation than any other type—mother of her children, mistress of her household, basking in her husband's smiles, seeking only to shine in her home surroundings."

"And do you expect women to reach the pinnacle of intellectual development by basking in her husband's smiles. Besides, there are lots of women who have not opportunity for basking. What about them?"

"In my paper," continued Mrs. Corey, "I spoke of the coy maiden, the blushing bride, the loving mother and revered grandmother of many descendants as the ideal woman of creation. Contrast her with the present sequence of the up-to-date college girl, matrimonial purchaser of a foreign title, neglectful mother and that twentieth century monstrocity, the would-be-young antediluvian.

"Some women are not fitted for the domestic life. The present century has evolved many such women. In their hands lies the work of emancipating women from the stigma of being men's intellectual inferiors.

"Their Own Enemies."

"It is all the fault of mediocrity among women. There are too many of them who can't think for themselves and who are always waiting for John's opinion on this or Tom's decision about that. Women defeat their own ends. They are their worst enemies. The trouble is that there are so few of them fitted to carry out any definite purpose. There are too many gowns and gaddingabouts to interest them; too many club meetings to be attended.

"Woman's intellect is equal to man's, but if he could help it he would prevent her from exercising it."

"Do you think many men are personally interested in blasting woman's intellectual development?" I asked.

"All married men are. Most any wife who has enough sense to recognize the fact could tell you as much.

"I have been married twice, but I am free to say that I would never marry again. I could never make my mind subservient to any man's."

"Then you think woman's intellectual equality with man will be recognized somewhere in the future, but it will not be accomplished by the clubwomen?"

"The clubwoman will accomplish nothing but tea drinking and tuft gathering. Why, even the patriotic societies, and I am a member of several, are only good to keep the genealogist busy looking up ancestry. They spend time and money trying to have their ancestors located in order to get in the societies, while those who have ancestors want to get out.

"As for philanthropists, of course they do good, but they go sticking their noses in places they have no business to. Woman's salvation lies in suppressing the imbeciles who rush in and try to settle problems they know nothing about.

"Why, clubs that ostensibly have serious motives at stake are composed half of imbeciles. That's the word I use. They will be the downfall of the woman's club. Look at the Executive Committees of our clubs—I know, for I've served on many of them. They are composed of one or two brainy women and the rest are fools, proud to be on the committee and readily led, of course.

"What will the clubwomen think of your comments?" the frankest woman in New York was asked.

"Think! Those who can think for themselves will think I dare to tell the truth, that is all."

SECT IS ACCUSED OF MANSLAUGHTER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DENVER, Oct. 26.—"Prophet" Rose, head of the Brotherhood of Light, the sect whose avowed aim is to throw off the carnal for the spiritual in life, was arraigned today in Archuleta on the charge of manslaughter. His assistant, Mrs. Minnie Wheeler, is similarly accused and both waived examination.

The County Court has ordered a dying baby taken from the "Brotherhood of Light" farm and placed under the care of the county physician. The other children will be removed to the State Home for Dependent Children.

Emaciated little children have been weighed and nine little graves located. The little ones were found to have been subjected to a diet of apple sauce, dates and water.

KAISER'S NEPHEW WILL WED ELDERLY ACTRESS.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—Society is deeply stirred by the announcement that Prince Joachim Albrecht of Prussia, second cousin of the Emperor, will shortly marry a German actress, Mme. Marie Sulzer, who has been playing at the Trianon Theater for the last few years.

Prince Joachim Albrecht is the second son of the late Prince Albrecht, whose death took place a month ago, and he has since celebrated his thirtieth birthday. Like all Princes of the Prussian royal family, he adopted the military career, and now holds the rank of major in the First Regiment of Grenadier Guards, stationed in Berlin.

The Prince has long been a most prominent figure in Berlin society, not only owing to his royal rank, but also on account of his aristic and literary tastes. He possesses exceptional musical talents, and has composed several light operettas. He is also a painter of no mean order. These qualities, added to an unusually gay temperament, have contributed to his popularity both in society and in Bohemian circles.

Mme. Sulzer is about ten years older than the Prince, and she is not very beautiful, nor is she an actress of first rank. She plays second-rate roles at the Trianon Theater, where French plays of a certain character are regularly produced.

She is unusually tall, and her dimensions are almost gigantic. She was first married to Baron Liebenberg, but this union was terminated by divorce within a short time of the wedding.

PROFESSOR STABS HEAD OF COLLEGE

Quarrel Follows Students' Complaint That Food Came From Negroes.

JACKSON, La., Oct. 26.—Prof. W. F. Moncrieff, professor of physics and principal of the preparatory department of Centenary College, stabbed Rev. Dr. C. C. Miller, president of the college, in a quarrel over meat supplies served to the mess. Dr. Miller is one of the best-known educators in the South.

Dr. Miller has one wound in the region of the heart, one on the chest, one on the thigh, one in the calf of the leg and one in each arm.

Prof. Moncrieff has charge of the mess hall, and the students presented a petition to President Miller, stating that they had been served with some meat that had been bought from a negro barbecue.

The president of the school made an unexpected visit to the mess hall to investigate this complaint and several others which had been made recently, and then it was that the quarrel arose between him and Prof. Moncrieff.

AMERICAN CAMERA ARTIST WINS LONDON.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The personality of the young photographer, whose astonishing rendering of "Shaw au naturel" is making such a to-do, is an interesting one. Alvin Langdon Coburn's camera has faced many celebrities of even greater fame than the eccentric playwright of the Court Theater. Mr. Coburn is an American, and, though still some distance off his thirtieth year, has already carved a place for himself both in the photographic and the artistic world.

At an early age he came over to Paris to study art—a rare grounding for the professional photographer of any country. Some years later, crammed full of the most ultra-modern impressionistic ideas, he returned to New York, took a studio on Fifth avenue, and proceeded to apply the knowledge gained in the galleries of Europe not to painting, but to the manipulation of the camera. His amazing portraits attracted attention almost at once; and he was commissioned by one of the first-class American magazines to return to Europe and make a series of pictures of literary celebrities.

With the confidence of youth and Americanism, he duly came; and bearded in their dens such inaccessible persons as Meredith, Shaw, H. G. Wells, Mrs. Humphrey Ward, Austin Dobson, G. K. Chesterton, Andrew Lang, J. K. Jerome, and many others. A complete series of these portraits, together with many landscapes in Italy and elsewhere, were subsequently hung at the clubhouse of the rather conservative Royal Photographic Society, in Russell Square—a rare honor to so young and untrammeled a worker.

EAST SIDE WOMEN DODGE THE BALLOT

Only 24 Out of 10,000 Register in East St. Louis for the Election.

HALF OF THEM COLORED

Special Ballots for These Brave Two Dozen Will Have to Be Prepared.

The 10,000 women in East St. Louis old enough to vote at the next general election think so little of their privilege that only 24, by registering, have made themselves eligible. This is less than 24-100 per cent of the total female voting population of the city, according to the estimates of the Board of Election Commissioners.

Of the 24 women who have registered, 12 are negresses, the majority of the latter being teachers in a negro public school.

The male voting population of East St. Louis is placed at 12,000 and 9809 are registered. The Commissioners say that there are fully as many women in East St. Louis over the age of 21 as men and they estimate that 10,000 women could have registered to vote for trustees of the University of Illinois had they cared to do so.

Despite the fact that only 24 women may vote at the next election, the Commissioners have been compelled to make as extensive preparations as if the whole 10,000 presented themselves at the polls.

It will cost the taxpayers of St. Clair County $72 additional expense to permit those two dozen women to vote, an average of $3 a ballot. This will include the cost of special ballots, tally sheets, statements, poll books and extra ballot boxes. The cost would be greatly increased were it not that the same judges and clerks who officiate in every one of the 29 precincts in the city can also handle the 24 ballots cast by the women without straining their physical resources too hard.

Registration Scattered.

Some interesting facts are disclosed by the registration sheet in the office of the Board of Election Commissioners. It shows that the women were registered as follows:

One in the First Precinct of Ward Two.

One in the Third Precinct of Ward Two.

Two in the Fourth Precinct of Ward Two.

The Seventh Ward includes within its limits the very center of East St. Louis' exclusive residence district. Here live the club women, society leaders and wives of prominent business and professional men. For its population, it has the smallest representation in the list of registered women voters.

The Second Precinct of the Fifth Ward has the largest. Chief Clerk Charles S. Lambert of the Election Board thinks he has a plausible explanation of the peculiarity.

"Most of the women thought they would have an opportunity to vote for a county superintendent of schools Nov. 6, but they will not," said Mr. Lambert. "A majority of the negresses who registered no doubt expected to cast their votes for a county superintendent, which accounts for the large number that registered in that particular precinct."

Special Ballot Prepared.

The Election Commissioners have provided a special ballot for the women on which will be placed the candidates for State University Trustees of the Republican, Democratic, Prohibition, Socialist and Socialist-Labor parties. It will be a narrow ballot, four inches wide and 10 inches long. The ballot boxes to be used will be pasteboard, as no fears of "stuffing" are entertained by the commissioners.

Mrs. Selma E. Hardwick of 2621 Bond avenue not only registered herself, but pleaded with her neighbors to do so.

"I believed it my duty," she stated to a Post-Dispatch reporter Thursday afternoon, "to make myself eligible to vote. I do not care a rap for voting for President, Congressmen, city and county officers, but I do care about the men who have charge of the schools and universities.

"I believe that every woman, whether a mother or not, should take an interest that far and cast her vote to choose the right ones. My first vote years ago at Gays, Ill., helped carry a proposition to build a new schoolhouse. I also voted at Lerna and Mattoon before moving to East St. Louis."

Other women who were interested in registration work were Mrs. Nellie Harvey, 1914 Market street, and Mrs. Sarah C. Dumont, 1401 Boisenue avenue. Mrs. Harvey's husband is a judge of election in the precinct in which she lives.

TWO EAST SIDE WOMEN WHO REGISTERED AND WILL VOTE

MRS. O. E. HARDWICK

SHE CAN WRITE 87 WORDS A MINUTE

Massachusetts Girl Will Compete for World's Typewriting Honors.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 26.—The world's typewritter championship claims of Miss Rose I. Fritz of New York and of other experts will be disputed at the Madison Square Garden, New York, contest, opening Oct. 27, by Miss Mae Carrington of this city, who last March wrote 5221 words in an hour while blindfolded.

The subject matter was Crawford's "Via Crucis" from dictation. Miss Carrington's average speed was 87 words per minute. Paul Munter, winner of the Madison Square Garden championship last November, averaged 64 words a minute.

Miss Carrington teaches typewriting in a Springfield commercial school. In vacation time her services are in demand as a demonstrator for manufacturers with important contracts at stake. Miss Carrington is one of the highest paid wage earners among women in the country, her proficiency on the keyboard being worth, at times, $100 per week to her.

Miss Carrington in common with other experts, uses the touch system only in her work—that is, she has so familiarized herself with the typewriter keyboard that her fingers touch the various characters almost mechanically. With her eyes tightly bandaged Miss Carrington is able to take from dictation as fast as the average person cares to talk.

Miss Carrington, who is about twenty-five years old, attributes her success to genuine love of her occupation. She resolved to become a typewriter and a good one, she says, when she was a girl in short dresses. Her recipe for acquiring speed is to "stick at it."

At the Buffalo Exposition in 1901, Miss Carrington, with Miss Gertrude Greeley of Holyoke, gave exhibitions of fast typewriting in a booth, which was always crowded. Last March, within a week or two of the time Miss Carrington established a new blindfold record, her chum married Samuel R. Whiting, a Holyoke millionaire, son of former Congressman William Whiting, who entertained President McKinley when the late President visited New England in 1900.

Prior to her marriage Miss Greeley was stenographer for her future husband, who is secretary for the big paper mills owned by his father. Miss Carrington has studiously avoided romances. "They interfere so with one's plans," she says.

MAKING BAD SOLDIERS FOR THE KAISER.

BERLIN, Oct. 27.—The acquittal of Herr Buchel, who advised parents to teach their boys that when they become soldiers they must not obey orders to shoot kinsmen, makes a precedent in the German courts. There is a rule in the German army manual which says that when ordered to shoot his parents, the soldier must obey. The Kaiser more than once in speaking to his soldiers emphasized this point.

Herr Buchel, a Socialist speaker, in addressing an audience of workingmen and women, advised them to teach their boys not to obey orders to shoot their parents when they become soldiers.

For these utterances Buchel was arrested. His lawyer argued that the man had a right to advise parents and that he had committed no offense, since he did not advise the soldiers themselves to disobey commands. The judge, in pronouncing the acquittal, handed his written opinion, saying that as long as the law does not specify that parents must teach their children to be soldiers, no one commits an offense by advising parents to teach children not to make good soldiers.

The Socialists consider the decision a triumph and it is believed that they will distribute a leaflet advising parents to teach their children to disobey commands to shoot strikers during their military service.

GYPSY BANDS WAR OVER BRIDAL PAIR

ONE MAKES $10,000 OFFER

Bridegroom Is of One Side and Bride of the Other—Warrants Issued.

A fight for possession of a gypsy bride and bridegroom has precipitated a feud between two families of the same Romany tribe and East St. Louis officers, armed with peace warrants, are searching for the members of one family to avert a clash.

The George and Mitchell families are the ones at war, and an offer of $10,000 made by the George clan to induce the bridal couple to ally their fortunes with them brought the trouble to a climax.

The gypsies worked their way to East St. Louis from Cincinnati, trading horses and telling fortunes on the way. In Indiana John George Jr., a 17-year-old member of the George clan, married Rosa Mitchell, the dark-eyed daughter of John Mitchell, head of the Mitchell family.

When the party arrived in East St. Louis and went into camp on the Caseyville road, just in the outskirts, it consisted of five men, six women, 10 children and four wagons.

The Mitchell and George families then disagreed on the routes to be taken to go into winter camp. The Mitchells wanted to go South and the Georges West. Each family desired the presence of the newly-wedded couple, who were unable to make a decision.

John George Sr., who ranks as a wealthy man among the Romany tribes, offered the couple $10,000 cash if they would go with him.

Quarreled Four Days.

For four days and nights the members of the families quarreled and fought among themselves. Finally their bickerings annoyed the farmers living near the camp and Deputy Sheriff Harris arrested John George Sr., 59 years old; his sons, Lewis and Steve, and John Mitchell, 56 years of age. The five were lodged in jail and then taken before Justice Stanton, who fined them $25 and costs each for disturbing the peace. The fines were paid.

The couple over whom the feud started decided that the $10,000 would be a great help and cast their fortunes with the Georges, who struck camp and drove away.

Friday morning John Mitchell appeared before an East St. Louis justice and obtained peace warrants against the Georges. He said that they had only moved their camp a mile away and that he feared they would attempt to kill him and his family as a result of the contest.

E. St. Louis News

Paul Jones was arrested Thursday night at Collinsville and St. Clair avenues, after three shots had been fired at him by Policeman Voigtlander. He is charged with the theft of a bicycle from Eighth street and Summit avenue. When caught, Jones had a bicycle which has been identified as stolen property. Several bicycles have been stolen from various places in the city within the past few weeks.

The champion Alta Sita team will play the Grand-Leaders of the Trolley League Sunday afternoon at Alta Sita Park. Needles, a league pitcher, will pitch for the Grand-Leaders, and Ames will pitch for the Alta Sitas.

The St. Clair Poultry Association is arranging to give a poultry show in East St. Louis from Dec. 17 to 22. The association has just been incorporated, and its objects are to give poultry exhibitions and to interest farmers in poultry raising. The incorporators are: H. T. Renshaw, E. S. Hume, J. P. Smith, W. C. Ellsman and David O. Thomas.

John Scanlon, 55 years old, who boards at the Western Hotel, was struck by a Terminal engine while crossing a trestle near the Black Bridge near the Stockyards Friday morning. He was knocked off the trestle, his left foot cut off, his right foot mashed and he received several cuts in the head. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital and his physicians fear he cannot survive on account of his advanced age. He was a track walker for the Terminal Railroad and did not see the approaching engine until he was on the trestle.

George Dillman, night watchman for the Kehor Mills, was struck by a train while walking on the railroad tracks under the viaduct Thursday. He was thrown against a switch stand, his right hand was broken, he was injured internally and received several scalp wounds. He was taken to his home, 1200 St. Louis avenue.

W. E. Trautman left Thursday for Vicksburg, Miss., along with Gov. Deneen and other Illinois officials, to attend the unveiling of a monument to the Illinois soldiers who were killed during the siege of that city.

The Lansdowne baseball club will play the Ziegenheins at Lansdowne Sunday afternoon. Jack O'Connor of St. Louis has promised to umpire the game, which will be for the benefit of George Neiman, who had his right arm broken while playing second base for the Lansdownes last Sunday.

CITY HALL "TOUCH" FOR TEN PER CENT

COMMITTEE NEEDS CASH

Policemen and Firemen Not Approached So Urgently as Others.

Every Democrat who holds a city job, except the laborers in the Street Department, is being urged to contribute 10 per cent of his month's salary to defray the campaign expenses of the Democratic City Central Committee.

In this way the Democratic organization expects to raise a campaign fund of $15,000 or $20,000.

Glendy B. Arnold, well known as an attorney of the United Railway Co., who has been conspicuously active during the past few years in the affairs of the Democratic organization, has been commissioned to solicit subscriptions from the City Hall employes.

Word has been passed down the line that the Democratic ticket must be elected—particularly the judicial ticket. The leaders have realized, however, that nothing can be done unless the men holding city plums yield to a financial "touch."

Mr. Arnold admitted to a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday that he had been appointed to solicit campaign funds for the Democratic party.

"Have you raised much money at the City Hall?" he was asked.

"No, not yet," he replied. "Everybody up there doesn't seem willing to give up 10 per cent of his month's salary. Of course the subscriptions are purely voluntary. Thus far we haven't been flooded with subscriptions."

"They call it a voluntary contribution, but the way they come after us makes it absolutely involuntary," said one of them to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

"I get $100 a month. I've got to hand over $10 the first of November. In addition to this, I am required to contribute to the ward organization."

An employe in the Plumbing Inspector's Department refused to contribute.

"I have already given over 10 per cent of my salary to the ward organization," said he.

He was told that it was his duty to subscribe, as he held office by virtue of the fact that a Democratic Mayor had been elected by the aid of the Jefferson Club and the Democratic City Committee.

The City Committee has been in financial straits. Not until after the city convention was it able to maintain local headquarters. The candidates have contributed liberally, but the leaders say it costs much more than $3000 or $4000, the amount said to have been received from the nominees, to conduct a city campaign.

Two thousand jobs are directly under the control of the Democratic organization in St. Louis, not including the Police or Fire Departments.

The subscriptions of policemen or firemen will be cheerfully received, but it is said the demand will not be so insistent as to create the impression that a refusal to "cough up" might jeopardize one's position.

The Democrats decided not to "touch" the Street Department laborers, of whom there about 700, and whose compensation does not average more than $1.50 a day.

The following departments at the City Hall are expected to make heavy contributions to the Democratic exchequer: Officer of the Assessor of Revenue, 50 employes, with an average salary of $95 a month; Auditor's office, 14 employes, average salary $110; Comptroller's office, 15 employes, average salary $100; Law Department, 7 employes, average salary $180; Assessor and Collector of Water Rates, 60 employes, average salary $80; Board of Engineers and Boiler Inspector, average salary $100; Commissioner of Public Buildings, 50 employes, average salary $75; Commissioner of Supplies, 8 employes, average salary $115; Electric Lighting Department, 30 employes, average salary $100; Health Department, 100 employes, average salary $65; 200 employes, average salary $65; and Water Department, 150, average salary $60.

"PREACH GOOD SERMON, YOU WILL BE SHOT."

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 27.—Charles McCoskey, residing on a farm near Iowa City, Io., threatened to shoot the officiating clergyman at his little boy's funeral provided the sermon was not satisfactory, and as a result he has been sent to the Dipso Hospital at Knoxville, upon a charge of habitual inebriety, says a World-Herald special.

McCoskey was nabbed by the sheriff shortly after he made the threat against the minister, and, although he was allowed to attend the funeral, he was closely guarded and lost out on his intention to bring the parson's career to an untimely end.

McCoskey's habits of drinking are said to have been brought on by the series of misfortunes that have pursued his family. His house was completely destroyed by fire a couple of months ago, and shortly thereafter his two young sons and his wife were taken seriously ill with typhoid fever. One of the children died three days ago, the funeral giving rise to McCoskey's wild threats.

The other child and Mrs. McCoskey are seriously ill and slight hopes are held out for their recovery. The family is in almost destitute circumstances.

Kinloch Long Distance 6 Per Cent Bonds Are in Demand.

The local stock market opening at Friday morning's session was exceedingly dull, both in offers and in transactions.

The only stock in which there was any show of activity was that of the United Railways. The market was firm and slightly higher on the sales of the preferred and of the 4 per cent bonds.

The offerings made in the bank and trust lists and in the miscellaneous and mercantile stocks were firm, but above the price of prospective buyers.

WOMAN IN PICTURE HAT BEAT ESCORT

The sight of a strikingly handsome brunette in a wine-colored gown, black picture hat and tan shoes pummeling a well groomed man at the Sixth street entrance of the Equitable Building at 5:30 p. m., Thursday attracted several hundred spectators.

The crowd grew so large that the pavement was blocked while the woman rained blows in the man's face, as he strove to quiet her fury by holding her.

Another woman accompanying the fighting man and woman, quickly stepped in the carriage, the man followed and the three were driven away before the police could obtain their names.

Weisard says the three, who had been drinking, stopped in front of the entrance and asked him to call a carriage. The man and the woman in the wine-colored gown were quarreling. The other woman, a blond, who wore a light silk dress and modish cloak, took no part in the quarrel.

As the carriage arrived, the brunette attacked the man, striking him in the face. He grasped her hands, but she wrenched them loose and continued striking him.

Weisard says he stepped between them to act as peacemaker and received a blow behind the ear which left a bruise. Aided by the man, Weisard finally hurried the woman into the vehicle and as the man and other woman climbed in, he directed the driver to whip up and get away.

The man is said to be a representative of a Washington avenue dry goods firm and married. The identity of the brunette and her companion was not learned.

Death of Harry V. Lowell.

Harry V. Lowell, 28 years old, a title examiner in the employ of the Title Guaranty Trust Co. at the City Hall, died Wednesday morning at his home, 3326 Iowa avenue. His death was caused by pneumonia. The funeral will be held from the residence Saturday at 1:30 p. m.

DEATHS.

and famous shoes cannot be left out when one is making a count of St. Louis' great men.
Brown—the new hue for suitings—the new shades that have come across "the big pond" to us—cannot be left out of Fashion's favored suiting colors this Fall. Brown is tagged "it." And how fetching are the browns that Old England has sent us—rich Tobacco Brown, snappy Leaf Brown, subdued yet bright Golden Brown—neat Nugat Brown—soft Seal Browns. Some very handsome ones at $35 per Suiting.

STOCK MARKET DROPS AGAIN

Opening Strength Only Temporary—Lower Prices All Around.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The market opened with considerable strength, ⅛ to ¾ higher with not more than three exceptions in the railroad list, with not quite as good an average in the industries.

Most of the commission houses believe the low has been reached on the standard issues, and that if the levels of 10 days ago are not regained within a week declines and advances will alternate without much real change of position.

All of the old leaders, Harriman Pacifics, St. Paul, Pennsylvania and the Coalers and Hill stocks, were the best openers today.

During the two hours preceding noon the decline was steady all around. Amalgamated Copper fell as low as 109⅝ and Steel came down within a fraction of 45.

Fears of an unfavorable board statement tomorrow and of the political situation in New York State took all of the buying power out of the market. Few of the standard rail or industrial shares came within ½ point of the high opening.

Reading stocks seemed to be the storm center and it declined sharply on enormous transactions, with the selling apparently of the best. The market hardened slightly after noon and there was a slight rally, followed by dullness. Time money very firm and call money easy at 4 and 4½ per cent.

FINANCIAL.

Messrs. George H. Burr & Co., commercial paper brokers, 31 Third National Bank Building, report local money: Indorsed bills, receivable 4 to 6 months, 6 per cent; high-grade and single-name paper, 4 to 6 months, 6½ per cent; other names, not so well known, 6½ per cent; call money on good security, 6 per cent. Demand for money good. Bankers report business active.

Up to Friday morning several of the largest St. Louis national banks had given indications of their desires to take out additional deposits under the recent plan of the Treasury Department. It is believed that at least $3,500,000 will be taken by institutions in this city.

Now that a week has passed since the fateful action of the Bank of England governors, local bank officials are inclined to view with greater equanimity the local money status. There is absolutely no demand for funds from local banks, the entire inquiry for paper coming from out-of-town institutions. Rates are 5½ to 6 per cent, with the bulk of the lending at the latter figure.

Local bank clearings and balances: Clearances for Friday, $9,062,455; last week, $9,761,295; balances for today, $450,591; last week, $956,667. Decrease clearings, $698,840; decrease balances, $506,076.

HEN QUALIFIES FOR A CARNEGIE MEDAL

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 26.—With their bows nearly touching, the French bark La Tour d'Auvergne and British ship Inverness-shire are lying at Columbia No. 1 and Mersey dock, says the Oregonian. On each vessel there is a flock of ordinary-looking barnyard fowl, which are carried around the world to supply the tars with fresh eggs now and then.

The "birds" have the freedom of the deck, and it did not take the members of each flock long to learn that they had neighbors. Perching themselves in the rigging, they began "rubbering," or craning their necks to see what kind of chickens were on the other ship. When they had satisfied their curosity, it was not long until they were visiting back and forth, and they got quite chummy. To go from one vessel to another it was necessary for them to fly about four or five yards.

A little old red hen on the Inverness-shire concluded to drop over to the Frenchman to make a call. As luck would have it, a Spring chicken on La Tour d'Auvergne was seized with an idea at the same time to visit the Briton. While making the short flight through the air, they collided with terrific force and before recovering their equilibrium they dropped between the two ships into the water.

Excited and loud cackling filled the air and attracted the attention of the crews on both vessels. Running to the sides of the ships and peering down over the railing, they soon discovered the cause of the commotion. But much to their surprise, they saw the old hen had the pullet in tow and was taking her ashore. She had her bill made fast to the tail feathers of the other, and soon reached land. All the time the younger fowl was squawking lustily.

When they reached terra firma both birds wandered around until they found the gangplank leading to the Frenchman, and then hastened on board. The sailors declare that was the finest exhibition of lifesaving they had ever seen. When her visit was over the heroic old hen flew back to the Briton and was warmly welcomed by the sailors.

EARLY WHEAT PRICES LOWER

Grain news was generally bearish Friday morning and wheat prices, after opening steady and showing a firm tone for a short time, were rapidly depressed, losing [illegible] for December option and ⅜c for May. Some strength was shown at the opening, which was slightly higher for December, based on the bigger opening at Minneapolis, but this was soon lost when commission houses showed up with some large selling orders, the weakness here being accentuated by the declining prices in other markets. After the first flurry in prices the market turned very dull and very little business was transacted. A bearish sentiment was general among the traders early in the day, being created by the lower cables, the large Argentine shipments and the staggeringly large visible supply in that country, and there was very little demand for wheat at the recession.

Corn and oats futures opened quiet, with prices about on a level with Thursday's close. The only features to the early trading in these grains was some moderate selling by commission houses based on the weak prices.

December wheat opened slightly higher at 71⅛c, and sold down to 71¾c. May option opened unchanged at 76c and declined to [illegible].

December corn opened unchanged at 40⅛c, and was later quoted at 40⅛c. May option opened unchanged at 41⅛c asked, and later had bid at this figure.

December oats opened about steady at 33⅛c and later sold at 32⅞c. May option opened unchanged at 34¼c asked.

Arrest of a Negro Frees Banker From Suspicion.

The arrest of William Tyler, a negro, and the recovery of a diamond stud valued at $150, has freed from suspicion a prominent banker from the South and delegate to the recent bankers' convention, who, for a time, was accused of having stolen it.

E. C. Chapman of Columbus, Miss., the owner, will be notified by the police of the recovery of his property. Chapman occupied room 412 in the Laclede Hotel during the convention. On the night of Oct. 15 the diamond stud and $75 were stolen from Chapman and he accused another man who was occupying the room with him. The accused man produced his credentials and Chapman finally decided not to apply for a warrant.

The negro was arrested on suspicion Thursday night by Detectives Callahan and McFarland in front of 1517 Market street. As the detectives seized him, he dropped a silk handkerchief on the pavement which contained a stud answering to the description of the one stolen from Chapman. He was taken to the Four Courts and confessed to stealing the stud and some money from the Leland Hotel. A loaded revolver and pair of knucks were found on the negro, who gave his residence as 1310 Chestnut street.

FRISCO BOSSES ARE RESTRAINED IN GRAFT CASE

CRIMINAL ACTS CHARGED

He Was to Have Presented Evidence to Grand Jury Today.

BOSS NAMED SUCCESSOR

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—District Attorney Langdon, who has headed the fight and investigation against municipal graft and whom Acting Mayor Gallagher suspended last night, on the eve of his giving evidence to the grand jury against high city officials and political bosses, was granted a temporary restraining order in the Suuperior Court today against such suspension.

Judge J. M. Seawell of Department No. 1 of the Superior Court early this morning issued the temporary restraining order against the Board of Supervisors and Abraham Ruef.

The effect put a temporary check upon the campaign against graft, which is backed by Rudolph Spreckels and other citizens, who have pledged a quarter of a million dollars to pay the costs of the crusade.

Ruef's first action as District Attorney was the dismissal of Assitant District Attorney Heney. Heney was to have men before the grand jury today to ask for indictments against Ruef and Mayor Schmitz.

It is said the evidence gathered by Heney includes confessions by former Police Commissioner Ragan, former Commissioner of Public Works Maestretti and others, who quarreled with Ruef and were removed, and who will take their revenge by turning State's evidence.

The action of Acting Mayor Gallagher in removing District Attorney Langdon last night came as a tremendous surprise, following the announcement a few days ago that Francis J. Heney of national fame as a prosecutor, had been appointed Assistant District Attorney to investigate the charges of grafting by political bosses in this city.

Two days ago it was reported that Gallagher would take such action and the press has been speculating whether or not he would have the boldness to take a step, particularly as considerable newspaper criticism had been directed against him as a supervisor.

Mayor Schmitz, who is serving his third term as Mayor, having been elected by the Union Labor party, is now in Europe on a 60 days' leave of absence, and Supervisor Gallagher is acting in his stead.

Heney, for the Citizens' Committee, has been investigating the charges of official boodling and has been assisted by a corps of private detectives in charge of William J. Burns, the noted Federal secret service agent, who had secured permission from his Federal superiors to engage in the work of purifying San Francisco's affairs.

Criminal Acts Alleged.

A new grand jury was to be completed today, and Heney had said that he would at once go before it with evidence that would secure the indictment of a number of men high in public life. It was stated that a great mass of evidence had been secured, pointing to criminal acts among officials, and included three confessions.

A score of men who came into public life through the recent political upheavals, who were poor in purse, have recently been exhibiting signs of wealth in the way of handsome homes, costly business places and lavish expenditures of money.

Heney had declared he had obtained knowledge of how these men's suddenly acquired riches were obtained. It was openly charged that many saloons, criminal classes, disorderly houses, etc., were severly taxed to be allowed to flourish in peace.

The Board of Public Works has also been accused by taxpayers and newspapers with levying tribute in all directions. This board has almost absolute control of the construction of buildings and it is alleged illegally taxed contractors and house owners before allowing the erection of new edifices.

One newspaper has been constantly insisting that $700,000 has been paid by a street-railway company for certain important privileges and declared that it could furnish proofs to an honest grand jury. This was one of the matters to be presented to the new grand jury.

Abraham Ruef is the acknowledged boss of the politics of San Francisco, and commonly known as "Abe" Ruef. He is a lawyer, and it is he who was appointed by the acting Mayor to the position of District Attorney.

Ruef is acknowledged to be a man of rare ability, learned in his profession and a skilled politician. He is credited with having become very wealthy within the past few years. When Schmitz was first elected Mayor he publicly announced that he attributed much of his success to "his friend" Ruef, and ever since has been on acknowledged intimate relations with the political leader.

Acting Mayor Gallagher last night, at the meeting of the Board of Supervisors, read a long statement giving 12 reasons for suspending Langdon. Among them were neglect of duty, inefficiency and absence from the county for more than 30 days to campaign the State as candidate for Governor on the Independence League ticket.

Prior to yesterday no objection was made to his absence, the office having been in the hands of competent assistants.

"The course of Acting Mayor Gallagher and the Board of Supervisors in suspending District Attorney Langdon from office and appointing Abraham Reuf Acting District Attorney in his place, followed by Ruef's removal of myself as Assistant District Attorney, is not only illegal, but is revolutionary in character," said Francis J. Heney last night.

NEW FRISCO OFFICE.

Man Appointed to Watch Commerce Commission.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The management of the Rock Island and Frisco systems has created a new place in the official staff of the systems, both of which are owned by the Rock Island.

The incumbent will be specially charged with the duty of keeping the management of the road in close touch with the decisions of the Interstate Commerce Commission, as well as with those of the railroad commissions of the several states.

Edward B. Pierce has been appointed to the new place. His title will be commerce counsel and his headquarters in Chicago.

WINGS FOR ASYLUM.

The preliminary plans for the additions to the Insane Asylum were sent to President O'Reilly of the Board of Public Improvements Thursday by the architects, Milligan & Wray.

The plans as drawn multiply the capacity of the asylum by about three. The present dome-crowned structure is retained in the center of the new structure and the additions are made as wings on either side.

The additions will cost $1,000,000, that money having been supplied by the bond issue.

SOUVENIR STAMPS NEXT.

Postal Card Fad May Give Way to New Device.

Uncle Sam, after Jan. 31, 1907, can advertise something new in stamps, which may perhaps take the place of the souvenir postal card. After that date, it has been announced, stamps will be sold from the Postoffices here, both in one and two-cent denominatios, bearing the words "St. Louis, Mo."

The order, if it goes into effect, will apply to the 26 largest postoffices in the United States, the name of each city being placed on stamps sold there. The new-fangled stamp will cost the Government only a fraction of a cent per thousand more than the present kind.

MAYOR DISAPPOINTS CROWD.

Disappointment at the nonappearance of D. R. Francis and Mayor Wells, advertised as star attractions at the Democratic meeting at Rose Hill Hall, Hamilton and Maple avenue, Thursday night, was voiced by one old man wearing spectacles. He had early taken a front seat. In his hand he carried a slip of paper which he said contained questions he had intended to ask of the speakers. He wished to ask the Mayor about the free bridge and Mr. Francis about the Democratic judicial ticket.

Ben Clark presided. Ralph W. Coale, candidate for Congress, was the first speaker. He was followed by Judge John A. Blevins, the other candidates were present and made brief talks, and C. Porter Johnson spoke. The next Twenty-eighth Ward meeting will be held next Thursday evening at Delmar and Academy avenues.

Dowdall Is Acquitted.

Former Police Sergeant William T. Dowdall was acquitted Friday of a charge of assault brought by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Kate Conroy of 3526 Laclede avenue. Special Judge Frumberg of the Court of Criminal Correction, who heard the evidence in the case Thursday, reserved decision until Friday. He said he did not think it was proved that Dowdall had struck his mother-in-law. Dowdall testified that he went to Mrs. Conroy's home in search of his 4-year-old daughter, Catherine. Judge Frumberg held that Dowdall had a right to do this.
